

GEORGIA MUST SET UP NEW STATE AGENCIES TO SHARE IN FUNDING $4,880,000 U. S. FUNDS

PUBLIC PROTESTS MAY WHIP SENATE IN LINE ON RELIEF

Administration's New Strategy Calls for Delayed Action To Give Country Full Chance To Express Sentiment.

PRESSURE BROUGHT UPON OPPOSITION

Glass Declines To Reveal When Appropriations Committee Will Consider Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The folks back home were denuded upon today by administration leaders to whip congress into line on the $4,880,000 work relief program.

Strategy adopted by senate democratic chiefs calls for delayed action on the controversial measure to give the country a full chance to protest. They believe it will demand that the senate back Mr. Roosevelt.

With no definite plans made for consideration of the measure by the senate appropriations committee, these tactics already are producing results.

Protests picked up today in increasing numbers on democrats and republicans alike, who voted to force the McCarran prevailing wage amendment into the measure. The president is strongly opposed to the amendment.

Meantime, pressure was being brought to bear on Senator O'Mahoney, democrat, Wyoming, and other democrats who usually follow the administration, to change their position on the McCarran amendment which is backed by the American Federation of Labor.

Plans May Collapse.

Unless the senate reverses itself, the administration's plan to substitute work relief for the dole probably will be abandoned. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, said that the McCarran amendment would be so much that it would endanger the nation's credit.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, chairman of the administration committee, today declined to reveal when the measure, returned to his group last week, would be considered.

With the federal relief administration assured of sufficient funds to care for direct relief during most of March, he indicated there was no need for speedy action. However, should the McCarran amendment follow, the measure probably will be considered soon.

Although the democratic leaders professed confidence that demands upon states and municipalities for public works advocates would force the senate to accept the president's relief program, they were concerned over the rebellious attitude among democrats in both senate and house, especially over the social security program.

F. D. R.'s Influence Lessened.

Privately, some administration leaders concede that President Roosevelt's influence on congress has lessened, but other contend the "emergency period" is past and that members merely are determined to consider proposed legislation more carefully.

Nevertheless, the slowness of action and administration defeats on the World Court, relief bill and passage of the $800,000,000 state bond issue, specific instances which accounted for wrinkled brows among democratic chiefs.

The president's social security measure still is clogged in the house and ways and means committee, while opposition is mounting to his transportation consolidation, NRA extension and AAA propositions.

In an effort to assuage rebellious democrats administration leaders have

Continued in Page 4, Column 8.

Showdown of Dry Law Is Demanded by Rivers

Speaker Spikes Report Money Bill Will Be Slipped in Ahead of Liquor Question Today. Repeal Authors Strive for Compromise.

Proponents of repeal Sunday night were making an eleventh-hour effort to reach a compromise in the liquor controversy for a showdown today on the floor of the house.

At the same time Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house, spiked the report that the general appropriations bill might be slipped in to still immediate action on the prohibition question.

He said house leadership proposed to urge final disposal of the whiskey question today and clear the calendar for more important matters that had been "jeopardized."

As for beer and wine, he said he wanted that matter dispatched too. There is a separate beer bill before the house.

Work on the appropriations measure is at the discretion of the appropriations committee chairman, J. Wesley Wheeler, representative of Fayette county. It has been reported to the house.

Continued in Page 3, Column 4.

HARVEY AND SMITH IDENTIFIED AGAIN

Pair Are Picked Out as Columbus Bandits; Two Face Judge Today.

On the eve of their appearance for commitment hearing this morning before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith in connection with the robbery of a messenger of the Rome, Ga., national bank, Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith Sunday were identified by a delegation from Columbus, Ga., as the principals in several hold-ups which took place there shortly before Christmas.

The delegation, headed by A. G. Reese, chief of the Columbus detective force, arrived in Atlanta Sunday before noon Sunday and asked to see Harvey and Smith.

Atlanta Detectives J. J. Chester and W. M. Holland arranged a lineup of 10 men at Fulton tower in which Harvey, Smith and W. M. Simpkins were included.

According to Detective Chester, the visitors did not hesitate in picking out the three men they were told to tap the men they suspected. The identification, according to Chester, was complete and definite.

Harvey and Smith will plead not guilty at the commitment hearing at 10 o'clock this morning, they advised The Constitution Sunday night through their attorney, Frank A. Myers.

They also said they would subpoena witnesses who would prove they were 500 miles from Rome on the date of the robbery. They stated they established their presence and the time by the fact that Smith's mother died four days after the robbery and was seriously ill the date of the robbery. They will not attempt to establish alibi at the hearing this morning, they said.

Toledo Executive Made Moffett Aid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Ward M. Canady, president of the United States Advertising Corporation, of Toledo, Ohio, has been appointed assistant to James A. Moffett, housing administrator.

Iraq Cabinet Quits In Political Dispute

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Acute political difficulties within the cabinet reached a climax today with the resignation of the cabinet of Prime Minister Ali Jawdat. It was expected a new cabinet would be set up without much delay.

Continued in Page 4, Column 8.

The News at a Glance

Clip this each day and make your scrapbook a thumbnail history. Feb. 25, 1935.

LOCAL: Purchase by city of Shrine mosque for use as municipal auditorium to be urged on finance board by buildings committee of council, following inspection of properties. Page 1

President of Senate Redwine says upper house will not approve state highway patrol bill approved by house of representatives; three provisions said to be opposed. Page 1

Weed stuck into foot while walking on farm causes death by tetanus of Atlanta man. Page 1

Georgia must set up new state agencies to participate in pending $4,880,000,000 federal spending, federal investigation committee, back from Washington, reports; group confers with Talmadge on new plan, but results of parley not disclosed. Page 1

Jere Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, indorses Young America Club, sponsored for the youth of Atlanta by The Constitution. Page 1

Speake Rivers spikes report money bill will be slipped in ahead of repeal, demands showdown today on state liquor question. Page 1

Harvey and Smith, on eve of commitment hearing before United States commissioner today, identified as perpetrators of Columbus, Ga., holdups. Page 1

Negro trusty "borrows" police lion. Page 1

MOSQUE PURCHASE BY CITY IS URGED BY COUNCIL GROUP

Buildings Committee Inspects Properties, Decides To Ask Finance Board To Approve Deal.

Atlanta's finance committee will be asked Tuesday afternoon to approve purchase of the Shrine mosque and Fox theater properties for use as a municipal auditorium.

Following a survey of the beautiful building Sunday afternoon by members of the public buildings committee of council, which Councilman John A. White, fourth ward, is chairman, the committee instructed White to carry a favorable report to the finance committee and to seek endorsement by the finance committee.

Four of the five members of the committee were present and several other members of council, including Councilman Andrew Milam and Frank Beck, of the eighth ward, and Councilman Raleigh Drennon, of the ninth.

Among others who were present were Councilman William L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and A. L. Belle Isle, president of the Atlanta Convention Bureau.

Move Strongly Urged.

Both Belle Isle and Moore are unequivocally in favor of acquisition of the properties.

Representative Guy Coleman, the only absent member of the public buildings committee, is ill and could not be present.

Other members present in addition to White were Councilman Howard Haize, ninth ward; William T. Knight fifth ward, and Alderman Ellis B. Barrett, thirteenth ward.

All were enthusiastic over the proposition. Barrett said he would be out of the city Tuesday and could not attend the finance committee. However, he told White, who is a member of the finance committee, to urge acceptance of the offer made by bond holders to sell the property to the city.

Finances Worked Out.

Under the agreement the city can buy the holdings for $725,000 over a 20-year period. Financial arrangements for the purchase have been worked out, and proponents of the purchase claim it will be self liquidating and will not cost the city any money.

It was pointed out Sunday that creation of a new auditorium or re-modeling of the old one would entail additional expense as the old auditorium has never been self-sustaining and few such buildings are.

"Asking too much," said the Shrine properties contended that any fiscal arrangement for any other structure would be a drain on the city treasury, while acquisition of the mosque properties would not meet any additional outlay in the salaries of city employees as it would entail no outlays by the municipality which rentals from the building itself can not carry.

Paraguay Continues War Despite League

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Buenos Aires of a League of Nations ruling that she will be fighting an undeclared war in the Chaco after today. Paraguay intensifies the war along the border of Villa Montes, doorway to Bolivia proper.

In Geneva the international newspaper journal demanded today immediate convocation of the League of Nations Chaco committee to take punitive measures against Paraguay. The newspaper suggested that league members sever trade and financial relations with Paraguay.

Paraguay resigned from the League of Nations yesterday. Unless the League revises its peace formula to meet Paraguay's objections—which isn't likely—Paraguay apparently is determined to fight the war to the last ditch, regardless of what the League says or does.

Reports reaching the Paraguayan capital from the front lines said Paraguayan troops were dominating the entire Villa Montes sector. It was claimed a raid intercepting a train leading to one of the proud Bolivian outposts of Villa Montes left the Bolivians with little except a network of defenses in the main fortress itself.

Italy's Secret 'Flying Fish' Plane Tested for New Distance Flight

ROME, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A strange "flying fish" was being tested out in secret today in the hope of adding a long distance flight record to the speed and altitude marks already set up by the national aviation corps.

The "flying fish," or P. 16, as it is known in official circles, is said to look like a huge letter "M" against the sky. Its wings slant forward and back from the fuselage like the feelers of some giant insect.

Official circles indicated the ship probably will attempt a distance record late in March or early in April. Harriet after a jury had convicted him earlier in the week of killing John Gorrell, 23-year-old dental student, in Tulsa last Thanksgiving Day.

Judge Kennamer, ill and exhausted after the long ordeal of the trial, rested today at a resort near Tulsa.

No Bail Provided For Phil Kennamer

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer denied bail for Phil Kennamer, 25 years in the Pawnee county jail today to provide immediate efforts to provide $25,000 bond for release.

The confident Phil eagerly pursued newspaper accounts of the sentence, imposed by District Judge Thurman Harriet after a jury had convicted him earlier in the week of killing John Gorrell, 23-year-old dental student, in Tulsa last Thanksgiving Day.

Judge Kennamer, ill and exhausted after the long ordeal of the trial, rested today at a resort near Tulsa.

5 SHIPS, LASHED BY HEAVY GALES, SEND SOS CALLS

North Atlantic and Bay of Biscay Hard Hit as Storms Sweep Into Mediterranean.

By the Associated Press.

Five ships sent out distress calls Sunday as gales continued to lash the north Atlantic and the Bay of Biscay and swept into the Mediterranean.

A Greek steamer believed to be the Delphoi, drifting helplessly with damaged engines, and the British freighter Hillcroft, with a broken rudder, were reported in trouble in almost the same position, off Cape Finisterre, Spain, in the Bay of Biscay where four ships sent out SOS calls last week.

The United States shipping board freighter Oakman, out of Mobile, Ala., was reported in distress though in no immediate danger from a lost rudder 700 miles northwest of the Azores, with the S. S. City of Newport News standing by.

An SOS from the Italian steamer Spelatro in the Mediterranean was picked up by Casablanca radio station.

The disabled British vessel, Ottinge, messaged that assistance was "urgent" when the tow line to a tug taking her was broken.

The Ottinge was one of the seven ships in difficulty last week when her steering gear was lost off Land's End. The Hamburg-American liner, New York, arrived near New York last week late due to storms which carried away one of her ventilators and broke several windows on her boat deck.

Captain Eberhardt, Friedel declared he had seen worse storms in his experience, but very few. Tons of water at times submerged the bow of the giant liner, he said, effectively stopping her headway.

The storm encountered by the New York was widespread. Two ships were driven across off the coast of Japan last week, and an oyster schooner was grounded off the Delaware coast.

The coast guard ice cutter AB-24 sank in New York's Great South Bay when ice floes thrust a great hole in her side. Her crew escaped.

DUST STORMS AND TWISTERS RAVAGE NORTHWEST

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Death and extensive property damage today rode storm trails of the west dotted crazily with tornadoes, blizzards, deep snow and blinding dust.

Mrs. Ellen Teague, 60, was killed and 15 persons were sent to hospital by injuries by a tornado which swept the mining communities of Commerce and Douthat in northeastern Oklahoma.

Six persons were injured in southeastern Kansas by tornadoes which struck at Independence and a Wichita suburb. Five buildings were destroyed at each of those points and others were damaged.

Blizzards raged along a storm trail from Canada through Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado and Nebraska. Six to eight inches in depth at Denver, Cheyenne, Wyo., and Goodland, Kans., covered thousands of dry acres. Wyoming was blanketed completely.

Dust and snow which slowed up trains and drove sections hands to cover near Colorado Springs, whined across parts of Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Wyoming.

Weed Stuck in Foot Fatal to Atlantian

Tetanus which resulted from a weed he stuck in his foot 10 days ago caused the death Sunday morning of Walter D. Eskew, 33, of 1385 Beecher street, S. W.

He was injured as he walked on his farm near Avondale and lockjaw developed. He died at a private hospital.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eskew; two sisters, Mrs. L. E. Eskew and Miss Grace Eskew; two brothers, C. L. and J. W. Eskew, Jr., and his grandmother, Mrs. T. L. Whitehead, of Atlanta. The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtrey & Lowndes, the Rev. W. B. Knight and the Rev. D. F. Fant officiating. Burial will be in the College Park cemetery.

American Ship Freed Of Jap Spy Charges

TOKYO, Feb. 25.—(Monday).—(AP)—The captain and crew of the American tanker Elizabeth Kellogg were cleared today of all suspicion of espionage after a further examination by army officers.

Authorities announced the tanker, now at Yokohama after getting cleared of a sand spit at the mouth of Tokyo bay on which she was grounded, is free to depart.

Monarchy Aspirations Are Doomed by Hitler

National Socialists Roar Approval as Der Fuehrer Leads Party's Celebration of 15th Year of Conception.

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The heavy hand and shouting voice of Adolf Hitler banished today any immediate possibility of the return of a monarch to the German reich.

"To fools who still dream of a restored regime," Hitler shouted, "I say that what once was can never be again. You will never return to power."

The huge Munich town hall echoed and re-echoed with cheers from an assembly of seasoned old Nazi campaigners and eager young aspirants to the honors gathered to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the day Hitler proclaimed the Nazi epoch as a Munich beer cellar.

"We are all for peace," said Hitler during his speech, touching only briefly on foreign relations, "but not at the price of our honor. We are ready for any kind of co-operation. But if the world does not understand we are ready at all times to stand on our own feet."

Mainly his address was a series of recollections of the struggles of national socialism and a justification of Nazi "hardihood" as necessary in view of what he called the corruption of the regime that preceded.

"Unshakable faith in the German people," Hitler loudly proclaimed, "was my sole inspiration and sustenance at a time when the country languished in deepest humiliation, when materialism triumphed, and when Mammon ruled."

"When five Germans were together there were five parties. But I knew another, a better Germany, invisible then to most other people."

"We were dishonored for 13 years through false leadership," said the reichsfuehrer, returning once more to the theme of his speech, "but such Germany shall never come back. The German nation is determined to defend its liberty to the last. Neither will anyone after me will sign any thing derogatory to our honor. What we sign we will keep."

SON IS ARRESTED IN PASTOR'S DEATH

Would Learn of Sales of Obscene Pictures.

SAYRE, Okla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Jack Campbell mourned today in the Beckham county jail the death of his kindly minister-father, killed by a shotgun charge after the lad had been threatened with exposure for displaying obscene pictures on the streets of Carter, a small town near here.

"It was easier to kill him than to face him," Under Sheriff K. T. Henson quoted the lad as saying.

The Holiness pastor, the Rev. Earl Campbell, was killed in his home after Press Rogers, Carter city marshal, had warned Jack he would inform his father about the pictures.

"Somebody in Oklahoma City was sending me the pictures to sell here," Henson said young Campbell told him. "I guess I wasn't doing right."

"When Mr. Rogers said he was going to tell, I just couldn't stand to face father."

"He was very nice to me. He was my buddy."

County Attorney Ralph T. Hood said he would file charges against Jack tomorrow.

Hood said after Rogers reprimanded the lad, he went home, found his father absent, and obtained a loaded small-gauge shotgun. He sat down in the living room and talked with his grandfather, R. L. Grady.

Soon the preacher entered the back door and spoke to the boy's mother, Jessa, who was reading to a baby in a room and steadied himself against the end of the bed.

Hood said his investigations showed that when the elder Campbell entered a sand room, the youth fired at his father's chest.

"Jack, you've killed me," members of the family said.

Continued in Page 4, Column 8.

Two Men Killed IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two young men, one of them unidentified, were killed Sunday in automobile accidents in College Park and East Point.

James Yarbrough, 23, of Stoneham, was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding in the rumble seat struck a dip in the road and threw him out to the pavement.

In the other accident, a man about 25, was instantly killed when his Ford roadster had a head-on collision with an automobile said to have been driven by Paul Bell, of East Point, at Newman avenue and Main street in East Point, shortly before midnight.

Bell was detained by police for investigation. He was slightly hurt in the crash, but two others in the car with him disappeared and could not be located, police said.

The license tag of the unidentified man's car was issued to Comer Road, of Route 4, Hightower road, Atlanta, according to state records.

Police were seeking early Monday morning to make identification positive.

The man's skull was crushed in the accident and he was dead when aid

Hamilton Is Shot, Escapes Police Trap

MCKINNEY, Texas, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Raymond Hamilton, notorious Texas death house fugitive, escaped a police trap three miles from here early tonight, but was believed wounded by officers who laid in ambush.

Two state highway patrolmen, six officers from McKinney and Dallas county officers were in the party that set the trap. Hamilton's car with bullets showed Hamilton's car with bullets as he drove slowly along an abandoned highway just after dusk to night.

The officers, afoot after leaving their machines hidden in the brush, were handicapped in pursuit. The outlaw fled in a northwesterly direction and was believed headed toward Glenview.

Two men occupied the front seat of Hamilton's motor car.

"We are certain we wounded him," said Police Chief John McKinney, "because the car was stopped out of range of the officers' gunfire to allow a change of drivers."

DETAILS GUARDED BY RELIEF GROUP, BACK IN ATLANTA

Present Constitutional Restrictions Limit Borrowing, With Bonded Indebtedness Providing Additional Barriers

By JACK BATES.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

State agencies to handle public works loans and grants must be set up in Georgia if the state is to participate in the pending $4,880,000,000 federal spending, the Georgia legislative delegation learned in Washington.

The committee, headed by Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house, returned here Sunday with closely guarded plans, but it was learned that new agencies must be created to assume responsibility for loans and grants under the vast program sponsored by the Roosevelt administration.

As it now stands the state and its municipalities cannot borrow money in excess of 7 per cent of tax values, and in most instances bonded indebtedness stand in the way.

Thus it was learned that enterprises fostered by public works loans and grants must be put up as collateral, through authority delegated to and exercised by a state agency.

Speaking for the committee, Rivers declined to divulge the committee's plans other than that a report would be made to Governor Eugene Talmadge, who has long been at war with the national administration, particularly as to the administering of relief.

Probe To Be Continued.

At the same time Rivers announced the committee would continue its probe today to sweep out of Georgia the alleged "carpetbag" reign as charged to federal agencies in a resolution adopted recently by the legislature.

He said Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, had promised to send his personal representative to Georgia immediately to cooperate with the committee, which is asking that choice jobs in the relief setup be given to native Georgians rather than to outsiders from other states.

A federal auditor also is being sent here to determine if Georgia is worthy of receiving $2,500,000 asked to keep the common schools open this spring.

It was learned that the administration in Washington had turned down a previous application for this money from Governor Talmadge and Mr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent.

Talmadge Views Soured.

Back from Washington, the committee was given an audience by Talmadge, who said he was disappointed, but results of the conference were not made known.

Besides Speaker Rivers, the committee consists of Representatives Roy Harris, house floor leader, and Herman H. Watson, and Senators Fred W. Scott, senate floor leader, and William M. Lester.

Rivers estimated the appropriation to get Georgia a sizeable chunk of the $4,880,000,000 if congress authorizes it.

Whether Georgia participates or not, he said, the people of this state would have to pay back, in taxes, approximately $150,000,000 of the total amount. Through the administration of relief, he said the state had

Continued in Page 3, Column 3.

BOARD TO CONTINUE "CARPETBAG" PROBE

Hopkins Promises Co-operation; Talmadge Reaction to Setup of New Agencies Unannounced.

Continued in Page 3, Column 3.

ATLANTA Cloudy Cool

GEORGIA: Cloudy followed by rain Monday afternoon and night; Tuesday fair, colder.

FLORIDA: Cloudy followed by rain Monday night and in north portion Monday afternoon; Tuesday fair, colder.

VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA: Increasing cloudiness and warmer followed by rain late Monday afternoon and night; Tuesday fair, colder.

TENNESSEE AND KENTUCKY: Rain in extreme east and rain changing to snow and much colder in central and west portions Monday, colder Monday night; Tuesday fair.

LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI: Cloudy, rain and colder; cold wave in west and north portions, temperatures will fall 30 to 40 degrees Monday, with cold wave extending to the coast with freezing Monday night; Tuesday fair, colder in southeast portion.

ALABAMA: Cloudy, rain Monday, probably turning to snow in north portion, colder, cold wave, temperatures will fall 30 to 40 degrees, freezing to the coast Tuesday morning; Tuesday cloudy, rain or snow in east portion, colder.

EXTREME NORTHWEST FLORIDA: Cloudy, probably rain Monday; Tuesday, colder Monday with cold wave, probably freezing to the coast Tuesday.

ATLANTA Cloudy Cool

GEORGIA: Cloudy followed by rain Monday afternoon and night; Tuesday fair, colder.

FLORIDA: Cloudy followed by rain Monday night and in north portion Monday afternoon; Tuesday fair, colder.

VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA: Increasing cloudiness and warmer followed by rain late Monday afternoon and night; Tuesday fair, colder.

TENNESSEE AND KENTUCKY: Rain in extreme east and rain changing to snow and much colder in central and west portions Monday, colder Monday night; Tuesday fair.

LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI: Cloudy, rain and colder; cold wave in west and north portions, temperatures will fall 30 to 40 degrees Monday, with cold wave extending to the coast with freezing Monday night; Tuesday fair, colder in southeast portion.

ALABAMA: Cloudy, rain Monday, probably turning to snow in north portion, colder, cold wave, temperatures will fall 30 to 40 degrees, freezing to the coast Tuesday morning; Tuesday cloudy, rain or snow in east portion, colder.

EXTREME NORTHWEST FLORIDA: Cloudy, probably rain Monday; Tuesday, colder Monday with cold wave, probably freezing to the coast Tuesday.

ATLANTA Cloudy Cool

GEORGIA

This is STORE MANAGERS' WEEK at A & P

Gigantic FLOUR SALE

PLAIN OR SELF-RISING

IONA

SUNNYFIELD

24 LBS. 89^c24 LBS. 99^c6 LBS. 24^c 12 LBS. 46^c6 LBS. 27^c 12 LBS. 51^c

CAMAY SOAP

3 CAKES 13^c

These unheard-of low prices are effective all this week—MANAGER'S WEEK—at your nearest A&P Store. There you will see many other values—equally as great. Be sure you visit your A&P Store this week and SAVE!

LUCKY STRIKE—CHESTERFIELD—CAMEL—OLD GOLD

Cigarettes CARTON Tax Paid $1.35

COLD STREAM PINK

Salmon TALL CAN 10^c

IONA—TENDER, TASTY

Corn NO. 2 CAN 10^c

FANCY BLUE ROSE

Rice 5 LBS. 21^c

PURITY

Margarin 2 LBS. 25^c

Vegetables and Fruits

Fancy Florida Oranges DOZEN 15c
 Fancy Florida Medium Grapefruit 2 FOR 5c
 Fancy Florida Large Size Grapefruit 2 FOR 9c
 Fancy Georgia Yates Apples DOZEN 10c
 Canadian Rutabaga Turnips 3 LBS. 7c
 Kilm-Dried Yams 5 LBS. 13c

CALIFORNIA ICEBERG Lettuce LARGE HEAD 8c
 FLORIDA BLEACHED Celery TALL STALK 8c
 FLORIDA STRINGLESS Beans 2 LBS. 15c
 NO. 2 FLORIDA RED BLISS New Potatoes 3 LBS. 12c
 FANCY BUNCH GREEN TOP Turnips 2 BUNCHES 13c
 FLORIDA YELLOW CROOKNECK Squash 2 LBS. 15c

NO. 1 MAINE POTATOES
 5 LBS. 8^c
 10 LBS. 15^c

HARDING'S FAMOUS CORNED BEEF LB. 27c
 N. Y. DANISH CABBAGE 2 LBS. 7c

AT A&P MEAT MARKETS

HAMS

Hockless Picnics

LB. 17^c

Ga. Sugar-Cured STRING OR BUTT ENDS

LB. 18^c

Sliced Center Cuts

LB. 39^c

SAUSAGE

SMOKED BEEF TONGUES
FRESH VEAL DRUMSTICKS
FRESH MEAT LOAF

FRESH, ALL PORK

LB. 25cSWIFT'S PREMIUM LB. 25cLB. 25cPORK ADDED LB. 20c

"WHERE ECONOMY RULES"

"TEA STORE KIND"

CHEESE

WISCONSIN AMERICAN LB.

20^c

NEW YORK STATE LB.

25^c

Iona Tomatoes 3 NO. 2 CANS 25c
 Iona Peaches NO. 2 1/2 CANS 15c
 Ketchup ANN PAGE 2 14-OZ. BOTS. 23c
 Sardines NORWEGIAN, BLUE PETER 3 CANS 23c
 Evap. Milk WHITEHOUSE SMALL CAN 3c
 Evap. Milk WHITEHOUSE TALL CAN 6c
 Macaroni EATMOR 3 PKGS. 13c
 Spaghetti EATMOR 3 PKGS. 13c
 Soaked Peas OLYMPIA 3 NO. 2 CANS 20c
 Dill Pickles ALA GIRL 2 26-OZ. JARS 25c
 Pickles ALA GIRL 2 26-OZ. JAR 19c
 Candy Jelly Beans 3 LBS. 25c
 Quaker Oats 3 CTNS. 25c
 Salad Dressing IONA QT. 25c
 Cookies AMERICAN HOME 2 17-OZ. PKGS. 25c
 Bread GRANDMOTHER'S SLICED PAN LOAF 7c
 Buns GRANDMOTHER'S FRUIT FILLED PKG. 10c

FREE: ONE FUDGE-BAKING PAN WITH THE PURCHASE OF

Baker's Premium

Chocolate 1-LB. BAR 23c

Maxwell House

Coffee LB. 31c

CALUMET BAKING POWDER LB. 21c
 GRAPE-NUT FLAKES 2 PKGS. 19c
 LOG CABIN SYRUP 12-OZ. CAN 23c
 INSTANT POSTUM 4-OZ. CAN 29c

HEINZ NOODLE

SOUP

2 Pint Cans 25^c

(WITH CHICKEN)

A&P TUB

BUTTER

LB. 40^cSilverbrook Print Butter LB. 41c
Dixie Print Butter LB. 39c

DIXIE CRYSTALS OR DOMINO

SUGAR

(IN CLOTH BAGS)

5 LBS. 25^c 40 LBS. 49^c

ARGO BARTLETT

PEARS

NO. 2 1/2 CAN 17^c

Special Low Prices

NEWS! NEWS! NEWS!

Eight O'Clock 2 LBS. 35^c
 Red Circle 2 LBS. 39^c
 Bokar LB. 25^c

A&P Coffee Service offers a coffee to suit your taste, delivers it oven-fresh and grinds it before your eyes exactly right for your method of making.

MILL PAY PARLEY WILL OPEN TODAY

Northern Leaders Will Map Drive in Capital To Increase Wages in South

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—An effort to force southern textile wages up to the northern level, eastern governors and manufacturers gathered in Washington tonight for a parley tomorrow with the New England congressional delegation.

Objectives of the conference will be: standardization of wages throughout the industry; elimination of amelioration of the cotton processing tax and restriction of foreign imports of textile products.

The meeting, called by Governor Curley of Massachusetts, will be attended by Governor Brann of Maine, representatives of the governors of Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire and spokesmen for the New England and northern textile manufacturers.

Direct action to attain the wage objective was planned by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, who prepared a bill for introduction in the house tomorrow calling for reopening of the cotton textile code—code No. 1—the pride of Hugh S. Johnson, NRA's first administrator.

This was believed the first attempt to force NRA action through legislation, and its purpose, Mrs. Rogers said, is to open the code to amendments eliminating the wage differentials now favoring the south and the substitution of uniform pay scales.

The southern differential was denounced in the house last week by Representative Martin, republican, Massachusetts, who said the section already enjoyed the natural advantage of proximity to the raw material and was entitled to no further advantages.

Tomorrow's conference also will devote considerable attention to the competition of foreign textiles—particularly from Japan—which mill owners assert has reached menacing proportions.

Long Passes Through, Shies at Cameramen
United States Senator Huey P. (Kingfish) Long, former governor and most potentate of Louisiana, passed through Atlanta Sunday, but, shy and timid as usual, would not pose for photographers.

The Kingfish, en route from Washington to New Orleans, was too busy to see reporters here.

Georgia Farmer Dies In Path of Train

MACON, Ga., Feb. 24.—(AP)—W. Wallace Peavy, 85, retired Byron farmer, was crushed to death at 3:15 p. m. today by a north-bound Central of Georgia express train as he tried to run across the tracks ahead of the engine.

The tragedy occurred in the heart of Byron and several witnesses saw the train drag Mr. Peavy about 30 yards down the tracks before the engine could stop.

NICKEL REMOVED BY GRADY DOCTORS; GIRL, 4, MAY LIVE

Doctors were waging a valiant fight at Grady hospital Sunday night for the life of four-year-old Mary Frances Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Parker, of 843 Marietta street.

White-garbed envoys of science removed a nickel which had become lodged in the child's esophagus, but bronchial pneumonia was gaining headway and the child's suffering became more intense.

The child swallowed the coin Tuesday and was taken to the hospital where, following the usual procedure, the coin was pushed down to allow it to pass through the body. The coin did not pass through but became lodged and set up an irritation which Sunday night prevented the child from swallowing. Pneumonia had set in when the child was returned to the hospital.

According to hospital attendants, it was impossible to treat the pneumonia while the coin was lodged in the throat and the operation was necessary.

RICHBERG'S PLEA SCORED BY BORAH

Idahoan Warns of Attempt to Differentiate Between 'Good' and 'Bad' Trusts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, today warned Donahy, republican, Idaho, against attempting to differentiate between "good" trusts and "bad" trusts in extending NRA.

"You may just as well talk about good kidnappers and bad kidnappers," said Borah, who months ago asserted NRA was fostering monopoly.

The Idaho senator today referred specifically to the speech at Miami Beach last night by Richberg, director of the National Emergency Council, in which the administration's principal adviser on NRA argued for a measure flexible enough to allow a distinction between kinds of trusts.

Borah said the argument in favor of such a flexible law reminded him of a "recent argument of a noted lawyer making the best effort possible to steer between extortion and kidnapping."

"Bad trusts and good trusts incorporated into law would simply mean that monopolies were to be permitted to prey upon the people by means of political favoritism," he added.

The statement came at a time when congressional committees were being set up to consider new NRA legislation.

President Roosevelt, in his message to congress, said the new law extending NRA for two years should be drawn to discourage monopolies.

Borah drew some comfort from this, but he did not like Richberg's declaration that adequate measures to bring about co-operation within or between trades and industries were "practically impossible by the sweeping prohibitions of the anti-trust laws."

"This refinement about a law which would seek to make a distinction as to what monopoly should be tolerated to be classed good and what it may not do in order to be classed as bad is a round about way to break down and render wholly ineffective all laws against monopoly and all efforts designed to protect the people from monopoly," Borah insisted.

Arkansas To Debate Rum Problem Today

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Tomorrow brings the zero hour for Arkansas liquor legislation, and starts the legislature into the final 16 days of its session.

Each house has its debate set down on a liquor measure, the house at 10:30 a. m., and the senate at 2:30 p. m., and by midnight the citizens should know whether to reasonably expect the end of the 19-year-old bone dry law before the gavel ends the session March 14.

REV. HOLMES SPEAKS AT MISSISSIPPI CHURCH

MEMPHIS, Feb. 24.—Rev. B. R. Holmes, founder and president of the Holmes Institute of Atlanta, delivered a series of lectures in the leading churches here today.

Rev. Holmes spoke at the Friendship A. M. E. church, where he spoke in the morning, and at the evening service at the First A. M. E. church.

Rev. Holmes said in the prelude of his sermon: "The mission of the minister of the gospel is to teach the people and develop a religious conscience which will enable them to do right not from fear of punishment, but because right is right, and most crime committed among the colored people is because their conscience for righteousness has not been developed when the colored schools, colleges and universities spend most of their teaching right principles of living to the students crime will decrease among the colored race."

STATE MUST FORM NEW RELIEF GROUP

Continued From First Page.

received to date, out of the original $3,000,000 spending, only about one-fourth of the approximately $100,000,000 it will have to pay back in taxes.

Rivers Makes Statement

Rivers made the following statement to the committee:

"The committee is not in position at this time to make a full report. We can say, however, that Mr. Hopkins assured us that if the committee investigations disclosed abuses in the administration of the FEHA in Georgia, that they would be promptly corrected and that his special representative would be sent to Georgia for the purpose of enabling his office to co-operate fully with the committee to this end."

"We found that the application for $2,500,000 to keep the schools open in Georgia this spring had been definitely declined, but Mr. Hopkins agreed to send an auditor to Georgia immediately to make an investigation and confer with the committee and Dr. Collins in meeting the requirements necessary to procure the grant."

"The committee expects to hold executive meetings and take testimony that will enable it to furnish facts with reference to complaints about the administration of relief funds. These hearings will be resumed Monday at 4 p. m. in the supreme court room, and all persons having information to give the committee will be protected against publicity if they so desire. As soon as the federal auditor comes to Georgia, the committee will exert every effort to co-operate with Dr. Collins to work out ways and means to secure this money."

$100,000,000 Debt Looming

"The committee was impressed in the course of its conferences and investigations in Washington with the fact that of the approximately $3,000,000,000 indebtedness incurred by the federal administration in its recovery program to date, Georgians will have to repay approximately $100,000,000 of that back, with interest thereon, over a period of years, while we have only had expended on our state only about one-fourth this amount."

"We were likewise impressed with the fact that in the event the government contemplates the contemplated $4,880,000,000 of the people of Georgia will have to repay approximately $150,000,000 of this amount back with interest thereon. These repayments will be in the nature of taxes levied against the people of the whole United States, of which Georgians must pay their proportionate part."

"It therefore seems obvious to the committee that Georgia should put itself in position to receive its share of these expenditures which most certainly they will have to help repay."

"The committee was cordially received by every official with whom it conferred and every evidence of co-operation and sympathetic understanding was manifested."

Ruth St. Denis 'Interprets' Psalms In Dance at Smart N. Y. Church

By ELENORE KELLGROG, Associated Press Staff Writer.
NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—While the minister looked on from a front pew, Ruth St. Denis danced a "rhythmic interpretation of the Psalms" before the altar of a Park Avenue church today.

A symphony in white, black and red, the dancer went through motions which she said symbolized "the gradual ascent of man's soul from the moment he acknowledges his power of spiritual light to the final radiation."

A "first reader" and a "second reader," one standing in the pulpit and the other in the choir, read passages from the Psalms and from Miss St. Denis's own writings amplifying them. After a few verses, the dancer interpreted them to "musical improvisations" on the piano by another member of her company.

The Park Avenue Presbyterian church was crowded for the dance in the evening. Miss St. Denis, 37, minister, said in introducing Miss St. Denis that she had never realized "the greatness of her interpretation of spiritual themes until I saw her myself."

Miss St. Denis, barefooted and clad in a long, simple black robe with flowing sleeves, went through motions of tragedy and despair before a gilt throne set on top of a modernistic altar of gold blocks, in front of the altar.

As the mood of her dance became more joyful, she mounted the steps and sat in the throne. Finally she removed the black robe to show a similar long, simple flowing white garment, and danced her idea of the "final radiation."

With dancing movements she led the church members through the hymn "Come Thou Almighty King." After the minister had pronounced a benediction, she slipped quietly away behind the gold blocks.

White of hair and pale of face, the only color she displayed was the carmine of her lips, fingernails and toenails.

"The church is where dancing began, where it belongs, and where it will end," she said afterward.

"Every nation danced in its early forms of religious worship. Circumstances pushed dancing aside, but forward-looking ministers are now beginning to bring it back."

Miss St. Denis said she had always had a "spiritual dance" on every program but now was devoting her entire time to "preaching and dancing."

Mrs. Gould's $500,000 Damage Suit Slated for Supreme Court Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Wilma E. Gould's $500,000 damage suit against her husband's brother and sister and two other persons was scheduled for trial tomorrow morning before the supreme court calendar for four years.

Mrs. Gould alleges conspiracy against the four defendants, former Representative Norman J. Gould, Anna Gould, Attorney Elwood Kemp Jr., and Gerard Louis, a detective.

She asserts in her complaint that Jerry Gersgorn, otherwise known as "Prince Michael Romanoff," placed dope in a cup of coffee she was drinking in a night club the night of February 10, 1931, and that she was lured to his apartment.

The next thing she knew, she stated, she was roused from sleep by raiders pounding on the door of the apartment. Her clothing, she said, had been taken from her.

After the raid, the husband, Edward Gould, former a wealthy Seneca Falls, N. Y., manufacturer, brought suit for divorce, but the suit was denied in supreme court at Ovid, N. Y.

Recently the Gould family petitioned the court for permission to examine witnesses in New Orleans. The petition stated these witnesses could give facts regarding Mrs. Gould's life in that city 17 years ago. This petition was denied by Justice William Collins.

Liberty League Warns Of 'Too Rapid Boom'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The American Liberty League said today that the "menace" of an uncontrolled credit inflation is "very great" in the event of a too rapid business boom.

The league, in a pamphlet entitled "Inflation," commended the administration for its refusal to use available currency inflation powers, but then noted that "as an engine of inflation, credit is much more powerful under our banking system than currency."

After pointing out the authority of the government to borrow in huge amounts from the Federal Reserve banks, the league said that in France, Germany and Russia "inflation was brought on by governmental borrowing from the central bank."

RIVERS DEMANDS DRY 'SHOWDOWN'

Continued From First Page.

he said, "if it is a fair and an equitable one. It means nothing to me who is author of the bill which is fully adopted, but I do not believe in the state dispensary bill for several reasons."

He said he was opposed to putting the state into the liquor business, and that another objectionable feature of the bill was the manufacture of liquor by convict labor.

The chief difficulty to a solution lay in the plan to submit the question to the people by referendum, and a choice between liquor by the state or liquor by private business.

Besides the Griffin-Townsend proposal, which advocates a popular vote referendum on April 15, two other substitutes are before the house: the Groves-Grayson local option plan, providing a popular vote referendum on May 15 and separate elections by counties, and the Head proposal.

The Head bill provides a referendum by popular vote May 15, with total results of the state to decide for or against repeal, and votes by individual counties in the same election to tell whether the counties are wet or dry.

Groves-Grayson Plan First.

SEMI-ANNUAL STATEMENT for the six months ending December 31, 1934, of the condition of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company,

OF KANSAS CITY.

Organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, made to the Governor of the State of Georgia in pursuance to the laws of said State.

Principal Office—320 Broadway, Kansas City, Missouri.

I. CAPITAL STOCK.

1. Amount of capital stock $1,000,000.00

2. Amount of capital stock paid up in cash 1,000,000.00

II. ASSETS.

1. Market value of real estate owned $ 8,530,480.04

If encumbered 280,940.00—$ 8,249,540.04

2. Mortgage loans, first liens 25,122,546.22—25,122,546.22

3. Loans secured by pledge of bonds, stocks or other securities 22,306.32—22,306.32

4. Cash value of securities (other than mortgages) hypothecated 31,000.00

5. Market value of bonds par value 27,937.65

6. Stocks and bonds owned absolutely 17,363,738.74—17,363,738.74

7. Cash in Company's principal office 3,023.00

8. Cash deposited by Company in bank 1,203,175.00

9. Total cash items, carried over 1,203,175.00

10. Premium income on issued policies 349,894.80

11. Dividends received 490,820.70

12. Interest due and unpaid 1,894,103.10

13. All other assets, real and personal, not included above 1,462,325.30

14. Reserves for depreciation on Company's assets assigned as collateral 10,692,188.30

15. Internal 1,217,082.73

Total assets of Company (actual cash market value) $73,460,284.21

III. LIABILITIES.

1. Claims in process of adjustment, or adjusted and not due, including reported or supposed claims 238,301.19

2. Claims resisted including interest, expenses, etc. 155,964.34

3. Total policy claims 394,265.53

4. Policy dividends declared but not due 248,265.53

5. Dividends left with the Company to accumulate at interest and accrued interest thereon 927,935.00

6. For taxes amount heretofore payable for taxes on supplementary contracts not involving life contingencies 225,000.00

7. Present value of amounts not yet due on supplementary contracts not involving life contingencies 1,146,466.90

8. Reserve for depreciation of assets 1,000,000.00

9. All other liabilities 1,217,082.73

Total liabilities $73,460,284.21

IV. INCOME DURING THE LAST SIX MONTHS OF THE YEAR 1934.

1. Amount of cash premiums received $ 4,827,940.63

2. Amount of cash received for premiums 349,894.80

3. Interest received 1,900,104.96

4. Amount of income from all other sources 158,702.76

Total income $ 7,436,641.15

DISBURSEMENTS DURING THE LAST SIX MONTHS OF THE YEAR 1934.

1. Claims paid $1,126,801.35

2. Matured endowments paid 63,176.00

Total $1,189,977.35

3. Deduct amount received from other Companies for re-insured policies of the Company re-insured 10,000.00

Total amount actually paid for losses and matured endowments $1,199,977.35

4. Annuities 2,167,810.47

5. Surrendered policies 1,712,372.92

6. Policy dividends paid to policyholders or others 1,329,329.46

7. Expenses paid, including commissions to agents 135,127.42

8. Taxes paid 41,960.62

9. All other payments and expenditures 5,580,181.00

Total disbursements $ 13,167,689.84

Grand total of disbursements $ 13,167,689.84

Total amount of income outstanding $ 88,097,351.00

A copy of the Act of Incorporation, duly certified, is in the office of the Insurance Commissioner.

STATE OF MISSOURI—COUNTY OF JACKSON.

I, the undersigned, C. N. Sears, who, being duly sworn, depose and say that I am the Secretary of Kansas City Life Insurance Company, and that the foregoing statement is correct and true.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21st day of February, 1935.

(Seal) JOHN D. BURNS, Circuit Clerk.

By J. B. STEUDER, D. C.

Nepotism Diminishing, House Records Indicate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—House members nowadays are putting fewer relatives on the house pay roll.

At least, records of the disbursing officer showed today that not so many clerks with the same surnames as the representatives for whom they work are getting checks from the government.

The last pay roll of 73rd congress shows 43 house members or about one out of every ten, had in their offices employees with names identical with their own. For the new congress the total is down to 34, or approximately one in twelve.

Girl Critically Hurt In Automobile Crash

When Mrs. Carlton C. Gault, 19, of Lakewood road, was taken to Grady hospital Saturday night for injuries which her friends said she received in an automobile wreck, she was treated for lacerations about the face and head and dismissed.

Mrs. Gault appeared at the hospital Sunday night and complained that her head hurt and she "was sick at the stomach." Grady doctors, after giving her a thorough examination, admitted her to the hospital for treatment of a fractured skull and concussion of the brain.

President Drives Family Sleigh In Brief Vacation at Hyde Park

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mr. Roosevelt expects to remain at home until Wednesday night. Communication facilities have been established with the White House and a staff is on the job both at Hyde Park and in nearby Poughkeepsie.

While obviously watching closely the troubled progress of part of his legislative program in the senate, there is no indication that Mr. Roosevelt is going to step into the senate dispute personally at this time.

Mellon 'Shadow Deals' Face Investigation

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Opening the second week of Andrew W. Mellon's income tax hearing, the government tomorrow is expected to delve deeper into the transfer of banking stock to his brother—a deal it contends was but one of many "shadow sales" made with the intent of escaping taxation.

Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue, said he will try to show from testimony of Mellon's frail looking confidential secretary, Howard McCracken Johnson, that the financier actually retained control of his bank stock after it had been purportedly sold to the brother, R. B. Mellon.

Enjoy Leisure!

- Protect Health!
- Save Money!

YOUR FAMILY WASHING

- Called for at Your Home
- Expertly Washed and Ironed
- Sterilized
- Delivered Back to You

Discount 30% Discount

PHONE ONE OF THESE FINE LAUNDRIES

They Are "Yours for Excellence in Quality and Service"

GOOD DRY CLEANING

MEN'S WOOL BUSINESS SUITS 3 for $1 LADIES' PLAIN STREET DRESSES

We Call For and Deliver at the Above Price

Super-Skilled Launderers-Dry Cleaners

PIGGY WIGGLY

GREEN BEANS LB. 6c

YELLOW SQUASH LB. 7 1/2c TEXAS GREEN SPINACH LB. 10c

NEW POTATOES LARGE SIZE LB. 4 1/2c

ICEBERG HEAD LETTUCE 8c MAINE IRISH Potatoes 5 LBS. 8c

FRESH EGGS INFERTILE WHITE DOZ. 30c

BANANAS GOLDEN RIPE 3 LBS. 15c

YELLOW ONIONS LB. 4 1/2c KILN-DRIED YAMS 5 LBS. 15c

WINESAP APPLES DOZ. 12 1/2c

CAL. CARROTS 2 BUNCHES 15c

FLORIDA CELERY 9c RUTABAGA TURNIPS LB. 2 1/2c

FRESH MEATS MILK-FED LB. 29c

FRYERS Ground Beef LB. 18c Beef Liver SLICED TENDER LB. 20c Sausage KINGAN'S LITTLE PIG LB. 32c

BACON Plymouth Bacon is Quality Bacon Always 1-LB. PKG. 38c

LARGE STEWS Plymouth Oysters PT. 25c Pork Backbone LB. 22c Pork Sh'lder Steak LB. 25c Pig Pork Liver LB. 15c

NATIVE STYLE PIG PORK Chops OR Roast LB. 21c

SHOULDER VEAL STEAK LB. 23c

Genuine Spring LAMB STEAK LB. 35c

TENDER BEEF CHUCK STEAK LB. 25c

HEALTH CALLS ACROSS THE BREAKFAST TABLE!

Start your campaign for good health at breakfast—eat Shredded Wheat and build up the energy that a busy day calls for. Ready-cooked—ready to eat—always delicious!

SHREDDED WHEAT

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY "Uncle Bakers"

SHREDDED WHEAT

THE CONSTITUTION

CLARK HOWELL
Editor and President
CLARK HOWELL, JR.
Vice President and General Manager
H. H. TROTTER
Business Manager

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.
Telephone Walnut 6665.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
Daily, 10¢; 3 Mo. $2.50; 6 Mo. $4.50; 1 Yr. $8.00.
Single Copies—Daily, 10¢; Sunday, 10¢.
By Mail, 10¢.
Foreign, 10¢.
Postage paid at Atlanta, Ga.
Mail rates for R. F. D. and small or non-dealer towns for 10¢ and 3¢ per copy, plus postage, on application.

KELLY-SMITH COMPANY, national representatives, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta.
The Constitution is on sale in New York City by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Houting's News Stand, Broadway and Forty-third street (Times Building corner).

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments are not to be returned to the publisher and are not to be used for any other purpose.

Member of The Associated Press.
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news and information furnished to it by this newspaper and also the local news published herein.

ATLANTA, GA., FEB. 25, 1935.

NARCOTIC EDUCATION WEEK

Every section of the United States is now observing the ninth annual Narcotic Education Week, which began on February 21 and will continue through Wednesday. Special emphasis is being given to the importance of the uniform narcotic drug act now pending in the legislatures of 35 states.

In literature issued by the World Narcotic Defense Association, under the auspices of the American branch of which Narcotic Education Week is being staged, it is pointed out that America is one of the outstanding victims of the organized narcotic trade of the world.

The huge traffic in various drugs in this country is attributable to several causes, and the uniform law is being sought in order that combined opposition may be offered. Many of the states do not have strong narcotic laws and give little or no co-operation to the federal drug agents; only in a few states are drug addicts segregated and efforts made at their rehabilitation; public ignorance and indifference to the narcotic traffic is general throughout the country; and the repeal of the eighteenth amendment has resulted in thousands of former bootleggers joining the highly organized gangs that furnish drugs to addicts.

Despite the efforts of the larger and more civilized governments of the world, many countries, particularly those of Asia, do not effectively restrict the export of narcotic drugs. This is especially true in the case of China, where for centuries the war lords have received their chief incomes from this source. This condition has been improved somewhat in recent years but a huge amount of illicit drugs is still coming out of China, with the larger part being smuggled through the borders of the United States.

The threat of the drug addict to the public is emphasized in the following statement by the Narcotic Defense Association:

Narcotic drug addiction and crime are closely allied. The drug addict obtains his narcotics from the illicit drug traffic, which is conceived in and based on crime.

It has been estimated that 80 per cent of drug addicts become criminals. A large portion of the inmates of our federal penitentiaries are either drug addicts or were convicted for violation of narcotic laws. Thousands of cases of shop-lifting, pocket-picking and petty theft, as well as a great many crimes of violence, can be traced to narcotic drug addiction.

Our National Crime Conference estimates that each year we have in our country 3,000 kidnappings, 5,000 cases of arson, 12,000 murders, 40,000 burglaries, 50,000 robberies and 100,000 cases of assault; that the economic toll of this crime wave amounts to the colossal sum of thirteen billion dollars ($13,000,000,000) per year, of which amount two billion dollars ($2,000,000,000) can be traced to the part played by narcotic drug addiction.

Add to this tremendous economic loss the sorrow, humiliation, poverty, pain, misery, physical wreckage, moral pollution and mental deterioration following in the wake of addiction and you are bound to conclude that all citizens should aid in the fight to suppress this menace.

The association warns that "if you want to check the crime wave you must also check narcotic drug addiction."

While up to this time such drugs as heroin, morphine, cocaine and opium have constituted the larger part of the trade in the United States, within recent years there has been a tremendous increase in the use of marihuana, especially among young people. Not only is this drug easy to use, but the danger of its increased consumption is magnified because it can be raised successfully and easily in this country.

The critical nature of this threat was illustrated in Atlanta last summer when it was discovered that marihuana was growing in a garden near the center of the city and being distributed, along regularly established routes, upon which were practically all the dance halls attended by the young people of the city.

An awakened public consciousness of the danger in narcotic drugs is necessary if the traffic is to be controlled. To that end, Narcotic Education Week should serve a fine purpose.

CHINA MARCHES ON.

The increased stability of governmental conditions in China is evidenced by the report that General Chiang Kai-shek has regained control over the vast inland territory in which a soviet republic was set up nearly a decade ago, and which since has been in open defiance of the authority of Nanking.

The vast scope of China and the practical absence of fast transportation in most of the area away from the coast has been the chief obstacle in the way of the crushing of the communist war lords. There are no railroads and no highways over which troops could be moved rapidly, and no systems of fast communication.

The coming of the airplane has removed this handicap to large degree both with respect to actual combat, since the rebels have few weapons with which to defend themselves from the attacks of fighting planes, and the securing of information by fast-flying scout planes.

Formerly Chiang found it necessary to lead his armies into a vast region, not knowing where the enemy was and constantly in danger of having his communications cut off from the rear. Now he can travel directly to his quarry and his battle planes can amply protect his lines of supply.

Last year General Chiang was able to put down the serious uprising in Fukien province, on the coast between Shanghai and Canton, with but little use of his land troops, scattering the rebel forces by sustained raids with bombers and machine-gun equipped planes.

The greatest difficulty in the establishment of a strong central government in China, even in the days of the empire, was the lack of fast communications and transportation. The warlords of the various outlying provinces had things pretty much their own way because they were safe from surprise attacks by fast-moving armies. Now that safety has disappeared, and a recalcitrant local leader is likely to find bombs from the air dropping around his headquarters if he attempts to defy the Nanking government.

Further hope that China is finally entering an era when a strong central government, safe from external attack of revolt, can move towards a nationwide unification of all provinces, is found in the fact of former President Chiang Kai-shek. Although forced out of the presidency by the semi-independent Canton faction, he is still as much the dictator of Chinese affairs as Mussolini is the supreme power in Italy.

It is probably best for China's future that he is relieved of the political details of the presidency, since his greatest ability is as a generalissimo.

With power lodged in his hands, with a sizeable air force at his command, and with the Japanese on favorable terms with him, the prospect for China to lift itself out of the slough of despond in which it has struggled for so many centuries appears brighter than ever before.

Everybody knows the capital of the nation. But what we want to know is where is the nation's capital?

Even at that, red finger-nails are more attractive than the kind you see real estate under the finger-nails.

Some women dress to fit their purse, but the majority of them have a purse to fit every dress.

A woman's smoking car has been put on a western train. We bet some of the jokes told in the smoker will be worth repeating.

Some people inherit their temper, while others possess a home-raised one.

It's a mighty poor military secret that some foreign country will not buy.

You can get a little of everything out of religious controversy except religion.

The old-timer once went to the park to court, but the modern man will park to court.

To make a hero out of a man, it takes a first-class defense lawyer, or a live-wire press agent.

Africa is said to have the world's biggest frogs. But most of us are only interested in frog-skins.

A moth is no respecter of overcoats.

A stiff price usually knocks the average person limp.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

A Rumor in the Desert.

It is said that the portion of Carlyle's book, "Heroes and Hero Wives" which deals with the Prophet Mohammed, was translated into Arabic by order of the sheik-president of Al-Hazat University in Cairo and used extensively in the propagation of the Muslim faith among peoples of a rather higher cultural standing. I don't know whether this is true. But that old report came vividly back to mind when I met a marabout-missionary from Mecca itself, who told me in flawless French, that I ought to follow the example of the vicar of Mecca, who, so this apostle informed me, had embraced Islam.

Now there is no British viceroy in the Sudan, of course. There is a British high commissioner in Egypt, who administers the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, but he is not the type of man to make so drastic a religious turn-over. The information obviously had its persons and dates, for he said the conversion had taken place last year. He had his person and date obviously badly mixed. But I soon discovered that he was talking. He referred to my friend Mr. St. John Philby, the compiler of that excellent book "Arabia," who is British agent at Djeddah on the Red sea and the successor of the original E. Lawrence in those troublesome parts. St. John Philby did go over to Islam, albeit not last year, but in 1929 I think it was.

But there you are, here was a marabout three thousand miles away from Mecca citing Philby's case as an event of great importance and worthy of emulation to another westerner, turned to propaganda. Curious how imitate the urge for propaganda is among men. They don't think of it always, but even the fellow who comes up to you to tell you that he knows a remedy to take away a headache is a propagandist.

Tchat-Chewing.

I told the marabout that I was very glad, of course, when I came to the fact that you have to be in the world with these missionaries for you never know what else besides religious doctrines they carry up their sleeves but, I must say, my ignorance of Mohammedanism was so enormous that I could not become a follower of the camel driver at a moment's notice. I also had certain discouraging ceremonies in my mind when I said that I was a follower of the carpenter. I said, and intended to stay in that way until I heard of a better course.

The marabout at once volunteered to give me a better way and offered to accompany me to this end, wherever I might be going, to Timbuctoo or the edge of the universe, no matter where. The fellow talked so pleasantly that I had no my chauffeur and bodyguard, Youssef ibn Ibrahim, himself a Moslem, prevented me. This gentleman took me aside and whispered hotly: "That guy is just a tchat-chewing. He's a fake. A bum, that's all. Get rid of him. Or else let me settle with him."

Youssef's way of attending to strangers is not of the gentlest, so I merely asked the marabout to share the evening meal with us, which he did, eating the cooked beef with his fingers and drinking the innumerate number of cups of our best coffee. At the end of that meal he produced some leaves of tchat and handing us some, began to chew.

The Effect.

"That is a powerfully exciting herb. Not as strong as heroin, perhaps, or opium, but still powerful, if you know what I mean. I soon spat out a lot of I was chewing, feeling a headache coming on. But the marabout went on and showed it. He told us that he knew a place where there was plenty of tchat and since it is very expensive to the natives, he had brought some for us. We accepted it, and our car with it—and enter the dose-trance."

"I told you," said Youssef, "that this is a fakir."

We left him sleeping off his tchat-jazz, after he had given us a lot of trouble.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

NEWER KNOWLEDGE OF NEURITIS.

Beriberi (in Greek this word means extreme weakness) is a deficiency disease occurring in tropical countries but occasionally in this country. Another name for it is polyneuritis or multiple neuritis. The cause is lack of vitamin B in the diet. The lack of vitamin B in the diet is the cause of addition of foods rich in vitamin B or administration of vitamin B as medicine.

Multiple neuritis in this country is more commonly seen in persons who have been hard drinkers. Heretofore the condition has been assumed to be due to alcohol poisoning. Recently, however, clinical experience, which after all, is the best medical authority, has taught us that hypovitaminosis is an important factor in the cause of multiple neuritis in inebriates. Heavy drinkers are not only poor eaters, that is, when on a bout they desire little or no food, but also they can get plenty of liquor, and not only that, but they are likely to vomit if they do try to eat. Thus they fail to get the vitamin required to maintain systemic functions, and the result is the same as in the development of beriberi in the orient on a diet of polished rice.

A peculiar mental disorder occurring in habitual drinkers and in some other kinds of chronic intoxication is called Korsakow's psychosis. This is not delirium tremens, but rather a less violent confusion. It is often associated with polyneuritis. This psychosis, too, responds to vitamin therapy.

Much of the so-called "neuritis" of the viscera lately is not neuritis at all. There is a fashion with half-informed or misinformed people, calling their vague aches or pains "neuritis" instead of calling them "rheumatism" and the fashionable term means no more than the old term did. I cannot speak as positively about simple neuritis as yet, but from brown to white, the evidence is increasing that a partial deficiency of one or more vitamins may be an important factor in the cause of simple neuritis in many cases of obscure character. I offer this suggestion merely as a hint. Take it or leave it. In any case it can do no harm to make the therapeutic test—that is, to take an optimal vitamin ration for a month or two and see whether improved nutrition will not bring relief to the neuritis. Of course the proper remedial diet for neuritis due to lead, arsenic or other specific conditions should not be neglected—vitamin therapy should always be supplementary.

Several years ago I received a series of striking reports from readers who declared they had experienced great benefit from the liberal use of wheat germ instead of ordinary flour. Wheat germ or embryo is discarded from flour as a rule. Indeed, it has been deemed suitable only for feed for animals. However, the germ of embryo contains most of the vitamin B and all of the vitamin E. Perhaps the optimal ration of vitamin B those readers got by using wheat germ accounted for the benefits they observed, for what they called "chronic rheumatism."

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

LETTERS WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The mailman is the biggest influence on congress. He can spread an inside alarm faster than anyone else. Even the president cannot generally prevail against him.

This tells the whole inside story of what happened to Mr. Roosevelt in his relief wage dispute with the senate. Of course there is a suspicion that the man behind the mailman in this presidential defeat was Mr. William (Dear Bill) Green, of the A. F. of L. At least his labor rainmakers inspired as much of the postal deluge as they could.

This is only a symptom, however, of a much more serious inner situation now being created in congress by letters from the folks back home. Several senators (most of them midwesterners), will tell you privately that their mail a year ago was largely made up of demands that they stand by the president. Now they can show you stacks of letters demanding that they resist the delegation of broad relief powers which the president has been seeking.

Such evidence may not mean anything so far as gauging public sentiment is concerned. But it certainly means congressmen, particularly the new ones, are mulling new thoughts in their minds.

MISINFORMATION What hurt Mr. Roosevelt so much was the fact that his letter of personal appeal was read to the senate just before the vote. It may now be denied, but that letter would not have been read had he known he was going to be defeated. It was submitted because he had erroneous private information about the expected result.

Somewhat the same slip-up occurred in the World Court fight. The president had no information then that he was going to be licked, until it was too late to do anything about it.

This matter was taken up inside the White House the day after the wage defeat. Some new arrangements are going to be made whereby Mr. Roosevelt may know more accurately how the senate is lined up. There is some talk about an arrangement whereby the leaders report to him twice a day on such important matters.

LOYALTY From a practical standpoint, the defeat did not amount to much. Mr. Roosevelt will get the kind of relief bill he wants after the senate gets through with it. The house will stand by him and force the senate to retreat from the positions it is now taking.

You may have noticed that the very day of the senate defeat, Speaker Byrns announced to the house that 10,000 jobs in the CCC were going to be allotted to congressmen for distribution. That gravy bowl came in the nick of time. Some democrats in the house have been very much displeased at the way the senators have been rebelling and getting in good with the labor vote. House democratic members had to stand by the president and take their chances on incurring the wrath of labor voters. They do not think that was fair.

CORDIALITY A. F. L.-er Green appeared at a White House reception the night of his senate victory over the unionists. He stood in line like the others. There was some speculation as to how he might be received. Finally he reached the president, who grasped his hand and smiled cordially.

"Well, 'Dear Bill'."

FORCE Military intelligence has some interesting private figures on the soviet forces in the far east. These may explain why Japan has recently manifested a reluctance to goad the soviet. They indicate that the Russian far eastern army numbers between 200,000 and 250,000 men, including 10,000 cavalry; 50 heavy guns; 500 field guns; 400 tanks; between 4,000 and 5,000 machine guns; and 500 airplanes, including a few long-range bombers.

COLONIZATION A new reason why Japan eyes the soviet with distrust has been obtained by our officials lately from Japanese sources. This information indicates that Moscow is now working on a plan to settle permanently 1,200,000 colonists from European Russia in the far east. The Japanese seem to fear, with reason, that this colony in Siberia and Mongolia may prove to be a base for the spread of revolutionary activity in the orient.

With communism already spreading through six Chinese provinces and social unrest increasing in Japan proper, Tokyo has a problem on its hands, about which it will do little talking out loud.

NOTES Radio officials say Huey Long's three broadcasts did not cost him a cent. He was given the three half-hour periods free on the ground that he was "an important character of news interest." The radio companies received, they say, 68,000 letters from the first broadcast.

The nation is getting healthier if not wealthier. A census for 86 cities shows a mortality rate of 12.6 this year, compared with 13.6 last year.

There was no notice given it, but the erstwhile politically great John J. Raskob resigned recently from Mr. Roosevelt's business liaison body and went on a trip around the world.

Officials of the AAA, perturbed about leaks of official information, tracked down one recently and found that a bureau chief was privately informing a processor what was going on in the department. The offender was not one of those later removed.

A newsmen who lost his job recently when Mr. Roosevelt vetoed against the newspaper guild has been taken into the New Deal fold and given a regional AAA job on the Pacific coast.

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon.)

It Isn't Bravery That Ennables the Lion To Stand Before a Fox

By Robert Quillen

When the world was young, and full of dreadful perils for mankind, it is quite probable that all human beings lived on the verge of terror. There were enormous lizard-like creatures—the dragons of legend and mythology—that could devour a man at one bite. There were giant bears, huge wolves and great sabre-toothed tigers. And jungle and grass were awash with serpents. Unarmed men had reason to be afraid.

It was then, of course, that men first learned to value courage. No doubt there were many times when one man, less terrorized than his neighbors, saved them all by daring to stand and fight.

Through all the ages, courage has been the first and chief food for man's vanity. Today, though dangers are few and the need of courage infrequent, the heroes of fact and fiction are the fearless.

Yet those who are afraid need not feel ashamed, for it is doubtful whether there is such a thing on earth as absolute courage.

The big man strides forward ready to fight, but he is facing a smaller one and has no reason to fear.

Another rushes into conflict against an equal, but he is frenzied and supported by rage.

Men who have skill in fighting assault men without skill; the armed assault the unarmed. Others who seem brave are supported by the presence of admiring spectators, by urgent necessity, by religious or partisan zeal, by hope of reward, by fear of criticism, by the elbow touch of comrades.

The test of absolute courage would be to stand alone, far from other men, without hope of gain or benefit of desertion, and there face awful death rather than sacrifice self-respect in flight. And men who could do that are few.

It is one thing to hit a smaller man who is unarmed and another to wake in a mountain cabin in the midst of black night and hear the dry, angry whirr of a rattler beside your bunk.

To be afraid is not a disgrace. It is a weakness, and a protection, shared by all animals.

The need of physical courage grows less. Moral force is replacing physical force, and the new measure of manhood is moral courage.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

NRA Exempts Mill To Train Negroes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP) NRA has exempted the Southland Manufacturing Company, Montgomery, Ala., from the provisions of the cotton garment codes so that the plant can reopen and rehire negro workers at less than the code's minimum wage.

The exemption was granted, it was said, to give the negro workers an opportunity to learn the trade so that they can compete with experienced white workers. The exemption is for six months, is restricted, and officials said it established no precedent.

germ or embryo is discarded from flour as a rule. Indeed, it has been deemed suitable only for feed for animals. However, the germ of embryo contains most of the vitamin B and all of the vitamin E. Perhaps the optimal ration of vitamin B those readers got by using wheat germ accounted for the benefits they observed, for what they called "chronic rheumatism."

FAIR WEIGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Through NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—In "The Ringer," plane words than those of Charles E. Hughes, the United States government has elected to take a bath in the gold clause embarrasment.

The process is also known as going through the ringer, with the difference, however, that in the bankruptcy courts the debtor is required to toss all his possessions onto the blanket to be apportioned among his creditors with his ownings. There is also a provision that if the debtor, on being stripped down for concealed assets, is discovered to be wearing his gold clause embarrasment, he may be prosecuted and possibly sent to Alcatraz or Atlanta.

This has been known to occur. In the case of the government's bath, however, it was obviously expedient to toss the assets onto the blanket and divvy up. At a forced sale, the Panama Canal, the Commerce building, the aquarium and the navy would bring only nicked money and the country had an interest in the case which happened to be more important than a mere question of honesty.

But, instead of saying that Uncle Sam was short in the reach and couldn't pay, the majority patriotically took the rap and sought a round-about way to the conclusion that he didn't want to pay at least until he was willing and better able. It is no wonder then, that the majority judgment caused so much confusion, considering that the majority was far more difficult task of trying to write out the damned spot. The minority, on the other hand, Justice McReynolds speaking, had only to point to the damned spot and say, "But it's still there."

And sure as you are born, there the damned spot is.

No Fault Certainly, in all the editorial and other criticism which has been directed at Justice McReynolds, nobody has yet undertaken to refute what he found in the bonds, the main objection being that he wasn't a good fellow. But it was no fault of his that the defendant overpromised and finally had to offer a settlement on the basis of baloney for gold.

It is just pals that are wanted on the difference of opinion not a disposition to give a break to a good guy who is up against it but in these hustling best he can get along.

There should also be established an official list of the good guys who are entitled to these breaks, for the guidance of the honorable court.

Under the existing scheme, however, there are supposed to be called their exactly as they see them and the minority certainly saw precisely what anyone else may see who can establish relationship to a bond long enough to read the text.

The privacy of the supreme court is a mysterious realm but Justice McReynolds popped up a window shade long enough to reveal a glimpse of his life. The life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men being inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

Perhaps, in the long run, the minority will prove to have been as good fellows as the majority now appears to have been. There were wise predictions of chaos and ruin by noted experts no matter which side won. Justice McReynolds pointed out that the life of the nine men beings inside the flowing black robes. The words "shame," "humiliation," "repudiation" and "abhorrent" suggested a difference of opinion not altogether intellectual and the existence of human feeling in a group of supermen in whom the citizens, by tradition, believed there was no feeling but only thought.

Curiosity It is well that Justice McReynolds was not too far from the truth when he said that he was not a good fellow. He was not a good fellow, but he was a good fellow, sharply aroused by the strength of the language which he did permit himself to use. He hardly be commanded to quit cold and pry no further.

CARRIERS' MERGER OPPOSITION RISES

Possibility of Legislative Action at Present Session Lessened.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Members of the senate and house interstate commerce committees conceded privately today that the proposal of President Roosevelt to merge all transportation regulatory agencies into one unit was faced by opposition so strong as to give it little chance of enactment at this session.

Opposition, they said, was centered chiefly on the measure recommended by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation co-ordinator, to set up a board of control in an interstate commerce commission increased to 16 members and headed by a co-ordinator. The interstate commerce commission has protested to congress against the Eastman reorganization measure.

Neither Chairman Wheeler, democrat, Montana, of the senate interstate commerce committee, nor Chairman Rayburn, democrat, Texas, of the house group have planned hearings on the Eastman reorganization measure.

A house subcommittee headed by Representative Huddleston, democrat, Alabama, however, is considering the motor bus regulation bill, on which hearings will start before the senate committee tomorrow.

Action on the Eastman reorganization proposal is dependent upon congressional approval of the motor bus and water carrier bills. Under existing law, the office of co-ordinator expires in June. Senator Wheeler said that if the measures did not get through by then it might be possible that congress would continue the agency for another year.

Opposition to the Eastman proposal on Capitol Hill is based on the ground that the interstate commerce commission is an agency of congress with quasi-legislative functions and is not a part of the executive branch. The Eastman bill provides, however, that the president shall designate a member of the commission as co-ordinator, and shall have the right to re-appoint him at any time. In addition, it provides that the co-ordinator shall "consult and advise with the president, and as a liaison officer for the president, with all government departments and agencies having to do with transportation."

One critic of the measure who at present desired his name be not used but who said he publicly would fight the bill if it came up in congress, declared "this would make Eastman the czar of the railroads so that he could plunge us into government ownership of the 'carriers'."

In addition, he said, "the Eastman bill creates a control board, or a super-commission within the commission. The co-ordinator also would be given the right to control the railroads and they and the shippers, if dissatisfied, then would have to appeal to the control board. Any violation of the co-ordinator's rulings, meantime, would subject the offenders to a fine up to $20,000 for each day of violation."

DAVISON'S TO DISPLAY NEW PARIS FASHIONS

Fashions fresh from Paris and New York will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Davison's restaurant, on the sixth floor. The parade of models will take place at 3:15 o'clock. Miss Sally Courtright, theatrical fashionist, has brought trunks packed with ahead-of-the-minute fashions. Fashions for average-size women, styles becoming to women with larger hips, the proper styles for little women and costumes for junior misses will be shown.

Miss Courtright will explain how one can reproduce each costume, and what should be worn with it. She also will be glad to make appointments for private consultations on individual costume problems. Highlights on the Regency fashion flurry, on smart new trimmings, on accessories, on proper skirt lengths will be included.

S. C. DELEGATION HERE TO DISCUSS NEW PRISON PLANS

Methods of financing Georgia's new $2,000,000 state prison at Taittall will be discussed today with Governor Eugene Talmadge by members of the prison building commission of the South Carolina legislature.

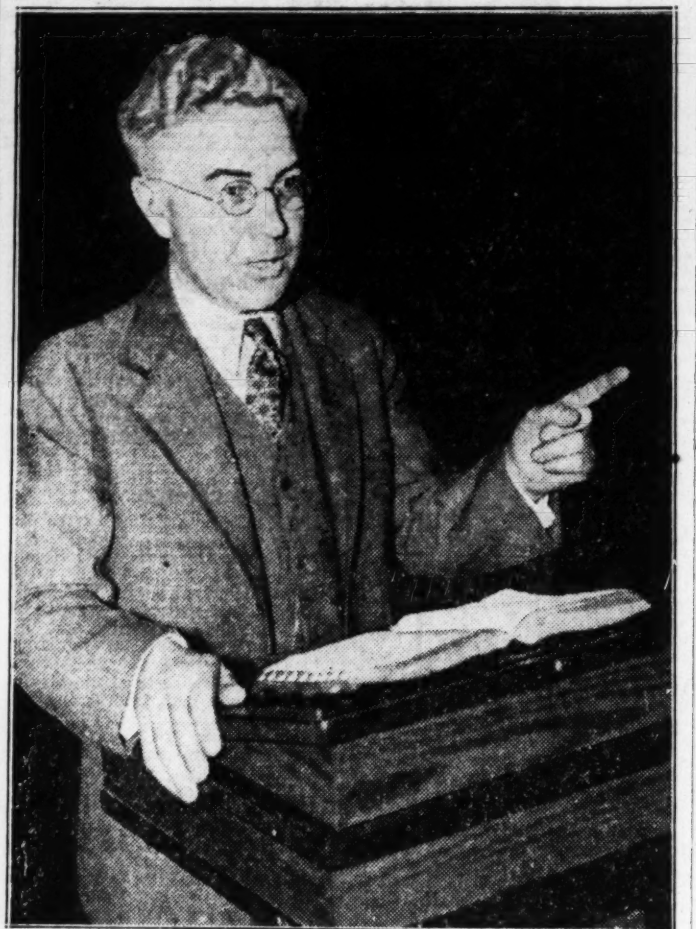

Representative Ben E. Adams, Columbia, S. C., newspaper editor, said Sunday that South Carolina is anxious to construct a new prison to accommodate 1,200 to 1,500 prisoners and the commission will study the program used by Georgia in financing the project. Adams heads a committee composed of Representative E. W. Stevens and Representative R. G. Blackburn. After conferences today with Governor Talmadge, Judge Vivian G. Stanley, of the Georgia prison commission, and Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans, the South Carolinians will return to Columbia.

The travelers, Anita and Armando Guerra, sister and brother, and Margaret Cabrera, were released by the Atlanta authorities when advised by W. D. Bush, chief of detectives at Tampa, that the parents were powerless to assist them.

"We'll get home all right," they told police as several of the officers contributed a small purse to provide them with some food on their trip back to Tampa.

The newspaper said Mitchell had threatened to kill the reporter if he carried his name in the Daily Tribune again.

Story of the Good Samaritan Discussed in Armor's Sermon

The Rev. Robert L. Armor, pastor of the Patillo Memorial Methodist church, Decatur, shown in his pulpit. Staff photo.

Editor's Note—The Constitution this morning presents the seventh of a series of features dealing with Atlanta ministers and their sermons. On succeeding Monday mornings, other clergymen will be shown in their pulpits, together with abstracts of their messages.

The Rev. Robert L. Armor, preaching Sunday in his church, the Patillo Memorial Methodist, Decatur, spoke on "Which of These Three, Thinketh Thou, Was Neighbor Unto Him that Fell Among the Thieves?" Luke 10:36. An abstract of his sermon follows:

"Jesus came to seek and to save that which was lost, or rather he came with a program of living which, if adopted and lived by his followers, would give every person an opportunity to develop into that for which he or she is capable."

"In addition," he said, "the Eastman bill creates a control board, or a super-commission within the commission. The co-ordinator also would be given the right to control the railroads and they and the shippers, if dissatisfied, then would have to appeal to the control board. Any violation of the co-ordinator's rulings, meantime, would subject the offenders to a fine up to $20,000 for each day of violation."

Opposition to the Eastman proposal on Capitol Hill is based on the ground that the interstate commerce commission is an agency of congress with quasi-legislative functions and is not a part of the executive branch. The Eastman bill provides, however, that the president shall designate a member of the commission as co-ordinator, and shall have the right to re-appoint him at any time. In addition, it provides that the co-ordinator shall "consult and advise with the president, and as a liaison officer for the president, with all government departments and agencies having to do with transportation."

One critic of the measure who at present desired his name be not used but who said he publicly would fight the bill if it came up in congress, declared "this would make Eastman the czar of the railroads so that he could plunge us into government ownership of the 'carriers'."

In addition, he said, "the Eastman bill creates a control board, or a super-commission within the commission. The co-ordinator also would be given the right to control the railroads and they and the shippers, if dissatisfied, then would have to appeal to the control board. Any violation of the co-ordinator's rulings, meantime, would subject the offenders to a fine up to $20,000 for each day of violation."

DAVISON'S TO DISPLAY NEW PARIS FASHIONS

Fashions fresh from Paris and New York will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Davison's restaurant, on the sixth floor. The parade of models will take place at 3:15 o'clock. Miss Sally Courtright, theatrical fashionist, has brought trunks packed with ahead-of-the-minute fashions. Fashions for average-size women, styles becoming to women with larger hips, the proper styles for little women and costumes for junior misses will be shown.

Miss Courtright will explain how one can reproduce each costume, and what should be worn with it. She also will be glad to make appointments for private consultations on individual costume problems. Highlights on the Regency fashion flurry, on smart new trimmings, on accessories, on proper skirt lengths will be included.

S. C. DELEGATION HERE TO DISCUSS NEW PRISON PLANS

Methods of financing Georgia's new $2,000,000 state prison at Taittall will be discussed today with Governor Eugene Talmadge by members of the prison building commission of the South Carolina legislature.

Representative Ben E. Adams, Columbia, S. C., newspaper editor, said Sunday that South Carolina is anxious to construct a new prison to accommodate 1,200 to 1,500 prisoners and the commission will study the program used by Georgia in financing the project. Adams heads a committee composed of Representative E. W. Stevens and Representative R. G. Blackburn. After conferences today with Governor Talmadge, Judge Vivian G. Stanley, of the Georgia prison commission, and Attorney-General M. J. Yeomans, the South Carolinians will return to Columbia.

The travelers, Anita and Armando Guerra, sister and brother, and Margaret Cabrera, were released by the Atlanta authorities when advised by W. D. Bush, chief of detectives at Tampa, that the parents were powerless to assist them.

"We'll get home all right," they told police as several of the officers contributed a small purse to provide them with some food on their trip back to Tampa.

The newspaper said Mitchell had threatened to kill the reporter if he carried his name in the Daily Tribune again.

New 'West Point' Urged To Train U. S. Officials

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A "West Point" to train federal administrative officers is an American need, Dr. Leonard D. White, United States civil service commissioner, believes.

Such a plan, Dr. White said in an address at the University of Chicago, would develop a non-political and "brilliant" federal administrative corps assured of careers apart from whims of political change.

neighbor? Jesus answers him by telling the story of the Good Samaritan.

Answered Own Questions.

"2. The lawyer asked Jesus two questions and with the force of the story of the Good Samaritan was compelled to answer his own questions. The question 'What shall I do to inherit eternal life?' was answered by the statement, 'By showing mercy.' 'Who is my neighbor?' and the lawyer answered by saying, 'Any person in need of mercy is my neighbor.' 'For us to ask the question, 'Who is my neighbor?' condemns us just as it did the lawyer. A true neighbor cares no more for the lines which separate men into races, conditions and circumstances, than does the sunshine and the rain care for the lines on the maps which separate the world into nations, states and counties."

"In this story of the Good Samaritan Jesus tells us frankly, 'I do not know who your neighbor will be, but as you live your life your neighbor will be revealed. He will not be of any one class, nation, or race. He may be brown, white, black or yellow.' True neighborliness is made co-extensive with humanity. Any human being with whom you come in contact, either directly or indirectly, is your neighbor. The point in this story for the Christian is not the question of 'Who is my neighbor?' but, 'To whom have I been a neighbor?'"

Robber Saw Material Things.

"3. The robber saw in the victim only his money, his clothes, and other material possessions. The priest saw a bleeding body, but with no response in his heart. The Good Samaritan saw the value of a human personality as well as an opportunity to be a neighbor. He was qualified to be a better neighbor in that he shared the suffering of the victim and was moved to compassion."

"Max Mueller has written that 'To the Greek every foreigner is a barbarian; to the Jew every stranger is a Gentile dog, and to the Mohammedan every alien was an infidel.' Jesus came and in His story of the Good Samaritan erased these contemptible titles and writes the word 'brothers.' 'Cain asked, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' Jesus in this story answers, 'No, we are brothers. We are neighbors.'"

"The program for the Christian in this story is: To co-operate with the church to give every person an opportunity to develop into that for which he or she is capable. Let us ask ourselves as Christians this question, 'To whom have I been a neighbor?'"

The President of the United States

Half a century ago James Bryce said that the presidency was the greatest office in the world to which anyone can rise by his own efforts. Since that time, the powers of the president of the United States have enormously increased, and the tendency under the New Deal has been still further to enlarge his powers and responsibility.

Our Washington bureau has ready for you a new bulletin on the manner of election, the powers, duties, emoluments, and succession to the office of president. It gives the historical facts down to the immediate present, when the method of election and terms of office of the president have been radically changed by the "Lame Duck" amendment to the Constitution. This bulletin will be of special interest and value to students whose textbooks are all out of date on this subject.

Fill out the coupon below:

DEPT. 328 WASHINGTON BUREAU, ATLANTA CONSTITUTION,
1322 NEW YORK AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

I want a copy of the bulletin, THE PRESIDENT, and enclose herewith five cents in coin (carefully wrapped), or uncanceled postage stamps, to cover return postage and handling costs:

Name.....

Street and No.....

City..... State.....

I am a reader of The Atlanta Constitution.

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

SEMI-ANNUAL STATEMENT for the six months ending December 31, 1934, of the condition of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

Organized under the laws of the State of Massachusetts made to the Governor of the State of Georgia in pursuance to the laws of said state.

Principal Office—340 Main Street, Worcester, Massachusetts.

I. CAPITAL STOCK.

1. Amount of Capital Stock..... None

II. ASSETS.

1. Market value of Real Estate owned..... $12,054,086.82

2. Mortgage loans, first liens..... 46,534,280.08

3. Stocks and bonds owned absolutely..... 46,534,280.08

4. Book value..... 50,885,983.35

5. Cash in Company's principal office..... 49,726,718.18

6. Cash deposited by Company in bank..... 3,250,480.08

7. Premiums on loans carried out..... 5,281,906.38

8. Premiums on loans carried out..... 5,281,906.38

9. Premiums on loans carried out..... 5,281,906.38

10. Premiums on loans carried out..... 5,281,906.38

11. All other assets, real and personal, not included above..... 2,319,514.49

12. Uncollected and deferred premiums..... 8,744,019.64

Due from reinsurance companies, etc..... 65,413.60

Total assets of Company (Actual cash market value)..... $135,367,086.92

III. LIABILITIES.

1. Policy claim due and unpaid..... $ 8,415.00

2. Claims in process of adjustment, or adjusted and not due, including reported or supposed claims..... 499,481.00

3. Claims relative, including interest, expenses, etc., not included above..... 1,000.00

Total policy claims..... $ 508,896.00

Deduct reinsurance thereon..... 27,500.00

Difference..... $ 481,396.00

4. Policy dividends declared and not due..... 3,350,000.00

5. Other items (Gifts, claims and amounts)..... 405,000.00

Accumulated dividends..... 6,110,581.05

Unpaid and due interest on policy loans..... 2,328,500.00

Special reserve for supplemental contracts not yet due..... 1,114,034.00

Unpaid interest on policy loans..... 434,517.08

Estimated losses incurred but unreported..... 448,500.00

Dividends due and unpaid..... 230,963.38

THE GUMPS—THE BIG CHEAT

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—THE MEMORY LINGERS

MOON MULLINS—FLOWING HOME

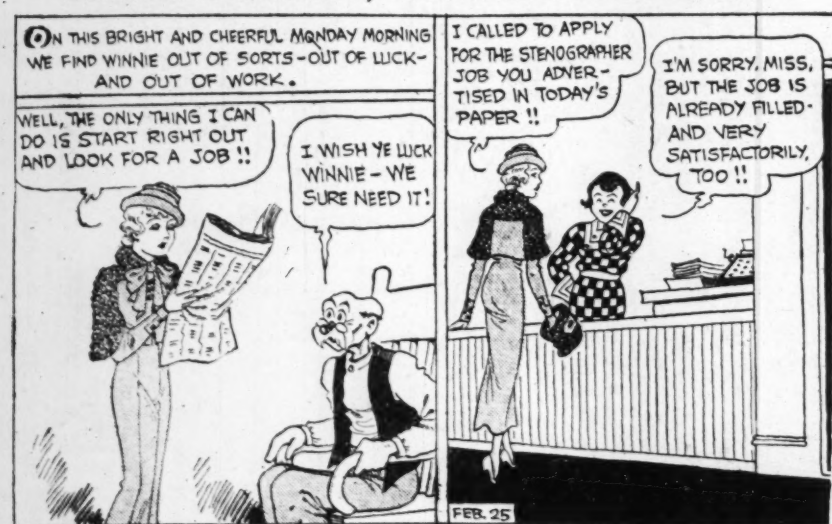

DICK TRACY—A Desperate Spot

SMITTY—OUT IN THE COLD AGAIN

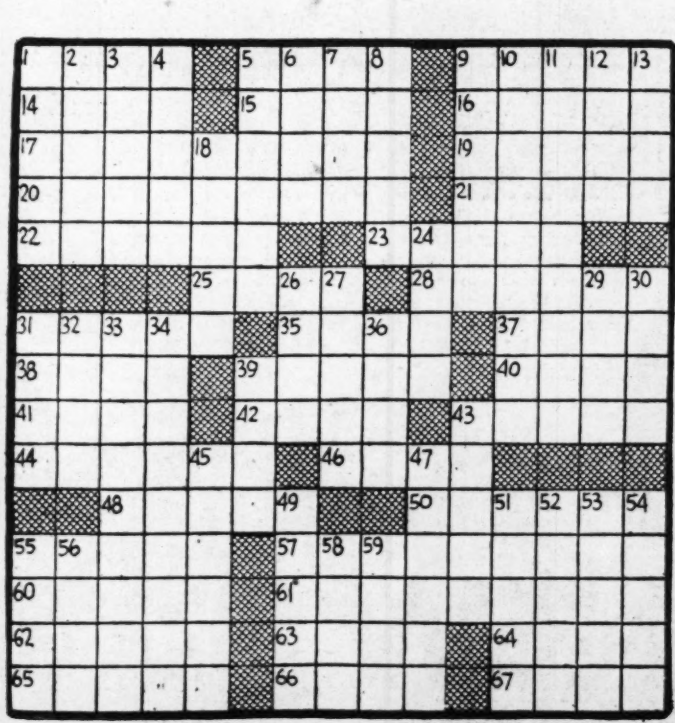

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER—

Constitution's Daily Cross-Word Puzzle

ACROSS
1 Deep tone.	21 French weights.	38 German river.	46 Tibetan monk.
5 Bondage.	22 Strophe.	39 Vigils.	48 Blasts.
9 Pardon.	23 Snake.	40 Son of Seth.	50 Affirm.
14 Consort of Anu.	26 Discover.	41 Hindu garden.	55 Aside.
15 Rubber trees.	28 Suggesting a rose.	42 Looks on.	60 Notary; Scot.
16 Sheeplike.	31 Small pies.	43 Members of an old Italian family.	61 Renounce.
17 Aging.	35 European capital.	44 Native of Brittany.	62 Mountain crest.
19 Instances.	37 Kale; var.		63 Indigo dye.
20 Complicated.			64 Epic poem.

FOLLIES GIRL
By MARGARET GORHAM NICHOLS

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

She walked back to the house along a well-worn path on which Tony had walked. Her vacation was nearly at an end and the days were going all too swiftly. She was leaving on Saturday to visit Carl and Felice and from there back to the broadcasting studios, back to the apartment which Frances would have in readiness.

"Gran," said Sherry, "is there any place you would like to go?"

The little lace cap on her white cap was stirred by the vigorous shaking of her head. "I want to stay right here. I've never been farther than Baltimore and I've had a very fine life."

It was Sherry's last morning at home. A friendly note from Felice had told her that a car would be waiting for her at the Baltimore station and Sherry had wired back, "I'll wear a red rose so your chauffeur will recognize me." She was glad that the trip to Virginia Beach would relieve her departure of any sadness.

For an hour that warm August morning she stayed in the room that had been Tony's room. It was, she thought, an hour with him, an hour to his memory. "I want love too much," glancing about the room flooded with sunlight, "to live on the memory of a few happy weeks. I try to keep his face close, but it is getting dim. I remember the things he said better than I remember the way he looked."

When she closed the door to go to her own room and change into traveling clothes, it was like closing the door on the happiest time of her life. Closing the door on Tony, on those bright weeks when they had met and loved—and going to what? Marriage with Eric? She did not know. But whatever the future held it was already clouded by a lean, sunburned face and dark eyes under straight black brows.

The new car was parked at the front door and the family waited in the hall to say good-bye. They were all in turn embraced and kissed and in her father's eyes was that warning, "Nothing is so horrible as to marry one man and be in love with another."

The Maryland countryside, unlike that of Virginia, had curving hills and upon many of them were large houses overlooking the valleys. Carl, bringing Sherry, turned into a road and she saw upon a hill, almost obscured by trees, a large house with a veranda on all sides and a sloping green lawn.

When the car stopped, Sherry saw a tall girl reclining in a hammock. She looked up quickly, frowned, and walked toward the car. This was a resemblance in the features but Felice was less tall and her coloring less vivid.

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

AUNT HET

"I reckon the preacher used twenty thousand words, and Amy didn't remember a single one except that one he pronounced wrong." (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

"Oh, Sherry's eyes were warm and bright. "That—that's wonderful. I know you're both very happy."

"We are," and laughed. "I hope he or she has good eyes. Carl is in the office. Would you like to come down for tea?"

"I'll be down as soon as I change."

When Felice had gone, Sherry walked to the window and looked at the green fields and placid sweeping hills. "I—I could have had all this. I could have been in Felice's place, but I am glad it is she. I gave up all this to pursue a dream and a memory."

Sherry, changing into a bright yellow sport dress, joined Felice on the terrace and tea was served there.

"You mind," Sherry asked, "my coming?"

Felice looked hurt at the question. "Mind? I wanted you. I knew if Carl liked you, you must be a nice person. I'm not jealous, meeting Sherry's eyes. 'I know he loves me now. In almost every man's life is some beautiful woman he wanted and couldn't get. My father was in love with an actress once. You see, in a low voice, 'I know about Tony Arnold. Carl says you can't talk about Tony. They belong together.'"

Carl came at sunset. "You look the same," he said to Sherry.

"But you don't. You look so wonderfully happy," and smiled at him. "I'd like to stand close to you, Carl, and let some of it descend on me."

"No word from Tony?"

"No. Nothing. Nothing," and there was a new despair in her voice.

In the living room after dinner, Felice said, "I'm taking very good care of myself these days. Will you excuse me, Sherry, if I go up to bed? I always get up rather early to see Carl off to the office."

"Of course I'll excuse you."

She kissed her husband and went upstairs.

"Isn't she wonderful?" he asked. "Few wives would go off to bed and leave their husbands with Sherry Ross."

"My charms have been so overrated. Carl, with love I've had so little success."

Carl looked at her sitting in the big chair, looking cool and lovely in her yellow dress and white sandals. He loved Felice so dearly that Sherry was only a beautiful woman to admire. He could sit calmly and look at her dark beauty but all his tender thoughts were for Felice.

The week-end passed quietly. Here there were no parties, no excited voices, no mad pace to keep step with. It was the same sort of life her family led, only in less luxurious surroundings. Here quiet, well-mannered servants were ever ready to make you more comfortable and the food was excellent.

Sherry acquired an even deeper tan and gained a few much needed pounds. The tired lines were gone from her face. But New York, its flashing electric lights, its angry traffic, its mad music beckoned. Soon she would awaken in the white bedroom and think of the day ahead, the studio, the night club. And Eric would be close, and still would there be no word from Tony?

One night after Felice had retired early, Carl said, "Sherry, there is something I have postponed telling you, because I wasn't sure just what your reaction would be. Believe me, it wasn't planned. It just happened—one of those things that seems to be happening to you most of the time."

Hope and fear were in Sherry's heart.

"What is it, Carl?"

"Last week after all arrangements were made for you to come, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold wired me that they were stopping with us for the night on their way to Washington. They are arriving," he said, "tomorrow morning."

Tony's parents coming here to visit! Sherry felt her face flush hotly.

"In that case," Sherry said, "I

Sherry stepped from the car and extended her hand.

"I'm so glad to meet you," said Felice. "I didn't know that it was you, at first. I'm a little near-sighted."

Sherry smiled. "We've both heard so much about each other it is really not the meeting of strangers."

"Carl," laughed Carl's wife, "didn't do you justice."

The enormous room into which Felice had led her had been described often by Carl. It was a dark paneled room with deep comfortable chairs, two divans, and a gray stone fireplace, which probably shone very brightly in winter. Felice led the way upstairs.

"Such a lovely place," said Sherry. "I wish I had brought some riding clothes along. Do you ride?"

A faint flush crept up Felice's face. "I did, but I'm not riding now. I—Carl and I are going to have a child."

WOMAN IS KILLED IN CUBAN BOMBING

School Strife Reaches Fever Heat; Ouster of Mendieta Sought.

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—(P)—Cuba's universal school strike, unprecedented in the island's history, reached fever heat today, centering attention upon Camaguey where a bomb exploded, killing a woman and wounding three persons, including a small child.

The explosion was heard shortly after several groups of strikers met and voted to make the walkout "unlimited" both in scope and duration.

The attempt of students in elementary schools, high schools and the university to oust President Carlos Mendieta by instituting a general strike gained some headway in Havana when workers at the Romeo y Julieta cigar factory walked out in sympathy.

The bomb that exploded disastrously at Camaguey was one of two set off in the hope of bringing government officials to terms. First bomb wrecked the front of the governor's private residence. Nobody was injured. The second let go at the provincial palace and took a heavy toll.

The army took over Camaguey, patrolling the streets. Today Camaguey meetings included one of governors and school inspectors who decided to join the strike.

There were strong indications that some government departments were ready to walk out in sympathy with the teachers, but it was not considered likely they would act until they collect their February pay next Wednesday.

MRS. W. K. FIELDER BURIED AT CEDARTOWN

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Feb. 24.—(P)—Mrs. W. K. Fielder, 78, one of Cedar town's most prominent and beloved citizens, who died at her home here Friday, was buried in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery Saturday. She had been ill for several months. She is survived by her husband, two sons, William J. Fielder, of Columbia, and Captain Kendall J. Fielder, United States army, now stationed in Washington in charge of the army band; three daughters, Mrs. R. W. Freeman of Senoia; Mrs. Spencer Kirkland and Mrs. O. D. Barlett, of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. T. J. Foster, of Dallas, and Mrs. G. W. Head, of Tunnell Hill, and nine grandchildren.

She was Miss May Jordan, daughter of the late Captain Will Jordan, C. S. A., and Mary West Jordan of Virginia. Mrs. Fielder was born in Greenville, Tenn. She married Mr. Fielder in 1894 and they settled in Cedar town. Colonel Fielder has been a leading lawyer of this city for years, and has been solicitor of the superior court of the Talaposa district a number of times.

TWO FILM STUDIOS PLANNED AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24.—(P)—The Herald today says Miami has been selected for the establishment of two motion picture studios.

American National Pictures, Inc., plans production of 26 films annually in a studio on which construction will begin shortly.

The British-American Cinema Studios, Inc., selecting Opaloka for its sound stages, proposed to produce motion pictures for British screens.

NEW YORK in 5 1/4 Hours NEW ORLEANS in 2 3/4 Hours

Travel in the Douglas Airliner. Club-like, steam-heated, sound-proof cabin. Limited stops. Also local service—making all stops—operated with 14 passenger Curtiss Condors. Reduced round trip excursion rates on Condor schedules.

DOUGLAS EXPRESS SCHEDULE RATES AND TIME from ATLANTA to:

One Way Round Trip Time
New York $48.50 $55.75 5 1/4 hrs.
Washington 35.50 44.15 3 3/4 hrs.
New Orleans 25.75 34.35 2 3/4 hrs.
Also New York—Miami and Chicago—Miami

Eastern Air Lines operates with passengers, U.S. Mail and express over 3,755 miles of airways; has more than 25,000,000 miles of flying experience.

RESERVATIONS: At hotels, travel bureaus, any telephone office, or call AIRLINES Ticket Office, Hotel Ansley, Walnut 5646, or Municipal Airport, Calhoun 5121

EASTERN AIR LINES USE GENERAL AIR EXPRESS

MADAM ZELLA
Palmetto Business Adviser
Will tell your past, your present, your future, call your name, tell the real cause of your misfortune, or lack of success. Satisfaction or no charge. Hours 4 p. m. to 9 p. m. Three questions answered free with this ad.

1971 PEACHTREE ROAD (Take Peachtree-Buckhead Car to Peachtree Ave.)

Remember Last Winter's Hard Coughs Get a Bottle of Famous BRONCHU-LINE + EMULSION +

More marriages go on the rocks because of too little money than because of too little love. Working, sacrificing, practicing self-denial brings a young couple closer together than does an easy life in which they have nothing to think about but pleasure. There is infinite satisfaction in working and saving for some definite objective, a satisfaction that the affluent never know. There is more pride in possession of a piece of furniture that you have looked at longingly and piled up pennies to buy than there is in possession of a rare antique.

Radio Patrolman Sent To Find Own Boy Dead

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(UP)—The radio in Detective John Keefe's cruising squad car cracked: "Car 201, car 201, go to 194-18 116th avenue, St. Albans, boy found dead."

Keefe spurred to the address, sixteen screaming. He had no trouble finding it. It was his own boy.

In the basement he found his son, Charles, strangled by a string dangling from his football trousers as he chinned himself on a horizontal bar. The trousers were hanging from a rafter above. As he lowered himself his neck fell within the noose and he died unable to cry for help.

Keefe telephoned his report to the police station.

WILLIAM S. CARROLL, COAL DEALER, PASSES

William S. Carroll, a pioneer in the coal and wood business in Atlanta, died Sunday night at his residence at 620 Hill street, S. E., after several years of failing health. He was 80.

For a number of years he was connected with the firm of Carroll & Hunter but later went into the coal and wood business for himself. His brother, R. T. Carroll, heads the Carroll Coal Company. Mr. Carroll was born and reared near Chamblee but resided most of his life in Atlanta, being a member of the Sardis lodge, F. & A. M., and the Grant Park Baptist church.

He was the father of Mrs. George Mathison, wife of the chief of Fulton county police, and of Ralph Carroll, of the county police department, and also is survived by his wife; another daughter, Mrs. H. K. Cowan, of Knoxville, Tenn.; three other sons, Paul T. and Sam A. Carroll, of Atlanta, and Harold D. Carroll, of Farmington, Mich.; four sisters, Mrs. Nellie Smith, Mrs. J. H. Hunter and Mrs. J. R. Wellborn, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. R. Pounds, of Ocoee, Fla.; a niece, Miss Lena Jones, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Atwell & Lowndes. The Rev. B. F. Fraser and the Rev. H. H. Jones will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, with nephews acting as pallbearers.

TWO MEN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Continued From First Page.

reached him. The body is at the establishment of Howard L. Carmichael, Young Yarbrough, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Yarbrough, of Stone Mountain, died at Grady hospital several hours after he was thrown out of the car said to have been driven by his sister, Mrs. Marie Hudkins, of Stone Mountain. Two other persons occupied the rumble seat with him and when the automobile hit the dip in the road, the force propelled him from the seat. His head struck the fender before he landed on the pavement. Bishop & Poe, of Fairburn, will announce funeral arrangements.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: What do you think of the possibilities ahead of a young man in this fix? He was unable to accept a West Point appointment because of weak eyes. A brother and mother and old father are partly dependent upon his support. His hours are long, his work is hard and when he has helped his family he has only $15 left. He can't get this job because the pay has to be in for others as well as himself. He is a drudge and has not time or money for companionship with those of his own age. There is little prospect of a raise and no opportunity for advancement in his present position. He has the admiration of those who know about his struggle. He is always cheerful and uncomplaining and takes what comes. But he is being gradually crushed. I wonder if this is an average case these days? Are many young men in his fix? What can be done about such conditions? He has an unrequited fiancée and I am she. FIANCÉE.

Answer: Surely there are thousands of young men all over our land eating the same bitter bread of frustrated hope and thwarted ambition. If they are not relieved of the burden of supporting their families while they are yet young, the chances are that they will never get on to the world of affluence. Someday when we have old age pensions, if we ever do, this business of the older generation's hanging like millstones about the necks of the younger generation will be at an end. But that day is yet a long way off. And in the meantime, bright, capable young men who are saddled with the support of their parents and younger sisters and brothers must eke out any sort of living they can and give up hope of quick financial success.

The only way out for many of them, as far as marriage is concerned, is to marry girls who are willing to support themselves and, when necessary, willing to contribute toward the upkeep of the husband's family. From many standpoints this is undesirable. It means that the young couple cannot have children. It means that they can have only a part-time home life. It means that they must scrap their old romantic ideals about the man's being head of the house and his wife the housekeeper who stays at home, looks after the babies and prepares the pleasant place for her husband to come home to. It means that the two of them must work all day and possibly live in a rental room. But with all this, it is not better for them to have the companionship of each other while they are young than to eat out their hearts waiting for the old folks to die?

More marriages go on the rocks because of too much money than because of too little. Working, sacrificing, practicing self-denial brings a young couple closer together than does an easy life in which they have nothing to think about but pleasure. There is infinite satisfaction in working and saving for some definite objective, a satisfaction that the affluent never know. There is more pride in possession of a piece of furniture that you have looked at longingly and piled up pennies to buy than there is in possession of a rare antique.

GUARDIAN LIFE GAINS 34 PER CENT IN 1934

In its 75th annual statement, the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America reports a gain of 34 per cent in production of new business during 1934. The total of $52,335,074 last year compares with $39,178,821 in 1933.

Together with this gain in new production, terminations of existing insurance decreased 24 per cent last year, with the result that the total life insurance in force with the company on December 31, 1934, was $457,735,874—a net loss for the year of but one-half of 1 per cent, against 61-2 per cent in 1933.

The company's assets increased in 1934 by $5,202,224 to a total of $103,467,123. Cash balances rose from $1,781,888 to $3,513,590, and on December 31, 1934, the company field, as a secondary cash reserve, $4,040,000 of high grade short term securities maturing from 1935 to 1937, inclusive.

Mortality experienced in 1934 was but 49.73 per cent of that expected, according to the standard mortality tables used, and resulted in a saving to policyholders of $2,205,478. Disability and double indemnity experience again proved comparatively favorable, although claims under the double indemnity coverage were 9 per cent higher than for 1933, due largely to an increase in fatal automobile accidents.

With interest rates on investments suitable for life insurance companies following a steadily decreasing trend during 1934 to the strikingly low levels prevailing at the end of the year, the Guardian's new investments were largely restricted to the highest grade short-term securities. On the mean amount of its total invested assets, the rate of interest realized by the company last year was 4.48 per cent. The Atlanta Agency of the Guardian Life is located at 212-213 Ten Pryor street building, Holcombe T. Green, Atlanta manager.

that was bought without much thought and with no strain. Here comes in the compensation of poverty: whether it be a husband, a home, a trip, a dress or a show, if there must be a struggle to get it, it is very more appreciated than it is when easy.

Not long ago a beggar approached a man on the street and told him he was hungry, asked for a sandwich, not money. Together they went into a restaurant and the well-to-do man ordered steak and potatoes for the beggar. He sat by him while he gobbled it up and when he had finished the beggar said "That is the best meal I ever ate." Rather wistfully the host replied, "I envy you your appetite and so long as you keep it, you are not really poor." It is the old, old story. Likewise when young people have youth and health and love and work they are not really poor.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Bomb Derails Train In Illinois Mine War

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 24.—(P)—A dynamite bomb blasted a tank car loaded with gasoline from the tracks of the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad today and turned it into a volcano of flame that erupted over 11 other cars of the loaded freight train, destroying them.

Officials took it as a grim answer to the federal and state round-up of suspected bombers of coal trains and the $200,000 civil suit started last week, accusing members of the Progressive Miners' Union of the reign of violence.

AUTO CRASH HURTS THREE AT UNADILLA

UNADILLA, Ga., Feb. 24.—(P)—One man was probably fatally injured and three others suffered slight injuries when a truck crashed into the rear of an automobile parked on a street here last night.

The injured are Bernard Calhoun, 22, of near Vienna, driver of the automobile, broken back and fractured skull; Woodrow Chouteau, of Unadilla, occupant of the Calhoun car, sprained wrist, and Harry McDowell, of Vienna, and John Cole, of Vienna, both of whom were in the truck, painful injuries.

How Many Dimes Can YOU Give?

Lewis Gordon, Treasurer, Zoo Housing Fund, Citizens & Southern National Bank.

I enclose the value of dimes as my contribution to the fund of 150,000 dimes being donated to provide quarters for the Candler Zoo when added to the zoo at Grant Park.

Name
Address

(Clip this coupon, attach your contribution and send it to Mr. Gordon, or take it to Window Five, at the Citizens & Southern National Bank on Marietta street. Thank you.)

First 'Three Dimensional' Movies To Be Demonstrated in France

PARIS, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Demonstration of the first motion picture in relief will be given at the Academy of Sciences tomorrow by the inventor, Louis Lumiere, whom the French credit with the invention of the original cinema in 1885.

The casting of pictures on the screen in relief, based on the principle of the spectroscopic, has been obtained by filming the same object from two angles—one film being tinted red, the other green. Both are projected at the same time, the audience being furnished with specially tinted spectacles, having one blue-tinted lens and the other yellow.

The spectacles themselves were evolved by Lumiere after two years research and are specially colored so one lens permits the eye to see the green and colors bordering it but still allowing some shades of red to pass, while the other lens permits seeing the reddish colors along with a few shades bordering on green.

Lumiere originally tried to obtain the effect of relief by having spectators wear one red and one green lens, but found this impractical because the red lens tired the eye rapidly.

The inventor considers the colors now evolved perfectly practical and envisages future movie houses where the spectators will be furnished with a pair of glasses along with their tickets.

The illusion of reality on the screen given by films in relief is said to be remarkable.

WELLS INDORSES NEW YOUTH CLUB

Fulton School Head Says Need Exists for Young America Move.

Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, Sunday was quick to give his hearty indorsement of the Young America Club, which is being sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution.

"It strikes me that there is quite a need for an agency seeking to develop more fully the leisure time of our children into educational recreation, particularly throughout the entire year. The Young America Club appears to me to be such an agency," asserted Mr. Wells.

"In correlating character-building institutions of the community, the Young America Club will be rendering a distinct service in the education of our young citizens. The activities of the club and the information published in The Constitution will, in a way, tend to extend the teaching of our school children beyond the school walls into the homes and playgrounds of the county and state."

"I urge that all Fulton county school children read the Young America Page in the Atlanta Constitution, and send in membership applications immediately. I would recommend that the page become a daily feature, rather than weekly."

BAPTISTS OF GEORGIA MEET AT AMERICUS

AMERICUS, Ga., Feb. 24.—(P)—Georgia Baptists will convene here tomorrow in the first of 10 regional conferences on stewardship and evangelism.

Other meetings will be held at Thomasville, February 26; Baxley, February 27; Statesboro, February 28; Macon, March 1; Toccoa, March 4; Washington, March 5; Covington, March 6; LaGrange, March 7, and Rome, March 8.

Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention, in his announcement in Atlanta Saturday, said leaders of the church in the state and south would appear on the programs.

He said these would include Dr. T. F. Callaway, president of the Georgia Baptist convention; Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention; Dr. J. T. Henderson, secretary of the Baptist Brotherhood of the South; and Dr. Ellis T. Fuller, president of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention. Dr. Merritt will direct the conferences.

Each meeting will be for one day with sessions in the morning, afternoon and night.

Flu Claims 1,188

MADRID, Feb. 24.—(P)—City authorities reported today that 1,188 persons died in Madrid in the first three weeks of February of influenza. The current epidemic, however, apparently is not as grave as that of last year, for in the same period of 1934 there were 1,214 deaths.

Switzerland Votes To Strengthen Army

BERNE, Switzerland, Feb. 24.—(UP)—The Swiss squarely faced the threat of war all around them today when a national referendum approved a law for the reorganization of the Swiss army. The final figures were 502,740 to 427,830.

The law was passed by the Swiss parliament last September, but socialists and communists sought to repeal it by calling a referendum. A wave of national sentiment arising from fears that Switzerland might be invaded in "the next war," however, defeated their move.

The vote makes it possible to proceed with modernization of the Swiss army, principally by prolonging service of recruits.

WAYCROSS MERCHANT FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 24.—(P)—W. A. McQueen, sales manager of a furniture store here, was found shot to death tonight and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Members of his family said he had been despondent because of illness.

O. HENRY COLLEAGUE SUCCUMBS IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 24.—(P)—A. R. Miller, 76, who was a compositor on the Houston Post when William Sidney Porter, the O. Henry of short story fame, was a reporter for the newspaper, died today. Miller later became Harris county tax assessor and collector, serving 20 years.

MRS. IDA MAY HAWKS. BELL, Cal., Feb. 24.—(UP)—Mrs. Ida May Hawks, 61, mother of Frank Hawks, speed flyer, died here Saturday after a long illness.

J. D. JOHNSON. JACKSON, Tenn., Feb. 24.—(P)—J. D. Johnson Sr., 78, city commissioner of health and education, died in a hospital here late Saturday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident four weeks ago.

W. B. D. WARD. MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(P)—William Burnett Dudley Ward, 55, leading Canadian artist, died at his home today after a long illness.

W. E. CONNER. NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(P)—Washington Everett Conner, 85, Wall Street operator and formerly a close associate of Jay Gould, died at his home Saturday after a lingering illness.

Still the Lowest Priced Car with Hydraulic Brakes!

The 1935 Plymouth is Equipped with Brakes proved through 10 Years' experience to be the World's Safest

YOU MAY PICK PLYMOUTH as the best-looking of the low-priced cars. It's more beautiful. It's bigger. Rides better.

These are important qualities. But safety is also important to consider... not only in driving but in buying a car.

Plymouth is still the lowest-priced car with genuine Hydraulic Brakes!

And Plymouth gives you the safety of an all-steel body... steel reinforced with steel.

Plymouth gives you correct weight re-distribution for greater riding comfort...

back seat as well as front! A new idea to other manufacturers. But to Plymouth it is based on one-hundred-million miles of actual road experience with the sensational "Airflow" cars.

Sum it all up. Greater safety, greater comfort, better looking. More room and luxury, inside and out. Then add this: new engineering features give 12% to 20% saving in gas and oil. Yet Plymouth is one of the lowest-priced cars built today.

See any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer. Drive—and ride—in the new Plymouth. Discover its amazingly superior comfort and performance. Ask about the official Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Plan that makes buying easy.

NEW PLYMOUTH

World's Safest
Low-priced Car

CHURCH BOARD GROUP MEETS HERE TONIGHT

Peachtree Christian To Be Scene of Annual Meeting of District Body.

Official board members of the Christian churches of Atlanta, Rome, Macon, Winder and Athens will gather in Atlanta today for the annual meeting at 6:30 o'clock tonight at Peachtree Christian church.

Dr. J. Cahill, of Indianapolis, Ind., vice president of the United Christian Missionary Society will be the principal speaker at the meeting and will be introduced by Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church, Atlanta.

For more than 20 years, Dr. Cahill was secretary of the Ohio Christian Missionary, during which time he was instrumental in building up the work of the Christian churches of Ohio until the churches of that faith in Ohio were national leaders.

Edgar Craighhead, prominent Atlanta attorney and chairman of the official board of Peachtree Christian church, will preside at the meeting and Dr. Robert Burns, minister of the church, will deliver the address of welcome.

AL SMITH TO HEAD CATHOLIC CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, tonight accepted the New York chairmanship of the Knights of Columbus mobilization for Catholic action.

He will head the campaign in Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester and Richmond counties, and in the Hudson Valley district, according to the announcement of William P. Larkin, international chairman.

The campaign seeks to enlist Catholic laymen and others interested in furthering causes of the church "and all other worthy enterprises, whether national or local."

Don't you want
DEPENDABLE RELIEF when you have a headache?

Just relieving the pain seldom gives you the relief you should have. Often headaches return after the use of remedies that go no further than merely killing pain.

Bromo-Seltzer is different. It's a balanced preparation of 5 medicinal ingredients. Each brings a special benefit—relieving pain much more promptly and thoroughly... increasing your alkaline reserve... relaxing and soothing you.

Above all, Bromo-Seltzer is pleasant-tasting... a welcome change from bitter products. And you do not have to wait for Bromo-Seltzer to dissolve.

Contains no narcotics and doesn't upset the stomach.

BROMO-SELTZER

NEW YORK and the EAST

A fast Air-Conditioned train.

FASTER SCHEDULE EARLIER ARRIVALS

Air-conditioned comfort—an exclusive Seaboard feature. Noiseless, dustless, smokeless. Pure air—uniform, healthful temperatures throughout your journey.

COTTON STATES SPECIAL

Completely air-conditioned. Coaches, dining, lounge, sleeping cars. Fast daily service to Athens, Raleigh, Norfolk, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York. Leaves Atlanta 6:55 P. M., C. T.; Emory 7:15 P. M., C. T. Through coaches to Washington.

Leaves Atlanta westbound for Birmingham, and connections to New Orleans, Memphis and the Southwest 7:30 A. M., C. T.

SHIP YOUR AUTO BY TRAIN
Costs only one additional ticket when two people travel.
City Ticket Office

62 Luckie St., Phone WA. 5018
W. L. McMorris, Asst. Pass. Tfc. Mgr.

SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY
The ONLY completely AIR-CONDITIONED TRAINS in the SOUTH

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Esther Ralston.)

There Is a Great Fad Now for Creams Made From the Finest of Herbs

By MIGNON.

There are probably more cleansing creams on the market than anything else in the cosmetic line, and the strange part of it is that all of them are good. The prices range from 50 cents to several dollars a jar, and sometimes the cheap ones are as good as the expensive ones. It takes care and thought to find out which really have some special virtues.

So many of the new creams, if you believe what you read on the jars, are made of very fine herbs. There is one thing certain, there is a very delicate scent of herbs noticeable in all of these herbal lotions and creams.

There is one in particular that I'm very fond of. I am completely sold on the consistency of it because it is neither too thick nor too light. It is

Well-Rounded Program Is Offered at Capitol

A program which can not fail to please patrons, in one way or another, is presented this week at the Capitol theater. It's what reviewers call "well-rounded" and mean it.

Capitol fans this week will see a western picture, featuring the strong "horse opera" hero, George O'Brien, which is titled "When a Man's a Man," and was taken from the book of the same name by Harold Bell Wright. For picture-goers who like a taste of the once wild west, "When a Man's a Man" is better than average.

The story itself is well known, having achieved popularity some years ago in book form. O'Brien, Dorothy Wilson and Paul Kelly do well with their roles.

For the slightly sophisticated theatergoer, Jimmy Hughes, with his stage show of "Miami Nights" will prove amusing. Hughes is already known to Atlantans, having played here a number of times, but this week he returns with a rejuvenated display of girls, music and fun. Ann Bradley, with her blue songs; Smiling Al Bennett, Schaffer and Nelson, Jerome and Riano, and the Magellan twins, are with the Hughes stage unit.

Should a fan be interested in automobiles, mechanics, radio, or magic, the "Human Ford" will hold his attention. This car, exhibited by Ray Parker, is controlled solely by radio impulses and even answers the questions Parker asks it (which would be enough to keep most young swains from wanting it as their own).

—J. A. B.

"Evergreen" Termed "Cinema Milestone"

That rarest of all screen attractions, a motion picture that is truly different, is the current attraction at the Georgian theater. The picture in question is "Evergreen," spectacular Gaumont British production, and it is beyond doubt a milestone in cinema history.

"Evergreen" possesses everything that goes to make a great film. A musical show, it has more than enough plot and suspense to carry it as a drama alone, its songs shone many an American production of similar type, and it has the inimitable Jessie Matthews in the title role.

The plot of "Evergreen" centers around a brilliant actress of the Maude decade who deserts the stage at the peak of her career because of a youthful indiscretion. Twenty years later, the daughter of the actress, likewise seeking stage fame, decides to impersonate her mother in order to prove her ability as an actress, a singer and a dancer.

Miss Matthews enacts the role of "Harriet Green," the name of both mother and daughter, and her part gives her ample opportunity to display her exceptional talent as an actress, a singer and a dancer.

"Evergreen" has some of the most gorgeous stage settings imaginable; a highly trained beauty chorus; an abundance of heart interest and just the right comedy touch. In fact, it is one of those pictures you just can't afford to pass by.

—W. A. B.

Pilot Killed.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Alvid D. Keith, Canadian Airways pilot, was killed today in a crash at Kanuchuan Rapids, Man. in the gold country, 300 miles north of here.

HOW I KEEP MY FIGURE

By Jean Harlow

I am a great believer in simple diet. I feel so much better if I eat simple foods, and not too much of them. I think that heavy foods and a too-full diet not only ruin one's figure but one's health as well. I study the correct combination of foods, which I think very necessary.

For instance, I cannot eat starches at the same meal with meats—they simply do not agree with me.

For some people I am sure, there is no doubt as to the perfect diet. Each person should make a study of the things that agree and the things that do not, and adjust her diet accordingly.

I have the same thing every morning for breakfast. First thing when I get up I have a glass of warm water with lemon juice. My breakfast consists of a cup of coffee and a glass of grapefruit juice. If I have more than this, I feel stuffy. Luncheon usually is a raw vegetable salad, crisp toast and some sliced fruit for dessert. In the winter I often have soup instead of salad. Dinner is my largest meal. I do not always have meat—only about three or four times a week. Always three vegetables and a very simple dessert and coffee.

Massage is a very convenient method of controlling the figure. Diet is good if a person is a little overweight all over—and massage removes excess fat from particular parts. For instance, a person may have rather large hips, yet be just right every other place—then massage is splendid.

Exercise, especially swimming, and a normal diet are the main points that I watch in keeping my figure where I want it.

Tomorrow—Joan Crawford.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

Good Taste

By FRANCES MARKEL

If your feet are inclined to be large, avoid wearing fancy shoes, particularly slippers, which has a tendency to exaggerate their size. Plain white shoes are all right; but somber shades of conventional styles are more flattering.

Tomorrow—Saying Goodnight.

(Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

Perpetual Motion Hunt Leads Man to Suicide

DENVER, Col., Feb. 24.—(UP)—

After trying for more than 30 years to construct perpetual motion, Gustave Loeschner, 56, shot and killed himself today.

Loeschner used an old single-barrel, side-lock shotgun. The weapon was more than 100 years old.

Before he took his life, Loeschner burned all his experiments and then penned a note to his wife, Frieda. "No one else must follow my mind to that awful place of almost succeeding," he wrote in his note. "I was so close, so terribly close, yet so far away."

Loeschner was a native of Austria and had lived in Denver for many years.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

He was a member of the American Society of Perpetual Motion.

Bird and Flower Club.

Bird and Flower Club met at the home of Mrs. Thomas I. Bryant on Briarcliff road Thursday with the president, Mrs. J. C. Sheehan, presiding. Mrs. T. C. Kelly, of Fulton avenue, N. E., was welcomed into the club as a new member. Chairmen of committees gave reports of activities and the club again voted to send its usual number of delegates to the convention of the Garden Clubs of Georgia to be held at Macon the middle part of April. An acquisition to the club is little Jeanette Maginnis, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Maginnis, of East Pace's Ferry road, who has been made the club's "mascot." This makes three generations of this family to be affiliated with the club; as well as another member, Mrs. J. U. Horne, of Rosboro road, grantant to the baby.

A paper, "What Can This Club Do Toward Beautifying Our City?" was written and read by Mrs. J. L. McCord, and the carrying out of its program by various garden clubs would do much toward removing unsightly spots in and about Atlanta. Emphasis was laid upon two of the objectives of garden clubs: Promoting an interest in gardens and encouraging extensive civic planting. Both of these projects are being definitely taken up by the Bird and Flower Club.

Mrs. H. B. Griffin read an article from one of the current magazines written by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, entitled "Gardens," in which she stressed the spiritual as well as the physical benefits derived from amateur gardening.

A collection of beautiful valentines made by members was displayed and the blue ribbon won by Mrs. J. U. Horne for her lovely nosegay. Mrs. S. P. Booth won the silver trophy for this month for the long sprays of silvery pussy-willows, grown by her. Luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. T. I. Bryant.

Mrs. Susan Pierce and Mary Pierce entertained Saturday at their home on Seminole avenue in honor of Miss Margaret Parker, who has returned from several months' stay in England and New York. The hostesses were assisted by their sister, Mrs. Fielding Dillard. The guests included Mesdames Devereaux, McClatchy Jr., Charles Hurt, Robert McMichael Jr., Harry P. West, Harris Purks, I. G. Brock, Edwin Martin and Misses Frances Hurt, Exa Rumble, Sara Jones, Leila Stipe and Miss Parker.

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Kle Club meets Wednesday at the Elks' Club, 736 Peachtree street, N. E. The meeting will be opened promptly at 11 o'clock and members are urged to attend.

Benefit Association.

Members of Women's Benefit Association No. 18 and their friends were entertained on Thursday at the Georgia Power Company's clubhouse with a luncheon and lecture on "Proper Lighting."

Grady Hospital Auxiliary meets Tuesday in the nurses' home. Miss Durice Dickerson will be guest speaker and Mrs. Julius Goldsmith will preside.

Kle Club To Meet.

Misses Bishop Will Honor Mr. and Mrs. Jackson in Decatur

Misses Hattie and Mamie Bishop will entertain at a dinner party at their home on West College avenue, Wednesday, February 27, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jackson, celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. A. G. Barnett has been moved from Wesley hospital following an operation and is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kennedy, on Clairmont avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Howard were hosts to members of their bridge-supper club Saturday evening at their home in Decatur. Mrs. C. E. Gregory has returned from a visit to her parents in Lexington, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Henderson have returned from a trip to Florida and Savannah.

Misses Louise Trotti and Anne Kirby, of Brenau College, were week-end guests of their parents, Mrs. J. H. Pressley, at their home in Decatur. Friends of Misses Louise Trotti and Anne Kirby are improving at Wesley Memorial hospital, following a recent illness. Mrs. Hugh Burgess was hostess to the members of her bridge club Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Guinn, of Crawfordville, have returned home after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Homer Howard. Mrs. Clarence Edwards entertained the members of her luncheon-bridge club Monday. Miss Effie Allen, of Marietta, was the week-end guest of Mrs. Frank Shaw.

Mrs. William Calhoun is visiting relatives in Fitzgerald, Ga.

Mrs. Bert Richardson was hostess at an informal luncheon Tuesday at her home, the guests including a small group of friends. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson returned Saturday from a several weeks' trip to Florida. Ben Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burgess, left recently for Hollywood, Fla., where he is attending the Riverside Military Academy.

Mrs. Leon O'Neal was hostess at two bridge-luncheons at her home recently, on Barry street. The invited guests on Tuesday included: Mesdames W. S. Calhoun, Paul Smith, E. B. Branch, J. W. Dobbins, Roy G. Jones, R. C. Henderson, J. E. Carmack, J. C. Johnson, John Glenn, Charles Weeks, W. S. Elkin, George Watts, Boyd Sutton, Walter McDaniel, J. P. Laird, Clyde Walker, W. Ray Camp, W. S. Young, W. J. Kirby, Jessie Sutton. On Wednesday, Mrs. O'Neal's guests included: Mesdames E. L. Gardner, Jennie Finley, Homer George, John Pierce, Eugene Camp, J. C. Gleason, John Montgomery, Olin Hubert, C. B. Owens, Hamilton Weekes, Henry Jewett, J. W. Bell, Eugene Hardeman. Mrs. Maynard Sanders is visiting relatives in Alabama.

Billy Allen entertained at a prom party at the home of his parents Friday evening. The guests included Misses Jeanne Mullen, Barbara and Jane Kroeg, Elsa Norris, Julia Slack, Martha Lee Burgess, Beth Daniel, Julia Simpson, Elizabeth Keller, Frances Guest, Beverly Davidson, Wilmer Jordan, Mary Hall, Betty Cole, Mildred and Helen Pursell, Joan Dougherty, T. L. Johnson, Armand Hendee, Buddy Sanders, Alfred Branch, Jack Norris, Jack Pearson, Idwal Owens, Ed Sutton, B. M. Pack, Sonny Kracke, Neil Springfield, Harold Bridge Party.

Mrs. W. M. Maloof entertained at her home a number of guests with a bridge party. The guests were Mesdames J. A. Maloof, Charlie Maloof, John Maloof, A. P. Maloof, Clive Maloof, Mike Maloof, Susan Shihany, Tom Maloof, John Shihany and Misses Marie and Josephine Maloof, who entertained the group with a dance. The first prize in the bridge game was awarded to Mrs. Joe A. Maloof and Mrs. Tom Maloof.

Don't Discard that old Sofa!... Have It Re-Upholstered!

A new cover, broken springs and webbing replaced, frames tightened... and PRESTO!—Sterchi's trained staff has given you a sofa as beautiful and as comfortable as it was when new! February Sale prices very moderate. Call MA. 3100 for estimate!

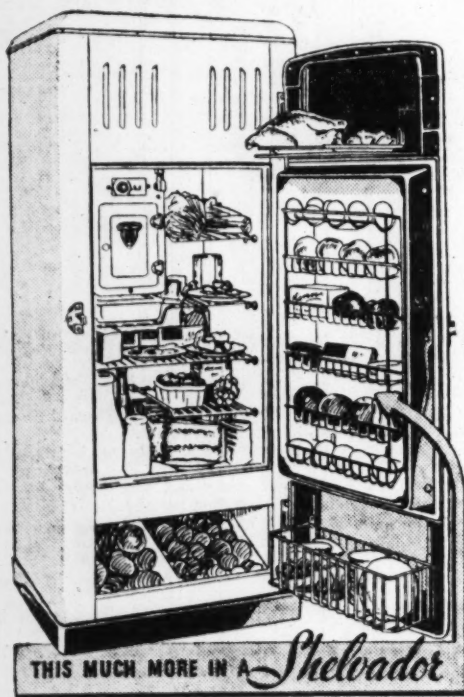

STERCHI'S
Reupholstering Fourth Floor

Water-Fast Wall Paper 6¢ PER ROLL

Other desirable patterns at 6 1/2 and 7 cents. All new spring designs! Choose from the South's largest stock today!

STERCHI'S
Downstairs Dept. MA. 3100

STERCHI'S February Refrigerator Sales!

EVERYTHING YOU WANT IN A REFRIGERATOR... WITH ROOM FOR EVERYTHING YOU WANT TO PUT IN IT!

CROSLEY Tri-Shelvador

$139.50

Three grand exclusive features—Shelvador, Shelvatray and Storabin—that give you as much room in a Crosley at this price as you could get in other makes at a much higher price. Cabinet of white lacquer stream-line beauty; porcelain interior, electric lighted! Plenty of ice cubes and a large double tray for ice creams and desserts! $139.50—Long easy terms, with small carrying charge.

STERCHI'S

Refrigerators—First Floor

Pay Gas Bills and make Meter Applications at the Gas Company's Branch Office in Sterchi's

Sally To Forsake Printer's Ink To Attend Model Flower Show

By Sally Forth.

THERE is one thing Sally is planning not to miss and that is the swanky model flower show to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday under the sponsorship of the Habersham Garden Club, in connection with that most creditable undertaking, the School of Flower Judging and Arranging. Forsaking her typewriter and printer's ink and foregoing social affairs, no matter how intriguing, she will head her way to the Biltmore to feast her eyes upon that grand panorama of floral beauty.

For, you see, the Habersham Club has enrolled everybody who has special talent and intuition about flowers to help with the show. No small interest is evoked by the announcement that those well-known flower fanciers, Mrs. Tom Daniel, Mrs. Willard McBurney, Mrs. A. G. McAlilly, Mrs. L. G. Daingerfield and Mrs. Allen Auten will arrange in colorful display brilliant-hued berries, grasses and foliage plants. Can you not imagine flowering shrubs will gain vastly in distinction when arranged by the artistic fingers of Mrs. William P. Hill, Mrs. Jesse Draper, and Mrs. T. M. Brumby? Without doubt, yellow jasmine will smell twice as sweet and old-fashioned "kiss-me-at-the-gate" will claim a new beauty under the influence of this trio.

If you have ever been fortunate enough to be a guest at Pinebloom you are well aware of the artistic ability of Mrs. Glenville Giddings, who follows in the footsteps of her gifted mother, Mrs. Preston Arkwright, in the matter of exquisite table appointments. Then you will surely want to see the charming Easter breakfast tables, set for two, by Mrs. Giddings, ably assisted by Mrs. Kenyon Zahner, and Mrs. Eugene Harrington. Another feature you must not miss is the miniatures, which have been turned over to Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. Lawson Thornton, Mrs. Ed Cuthbert and Mrs. Dugas McCleskey, all of whom are famed for their ability to combine color, line and harmony.

Refreshment trays, set with crystal ware, liqueur jugs and tempting canapés, will be arranged by Mrs. Julian Thomas, Mrs. Floyd McRae and Mrs. John Horne. This trio of Atlantans has a knack for doing the smartest thing in the smartest way and will present a host of original ideas. Mrs. McRae has also been enlisted to exhibit pair arrangements, with Mrs. Glenn Ryman and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, both of whom captured an enviable number of ribbons in the flower shows held last spring. Colorful fruit and the lowly vegetables will achieve distinction when formed into effective centerpieces by the skillful hands of Miss Nellie Hightower, Mrs. Carl Ramspeck and Mrs. Granger Hansell.

Of course, in a project of such wide scope, there must be rules, but Sally feels that the committee in charge have made very few and very wise ones. Exhibits must be correctly labeled with tags provided by the management, and must be in place by 9 o'clock of the day of the show. "The exhibits must be classified, tagged and entered before being handed to the staging committee. Entries may not be placed or moved except with the assistance of the staging committee. While reasonable care will be taken of exhibits, the management will not be held liable for loss or damage to exhibits or personal property of exhibitors."

THESE balmy days of late winter inspire Atlantans to seek leisure travel and scarcely a day passes that Sally does not hear of plans being made by congenial groups for pleasure trips. The latest of such jaunts planned is that which will include J. J. Harty, Miss May Haverty, Mrs. Lon Grove and Mr. and Mrs. William Akers.

This party of Atlanta friends will sail from New York on March 2 into far southern waters bound for a cruise in the Caribbean. Attired in smart sports costumes the Atlantans will mingle daily with other passengers on the ship's spacious decks for games and amusements so popular with travelers journeying by water. Stops will be made at various ports where the ship calls and the passengers will enjoy sight-seeing trips in picturesque and fascinating towns that fairly breathe of a tropical atmosphere.

Included in the bon voyage parties being given the Atlantans before their departure was the informal dinner at which Mrs. Lon Grove was honor guest with Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger as hosts. The party was given at the Rivers' road home of the Pottingers Saturday evening and the guests numbered a small group of intimates who are friends of Dr. and Mrs. Grove and Mr. and Mrs. Pottinger.

MARGARET TALMADGE, lovely young daughter of Georgia's chief executive and the first lady of the state, and a close friend, Lillian White, were unable to resist the lure of brass buttons. They betook themselves to Athens to attend the brilliant military ball held on Washington's birthday at the state university.

They week-ended with Margaret's gracious cousin, Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, and a managed to cram an unbelievable number of parties into an all too brief stay. For the dance Margaret chose a stunning new gown of palest blue net worn with a pink quilted crepe jacket and Lillian was lovely in white crepe with a trim of silver. Exquisite shoulder sprays of orchids, sent by their escorts, added just the correct touch to their becoming ensembles.

Ormeewood Park Social News.

Mrs. J. T. Cagle was hostess at a birthday dinner Sunday at her home on Confederate avenue in Ormeewood Park, the occasion celebrating the birthday of Miss Frances Jordan. Mrs. John L. Hudson, Miss Sarah Hudson and Mrs. Russell McCulloch visited relatives at Commerce and East Point, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Murray, at her home on Essie avenue. T. L. McBrayer has returned from a business trip to Oklahoma City. Mrs. R. E. Argo was hostess to the social committee of the Home Makers' Class, of Moreland Avenue Baptist church, Tuesday at her home. H. E. Durham left Sunday for a business trip to Columbia, S. C. Mrs. L. B. Laney, Sunbeam leader of Moreland Avenue Baptist church, was hostess to the children of the church Wednesday at the church. She was assisted by Mrs. L. O. Laney. The Ladies' Auxiliary of Ormeewood Presbyterian church sponsored a chicken supper at the church Friday.

Charlotte Kemper Class.

Mrs. J. C. Holt was hostess recently to the Charlotte Kemper class of Druid Hills Presbyterian church, at her home at 861 Peachtree avenue, with Mesdames C. H. Stewart, L. T. Newton and W. J. Cochran assisting. Mrs. Robert G. Stephens led the devotional after which selections from Strauss were interpreted by Miss M. Ellen Strickland, accomplished pianist. Those present were Mesdames Robert L. Dement, Keith Culbertson, A. Burdell, Edward Stauverman, Jimmie Biggs, A. D. Hammond, L. T. Newton, L. V. Hughes, C. C. Bond, Robert G. Stephens, F. D. Miller, Alfred Enloe, James E. Tackett, T. W. McAllister, E. D. Shanks, L. B. Sanders, L. C. Evans, J. C. Lockett, H. G. Harvey, R. G. Young, C. H. Rice, Henry Jordan, R. M. McFarland, E. H. Bailey, William O. Latimer, Ralph McCallister, W. S. Aiken, L. K. Smith, N. E. McKay, J. S. Hamilton, Sefton Strickland, L. P. Albert, E. L. Moehring and Misses Charlotte Persinger and Little Miss Moehring.

Mrs. Berg Honored.

Mrs. Fred Hanson was hostess on Friday at a tea given at her home in Inman Park in compliment to Mrs. V. E. Berg, of Chicago, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. C. Walter. The tea is one of a series of parties being planned in honor of this attractive visitor. Miss Mathilda Hanson and Miss Anne May Johnston poured tea.

"FULL of PEP!"

If pep is what you lack, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Its tonic action may be just what you need to overcome that draggy, tired, irritable feeling. Mrs. Herbert Cox of Cleveland, Ohio says: "I was all run down. Now I have gained needed weight. I eat and sleep better and feel full of pep." Get a bottle from your druggist NOW. You will be pleased with the results.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Service Star Legion To Be Honored By Mrs. Mellichamp

Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, first vice president of National Service Star Legion, Inc., will honor the Atlanta Starling chapter of Service Star Legion and their mothers with a George Washington party Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, 609 Piedmont avenue, N. E., corner Third street.

Members of the Starling chapter are Emily Moebel, Patricia Brown, Mildred Tye, Betty Booth, Louise Park, Arthur Park Jr., Billy Kimbro, Marion Kimbro, D. D. Kimbro Jr., Ann Winston Driskell, Rachel Ragdale, Walter Gordy Jr., Robert McIntosh Sparks, Betty Ann Ferguson, Barbara Cook, Richard Welborn Moore, Harry C. Garrett Jr., Mary Caroline Lindsay, all of Atlanta, Charles Emory Edwards, Thelma Payne, Charles Madlos, Elberton, Ga.; Ann E. Kersey, Royston; Jimmie Fulghum, Hapeville; Gail Fulghum, Macon; William Larry Strickland, Forsyth; Ransom Burts Jr. and Martha Elizabeth Burts, Hartwell; Betty Stewart, Fort Benning; Paul O'Shields, New Orleans; Mary Louise Young, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mary Aichel, Jacksonville, Fla.; Joan Constantineau, Asheville, N. C.

Mrs. Mellichamp, as second vice president of the national, was in charge of junior work and organized 25 chapters of these inspirational groups. She is now forming the second junior group in Atlanta, and plans to hold a Mat pole dance and Easter hunt for the three junior chapters in Atlanta, and the Decatur Starling chapter.

Miss Davidson Weds N. J. Pugh Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Davidson, of Rome, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Nellie Marion, to N. J. Pugh Jr., of Florida and New York, which took place in the parlor of the First Baptist church at 8 o'clock Thursday, February 7.

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller performed the ceremony before an improvised altar of palms and ferns, which were interspersed with tall silver vases of white flowers and garlands holding white tapestries. Only the family and a small assemblage of close friends were present. George L. Hamrick furnished the music for the occasion.

WOMEN'S MEETINGS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25.

Mimosa Garden Club meets this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Stuart Witham at her home on Andrews drive.

Y. W. C. A. board of directors meets at 10:30 o'clock.

New interest groups begin in the Y. W. C. A. Industrial Club, from 5 to 8:30 o'clock, with a new class in clay-modeling taught by Mrs. W. C. Alexander.

Dean Raimundo de Oviés will speak to the Sisterhood of the Peachtree Road Temple at 11 o'clock. T. e regular meeting of the Sisterhood will be held at 12 o'clock and a luncheon will be served at 1 p. m.

Officers' committee of Atlanta League of Women Voters meets at league headquarters at 10:30 o'clock.

W. M. S. of Capitol Avenue Baptist church will hold a mission study class at 10 o'clock at the church. Mrs. Fred Bridges will teach the book "Winning Along the Border." A box lunch will be served at 1 o'clock.

Fulton Chapter No. 181, O. E. S., meets this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Masonic temple in East Point.

Executive board of Atlanta Kindergarten Alumnae Club meets at 3 p. m. at the office of Miss Mary Dickinson, 286 Forrest avenue.

Circles of Antioch Baptist W. M. S. meet at the church at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. L. Allen, secretary of second district of the Atlanta Association of B. W. M. U. announces information day to be held in Rich's conference room at 10 o'clock.

W. A. Reilly, chorister of Druid Hills Baptist interdenominational department, invites all intermediates to meet at the church this evening for gospel singing from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Groups of the Woman's Council of East Point Christian church meet at 2:30 o'clock as follows: Group 1, with Mrs. H. P. Eidson, 708 Park street; Group 2, with Mrs. C. W. Allen, 319 West Washington street; Group 3, with Mrs. E. G. Nabell, 217 Nabell avenue.

Executive board of Woman's Council of Peachtree Christian church meets at the church at 10:30 o'clock.

Executive board, Druid Hills Baptist W. M. S. meets in the Woman's Bible classroom of the church at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. Roy R. Kracke, of Emory University, will speak on "New Frontiers in Medicine" at the Druid Hills High School P. T. A. meeting to be held at 3 o'clock at the school.

Progressive Grove No. 361, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, meets at 7:30 o'clock at 1931 Whitehall street, Georgia Power Company Woman's clubrooms.

Clara B. Cassidy Club of Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, meets at 7:30 o'clock in the Woodman hall, second floor of Masonic Temple building, in East Point.

Gate City Chapter No. 233, O. E. S., will entertain the 1935 Worth Matrons, the Patrons' Club and honorary members this evening at 7:30 o'clock at 160 Central avenue.

Atlanta alumnae of Alpha Omicron

Atlanta Mother and Little Son

Mrs. Louie William Cleveland and two-year-old son, Louie William Jr., of 429 North Highland. Mrs. Cleveland is the former Miss Virginia Schmidt, of this city. Photo by Alfa Lomax studio.

Gordon Dunthorn To Lecture Tuesday at Garden Center

Gordon Dunthorn, of Washington, D. C., and Kennebunkport, Maine, authority on the historical old-country gardens of Oxford, will lecture on "Oxford and Its Gardens" at the Garden Center, at Rich's, Inc., on Tuesday, February 26, at 3 o'clock in the tea room. The public is invited to attend. Interest is manifested in the lecture because of the efficient way in which Mr. Dunthorn presents his subject. Mr. Dunthorn comes to Atlanta for the first time and a large audience is assured.

Mrs. R. L. Cooney, chairman of the Garden Centers of Georgia, requests that directors or managers of centers in Georgia send reports of their activities to her in order that they may be incorporated in the yearly report to the Garden Club of Georgia. Mrs. Cooney wishes to get in touch with all centers which have organized center headquarters through which garden clubs function.

There is no phase of gardening which will prove of greater interest and delight than the perennial border. A well-planted border of herbaceous perennials is gay and attractive during the spring, summer and autumn months. Whether the border is large or small the plants must be so arranged that the colors of the flowers will harmonize.

Miss Daisy Freeman, of Greenville, Ga., brought to the center some rare pink violet plants from Princeton, N. J. The violets bloom from Christmas through spring.

Mrs. L. G. Daingerfield's classes for making miniature gardens are open to the public. Mrs. Daingerfield is experienced in making the gardens and her model for these classes will come from New York. The classes are rapidly filling up and everyone who wishes to enter is requested to notify the center immediately.

Chairman of the week for the center are: Monday, Daffodil, Mesdames E. H. Freeman, R. R. Turner, J. W. Gilbert, E. L. Piper and D. B. Philpot; Tuesday, Lennox Park, Mesdames W. M. Pendleton, Frank Summer and F. Clare; Wednesday: Piedmont Garden Club, Mrs. Green Warren and her committee; Thursday: Mayflower Garden Club, Mesdames Jett Henson, R. Baker, C. L. McLaughlin and Alexander Dahl; Friday: West End Garden Club, Mesdames M. R. Lovelace, E. K. Williams, W. W. Dudley and L. E. Williams; Saturday: Cascade Garden Club, Mrs. C. C. Berry and her committee.

Leadership Institute To Be Discussed At Y. W. C. A. Luncheon Friday, March 1

An outstanding event of the week at the Y. W. C. A. is the joint committee luncheon to be given Friday, March 1, at 12:30 o'clock, to which all members are invited. Mrs. Howard See, membership chairman, will preside and "Informal Echoes" of the leadership institute will be presented as program feature. Mesdames F. J. Harty, Louis Monzel, Calvin Shelverton and Hal Hentz, in addition to Mrs. See, call their committees to meet at 11:30 o'clock for discussion of Girl Reserve activities and secure new advisors for clubs; public affairs programs, international relations, camp plans for 1935 season and membership methods. All committee members will remain for lunch and others are invited if reservations are made by Thursday.

Mrs. Hal Hentz, vice president, will preside at the board of directors' meeting Monday, 10:30 o'clock, at Mrs. Luther Desser in out of the city. In addition to regular departmental reports, the agenda will include discussion of new ideas presented by national board secretaries last week. New interest groups begin Monday evening in the industrial club, with Mrs. W. W. Alexander, board member and former chairman of industrial committee teaching a new class in clay modeling and pottery. Others in the 5 o'clock tap class by Miss Ruth Williams, of the Atlanta Conservatory, and "Current Events and Citizenship" by Mrs. Lila Ellis. Following supper, a music hour will be enjoyed with group singing, a solo by Miss Mary Jane Weller, national student secretary and Hawaiian numbers by great musicians. After-supper classes include tap, swimming, gym, "Vitamins in Our Foods," by Mrs. Susan Everett.

The second in a series of round dances given by the Rainbow Club will be given Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock in the Y. gym, 37 Auburn avenue.

Dr. Mercer Evans, of Emory University, who has recently returned from Washington, D. C., will discuss "Legislation for Social Security" at the fellowship hour Thursday evening and will lead the Business Girls' League forum at 7:30 o'clock on "Economic Trends." At the music and precision hour Thursday evening, Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend will give an illustrated lecture on "Sculpture and Portraiture of Famous Musicians."

Girl Reserves from all clubs and their friends will enjoy a matinee dance at the Y. Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, when there will be special dance and song numbers by senior high clubs. The five cents admission will be used to send girls to summer conference. Any high school girl is invited and there will be girls from those who do not know how to dance.

All Girl Reserve officers of every club will meet with Miss Anne Fridmore, Friday afternoon, in her office, 37 Auburn avenue, to plan spring programs, talk about Camp Highland and discuss plans for the Girl Reserve regional conference to be held in Atlanta in June. All Girl Reserves interested in securing a Y. physical examination for 25 cents should plan to come to the Y. Saturday, March 2, when the doctor will be in the building.

Musical Benefit. A musical benefit will be given on Thursday, February 28, at 8:15 o'clock in the Civic room of the Henry Grady hotel under the auspices of the Ladies' Oriental Shrine Patrol. The affair will assemble a number of music lovers of the state.

Those taking part in the program include Professor W. W. Leffingwell, Frances Wooten, Mildred Pierson, Mary Anne Schultz, Mesdames J. D. Brown, Sara Horne and Sheppard Landers, Charles H. Perry, J. Gordon Moore, E. B. Hooker and James F. Watson.

Pi meet at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. E. Matheson, 65 Peachtree place, N. E.

Quota Club meets at the Tavern tearoom at 6 o'clock.

East Lake Preschool Circle meets in school auditorium, at 10 o'clock.

The 1935 LeZah Club meets this evening at the home of Mrs. Everett Millican on Dill avenue.

Capitol City Chapter No. 111, O. E. S., meets this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the fraternity hall, 423 1/2 Marietta street, N. W.

Shearith Israel Groups Plan Annual Purim Ball for March 12

The Congregation Shearith Israel and the Shearith Israel Sisterhood announce their second annual Purim ball and bazaar to be held in the Shrine mosque on Tuesday, March 12. This annual affair is sponsored by these two groups to foster the activities of the synagogue located on Washington street. The entire proceeds of this ball will go for the benefit of the synagogue. Among the important activities of the Congregation Shearith Israel is the Shearith Israel Sunday school, which meets on every Sunday morning. This school educates the Jewish youth of this city not only in Judaism, but also in the finer attributes of citizenship. There will be booths for the bazaar, including a refreshment stand, country store and other interesting and varied booths.

The following are members of the committee actively engaged in making this affair a success: Mr. and Mrs. A. Auerbach, Mrs. S. Berman, L. I. Charnason, A. Edelstein, Mr. and Mrs. H. Epstein, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fishman, Mrs. L. Franklin, Miss Bessie Geffen, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Geffen, Mrs. T. Geffen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Greenberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. M. Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. S. Goncher, S. H. Goldstein, A. Idov, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Kovsky, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Krieger, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Kulshers, Mrs. E. M. Manning, A. Miller, Mrs. A.

Tickets for this affair may be obtained from any of the above members or by phoning Walnut 8232. Admission for the Purim ball and bazaar will be 50 cents per couple. Dancing will be held in the ballroom of the Shrine mosque. The public is invited to attend this ball and bazaar, given in honor of the Jewish holiday, Purim, Samuel Geffen, chairman, in charge of the ball and bazaar.

Girl Scout Council Plans Important Meeting for Feb. 27

An important meeting of Atlanta Girl Scout Council will be held Wednesday, February 27, at 10:30 o'clock in the Girl Scout office at Rich's. The newly elected officers and committee chairmen will outline plans for the forthcoming year. Mrs. Albert S. Adams announces. The following officers will be installed: Mr. Albert S. Adams, re-elected commissioner; Mrs. Arthur Harris, newly elected deputy commissioner; Mesdames Kirk Hancock, W. Wright Bryan and J. Marshall Norman, district commissioners; Mrs. Charles V. Minor, secretary; and Mrs. James H. Reeves, treasurer.

The committee chairmen will report as follows: Mrs. John M. Miller, camp committee; Mrs. Charles Shepard, badges and awards; Mrs. James H. Reeves, finance; Mrs. Jack Tison, training and personnel; and Mrs. Russell Bellman, publicity. The following members are urged to be present: Mesdames Lee Ashcraft, Sam Cooper, Parks Hunt, Forrest Fisher, John Stewart, R. H. Wagon, George Noble, Walter Brooks, Grady Clay, Paul Hurlish, Oscar Strauss, Charles Palmer, W. F. Talbot, J. F. Heard, Edward Lewis, Frank Alcorn, James Wells, R. G. Merry and J. B. Stribling.

SOCIETY EVENTS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25.

Mrs. Ennis Wyley gives a trousselle honoring her daughter, Miss Marjorie Wyley, bride-elect.

A program of songs and journalism will be given by the Atlanta Branch League of American Pen Women for members at the studio of Earle Chester Smith in the Grand building. Mrs. Winnie Ream Boyd, vice president, will preside.

Mrs. W. Reid Puckett will entertain at a benefit bridge party for Bhakti Court No. 25, Ladies' Oriental Shrine, at 7:30 o'clock at her home, 626 Park avenue, southeast.

Fritz Orr Club presents Dr. Frank Howard Richardson in a lecture at 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club.

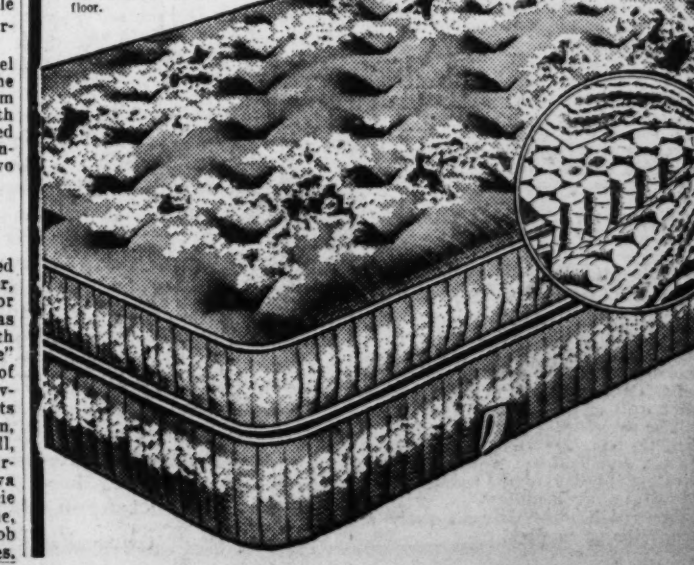

STERCHI'S February SALE of Bedding

Own a Simmons BEAUTYREST and Sleep Like a Millionaire for 2 1/4 PER NIGHT

The most refreshing, restful, luxury sleep in the world can be yours—and at the most it will cost you no more than 24 cents a night! Beautyrest, at $50.50, is guaranteed to you for five years—though we've never heard of one that didn't last years longer! Figure it out if you care to—just 24¢ a night!—Less than your daily paper!... Choose a Beautyrest at Sterchi's today! Special February Sale Terms!

STERCHI'S

Pay Gas Bills and make meter applications at the Gas Company's branch office in Sterchi's first floor.

Birthday Party. Mrs. B. F. Hedges entertained Thursday in honor of her daughter, Jeanne's, sixth birthday. The color scheme of red, white and blue was used, the table being decorated with the colored streamers, "cherry tree" and a group of friends of the two honor guests.

Early spring flowers in pastel shades were used to decorate the house. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered by a bowl filled with colorful flowers. The guests included a group of friends of the two honor guests.

Shades were used to decorate the house. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered by a bowl filled with colorful flowers. The guests included a group of friends of the two honor guests.

Helen Hicks and Charley Black Win Golf Exhibition, and 1

L. S. U. TIGERS CLOSE SEASON WITH 12 WINS

Kentucky Has One More Game and May Share Title.

By Kenneth Gregory, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Winding up its season with a pair of victories over Tulane, the Tigers of Louisiana State, assumed command of the Southeastern Conference basketball conference race today with a perfect record of 12 triumphs.

The University of Kentucky remained out of conference competition during the last week, but registered a couple of sparkling victories over Creighton University and kept pace with the Baton Rouge eagles in the quest for the title won last year by Alabama.

Kentucky has one more conference game, that with Vanderbilt next Saturday night, and should the Commodores succumb to the Wildcat attack the Southeastern crown will rest between the two leaders. Kentucky has cashed in on 10 conference victories and should triumph over Vanderbilt.

L. S. U. WINS TWO.

Louisiana State gave an impressive exhibition in whipping Tulane twice last week by scores of 65 to 20 and 64 to 23. Kentucky took Creighton for a ride in a twin engagement by counts of 63 to 42 and 24 to 13.

A feature of the week's play was the individual performance of Kentucky's star center, Lelroy Edwards, who rolled up the huge total of 34 points, believed to be a conference record, in the opening game against Creighton.

Among the surprises of the six-day program was Georgia's 26-to-21 victory over Alabama's Crimson Tide on Wednesday and a 49-to-39 wallowing administered to the Bulldogs by Georgia Tech's sophomore eagles last night.

Although conquered by Tennessee, 30 to 37, in an overtime period, Vanderbilt remained in third place through nine victories and five defeats, while the Volunteers advanced into fourth rank by wins over the Commodores and Georgia Tech.

Since Kentucky and Louisiana State do not meet, the relative strength of the two clubs may be compared from scores of their opponents during the season.

TOUGH ON ALABAMA.

Louisiana State licked Alabama twice by scores of 34 to 22 and 41 to 39. Kentucky whipped the Crimson Tide on two occasions, 33 to 26 and 25 to 16.

Each team conquered Tulane four times, Kentucky winning by counts of 36 to 9, 52 to 12, 55 to 12 and 63 to 26, while L. S. U. won by margins of 34 to 16, 35 to 24, 65 to 20 and 64 to 23.

The Tigers defeated Vanderbilt twice by scores of 56 to 41 and 40 to 31. Kentucky ran up 58 to 22 victory over Vanderbilt and must hurdle the Commodores this week to challenge for the conference crown.

How They Stand In Southeastern.

Standings of Southeastern conference basketball teams, with the points scored and opponents, as follows:

Team W. L. Pts. Opp. Pts.

Louisiana State.....12 0 576 222
Kentucky.....12 0 555 484
Vanderbilt.....9 5 554 484
Tennessee.....8 6 434 388
Alabama.....8 6 434 388
Mississippi State.....4 3 303 282
Florida.....4 3 316 316
Georgia.....4 3 308 355
Georgia Tech.....4 3 308 354
Auburn.....3 9 319 378
Sewanee.....1 16 401 740
Tulane.....1 16 401 740

J. P. C. Loses To Coaches, 39-32

The Jewish coaches, of Atlanta, playing their only game of the season defeated the Jewish Progressive Club, 39 to 32, with Barney Medley and Meyer Ralser leading the attack. The former rang the hoop for 15 points, one more than Browdy, ace of the varsity five, was able to garner. On defensive play Robert of the Jews, and Seigel, of the victors, were outstanding.

In the preliminary game the Reds defeated the Ft. Mac team, 36 to 21. Hall, of the Jews, and Berger, of the winners, with 10 points each were high scorers.

THE LINEUPS.

Varsity (25): P. D. Spillberger (39), H. Spillberger (10), B. Medley (10), G. Ralser (14), C. Seigel (10), R. Seigel (10), M. Seigel (10), S. Seigel (10), T. Seigel (10), U. Seigel (10), V. Seigel (10), W. Seigel (10), X. Seigel (10), Y. Seigel (10), Z. Seigel (10).

Reserves (20): P. D. Spillberger (39), H. Spillberger (10), B. Medley (10), G. Ralser (14), C. Seigel (10), R. Seigel (10), M. Seigel (10), S. Seigel (10), T. Seigel (10), U. Seigel (10), V. Seigel (10), W. Seigel (10), X. Seigel (10), Y. Seigel (10), Z. Seigel (10).

Referee, Referee, Referee.

Hamas in Search Of Sparring Mates

HAMBURG, Germany, Feb. 24.—(UP)—A week of training for his bout March 10 with Max Schmeling left Steve Hamas without any sparring partners and today the American heavyweight began searching Europe for volunteers.

Bob Cavill, an English heavy, and a Belgian are the latest to appear. Hamas is trying to find others in Poland and Holland. He said today he could not begin sharpening his punches until suitable opponents are obtained for workouts.

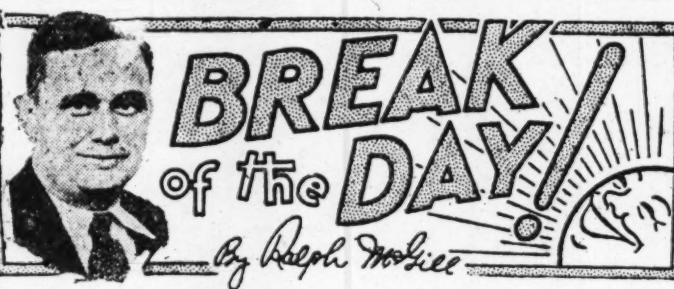

Cubs Off Today For Training Camp

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Chicago's Cubs, under the command of Manager Charlie Grimm, will leave tomorrow night for Santa Catalina Island, Cal., where they will get their first drill of the season Thursday.

Helen Hicks in Action - - - Just Before the Start - - - Dorothy Kirby Tees Off

There was a brilliant exhibition of golf at the Capital City Country Club yesterday. Helen Hicks, former national woman's champion, and Charley Black Jr., former city and state amateur champion, were victors over Charlie Yates, national intercollegiate champion, and Dorothy Kirby, former Georgia woman's champion. A splendid gallery of more than 1,500 witnessed the play. In the layout above, Helen Hicks is shown driving at extreme left. In the center panel are the members of the foursome just before the battle. Left to right, they are Charley Black, Helen Hicks, Dorothy Kirby and Charlie Yates. At the extreme right, Dorothy Kirby is shown teeing off. It was a benefit match sponsored by the girls' circle of the Tallulah Falls school. Charley Black was the leading shotmaker of the all-star ensemble. Staff photos by Turner Hiers.

All right, you explain it! I mean how these girl children can go out there and hit that golf ball—straight, far and true—

While big strong men, holding down important or unimportant jobs, and winning bread or cake for their respective families, go into contortions and come up with topped drives, feeble little fights, or drives which go off at tangents, right or left.

I think the answer is starting early—teaching muscles and brain to combine in a swing which is automatic. Because it is definitely established that the swing is the basis of all golfing success. You can't begin too early.

Helen Hicks, former national champion, summed it up yesterday when she said:

"You must start early but what is more important is you must start because you want to start and because golf is fun enough to keep pulling you out there. A youngster who is driven to golf will never be a success."

"What's the best advice for a youngster?" I asked.

"Go to a good pro first and stay with him until you have learned how to swing," she said.

Dorothy Kirby is an example. The Atlanta youngster has not yet gained her mature strength. Yet she drives a golf ball farther than most grown men who have struggled for a year or so in the duffer class. She began with a good professional and has remained with one. At 14 she was accurate from the tee, sure with her irons and had the touch on the green.

The exhibition yesterday saw several unhappy males looking on in awe and something akin to desperation. Helen Hicks, a very charming young lady with long eyelashes, beautiful eyes and becoming freckles, was magnificent. And little Dorothy was showing unusual skill.

You explain it—to the satisfaction of the army of males who are in their sixth years of trying to cure that slice.

THE CASE FOR THE POODLE.

It was not many days ago, when the Westminster dog show had ended, it being the world series of the dog business, that this column unwisely ventured the opinion it was most sad a poodle dog should have been adjudged the best dog in the world. And that all upstanding dogs were greatly put out about it. Most poodles I have known have been suffering from asthma and bad tempers.

That started it. The letters arrived, beginning:

"Dear sir, you cad—" and went on in that cheerful little vein. Some of them hinted, rather darkly, that there was some sinister meaning behind this disparagement of a noble breed, the poodle.

Mr. Thomas C. Cubb, of Thomasville and Springwood plantation, has saved the day. He writes in a brilliant article on the poodle. As follows:

The main purpose of my letter was to cheer up the downhearted McGill dogs. I read of their chagrin on hearing that a poodle had won the best dog in the show at New York and while sympathizing with their feelings entirely (having the same prejudice myself) I thought that they and you would feel better if you realize that, however perverted from it, the poodle had a use. Curiously enough in the dark days of his past the poodle was a sporting dog. In fact he was a retriever. The very word POODLE is merely a variant—German, I believe—of poodle. In other words, before joining the parasitic upper strata of dogdom, the poodle was a very excellent duck dog. Quite as good as a Labrador or a Chesapeake Bay. And from what I hear if you left him unshaven and gave him the opportunity he could become a good duck dog still. He still has the instinct to retrieve. There seems to be some sort of a moral to this which I will leave to your dogs to determine. The trouble with the poodle was, however, that he had too keen an intelligence and so the circus people got a hold of him. And they shaved him for the same reason that they paint spots on a clown. Then the ladies saw him and he was just too adorable for words. They tied ribbons in his hair and instead of diving into the water for ducks he sat up and barked for bon-bons. That sealed his fate. He became a dog Lord Fauntleroy dressed in velvet suits. But I bet if you asked one of your dog family to

Continued on Second Sports Page.

GLADING HEADS DUCKPIN BODY

Ed Glading, star left-hand bowler of the city, who is a member of the City, Business Men's and Merchants' Duckpin leagues, was elected to the office of president of the Atlanta Duckpin Association at the annual meeting of the organization Sunday.

A. L. Stokes, who is president of the Business Men's league, was chosen as vice president; Clifford W. Dennis, of the City, Business Men's and Bell System leagues, was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Plans were discussed for a city tournament to be bowled this spring. John C. Towles, retiring president, made an impressive plea to members to strengthen the organization and to encourage new bowlers in joining the membership.

The executive committee elected by the membership present was: George B. French, chairman; George H. Tyler, and John E. Hartken.

The retiring officers, in addition to Mr. Towles, include Jack Strochi, vice president; Walter E. Lawson, secretary. Members expressed themselves as feeling that the past year was the most successful twelve months that the local duckpin body had functioned since its inception.

Henry Hope, of the Independents, had the high three game of the Southern Duckpin league Saturday evening, bowling games of 118, 116, 91 for a total score of 325 for the set, as his team won three games from the Ramblers.

Hope was aided considerably by Paine, Smith, Wells and Wilkerson. Cain, Bruce and Clonts had the high games for the Ramblers.

The strikers surprised the strong Hawkins Electric Company in winning two games from them. H. Arnsold, Mendenhall and Kaasbohm having the big scores for the winners. Nelms, W. Hays, Edwards, Lee had big counts for the Hawkins Electric Company five.

Auxiliary of Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, had the high single game of the evening for the league with a big 136 which he bowled in the opening game. Barrow and Smith had big scores for the Dr. Peppers also. Dr. Pepper won two from Georgia Roofing & Supply Company.

The Georgia Roofing & Supply Company bowled the high team game of the evening with a big 313. Myers, Fitzgerald, Threlkel and Meisel bowled the big scores for the Roofers.

Story of Alarm Clock That Flushed a Covey

Mechanical Marauder That Prowls Into Sleep of Innocent Citizens Gives Novice a Thrill.

By Jack Troy.

It was like this . . . A party of Atlanta sportsmen, including one that had never hunted quail, was out in a field near Athens.

It was dusk as the dogs froze to a point. The men drew up, guns ready. There was the soft quiet of a primeval forest when the wind isn't blowing.

The men crept on up. And suddenly there was a metallic clatter which was slightly muffled but distinctly metallic. It shattered the silence and the birds shortly were up in a whirl of sound and away.

The fellow who had never hunted quail before stood tense. He heard the metallic clatter and, never having experienced the thrill of a covey on the wing, promptly retired into that state known as confusion.

He stood there, tense as the dogs on point. He didn't fire when the sudden clatter broke the stillness and when the covey flushed in the next breath, so to speak, it was entirely too much. He simply stood and watched them on their way.

FAMILIAR SOUND.

It suddenly dawned on the quail novice and another member of the party that something was very wrong. The sound, the more they thought of it, was the same as on many mornings had waked them out of a deep sleep.

And so they found the alarm clock, clattering insistently in the back of Wade Parr's shooting coat. Parr, Athens sportsman, had forgotten to take it out of the coat.

It is very likely the first time on record that a covey of quail was flushed by an alarm clock, although it is a well-known fact that this device of mechanical torture has been instrumental in flushing many heavy-eyed citizens out of the comforting warmth of a bed, so to speak.

There is a story behind the alarm clock. That is, this particular alarm clock. It has kept the faith.

Parr runs a filling station in Athens. Having his supper hour between 4 and 6, which corresponds with 5 o'clock and 7 in Atlanta, Parr is on duty in the morning at 5 o'clock and a half of hunting before returning for duty.

The Georgia Roofing & Supply Company bowled the high team game of the evening with a big 313. Myers, Fitzgerald, Threlkel and Meisel bowled the big scores for the Roofers.

RAN LATE.

On several occasions before he thought of an alarm clock he ran across coveys late in the afternoon and forgot all about work. So it was that he was anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour late in getting back to the job.

He found an alarm clock very handy. He'd simply set the clock at 5:45 or thereabouts, place it in the back of his hunting coat and go on about his shooting business. The insistent jangle of the clock would warn him that time was up.

On this occasion, however, Parr had plenty of time. He had simply fallen into the habit of taking the clock along. And so old faithful, the mechanical marauder that prowls into the sleep of innocent citizens, kept the faith, as usual, and a novice at quail shooting was induced into the sport by a very novel method.

There can be no question about the accuracy of this story. C. L. Davis and B. D. Duke, officials of the West End Gun Club, were along on the hunt. They will gladly take all skeptics to Athens and show them the very alarm clock that flushed the covey.

Cleveland To Win, Hornsby Stars

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 24.—(UP)—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns, expressed belief today that Babe Ruth will continue with the Yankees during 1935 and that Cleveland will win the American league pennant.

Hornsby stopped here a few hours today en route from Hot Springs, Ark., to the Browns' training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

"That team has everything," he said, "that team has everything, and added that with their punch and defense power and the youth of the players, on paper, they look like the class of the league."

"There are a lot of good teams in the league, and it's going to be a dog fight," he said. "I don't like to predict about the other teams."

East Lake Play Won With Great 131

Alfred Sargent, George Fox, Joe McCrorey and J. W. Roach finished all square with B. B. Gay, George Rudolph, L. E. Mock and M. R. Campbell Sunday afternoon in the regular weekly dog fight on the No. 2 East Lake course. The winning score was 131, 11 strokes under par.

Four foursomes tied for second place. They were W. H. Vaughn, R. S. Mather, J. R. Loneragan and B. H. Hutson, J. R. McConnell, George Ware, J. E. Van Horn and J. P. Wilhoit, P. G. Lombard, W. C. Johnson, W. W. Arwood and J. M. Marshall and G. C. Butts, C. W. Carver, Willis Sallaway and J. R. Cochran. The second place score was 134.

AZUCAR IS SET FOR BIG 'CHASE

By Paul Zimmerman.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Azucar, winner of the richest turf prize of all time, will continue to double in brass.

The great Irish-bred gelding with the Spanish name which won the inaugural Santa Anita handicap and $108,400 yesterday will continue racing on the flat this year, but his next goal is the grand national steeplechase at Aintree, England, in 1936.

This was the plan today of F. M. Jager Jr., Detroit lumber dealer, who purchased the seven-year-old chestnut gelding by Milesius out of Clarice last year.

Azucar will be shipped to Bay Meadows to be pointed for the $50,000 handicap in the spring meeting there. He will go east for the summer and fall turf classics. Then he will return to his first love—jumping.

Yesterday's triumph over one of the finest fields in the history of American horse racing before a crowd of 45,000 persons, boosted the thoroughbred's earnings to $128,430. Of this amount, $114,150 was won here in seven weeks.

COMES ALONG.

Azucar won only $14,280 in 1934 and of that amount, approximately $8,000 was collected from steeplechase events. Out of 15 starts in 1934 and 1935, he won seven races, finished second twice and third twice.

Regardless of the fact that he probably was the most sound of the top-rated horses in the race, his victory came as a surprise. The clockers were convinced a week ago that Azucar had been over-trained. After winning the $50,000 handicap from Mad Frump, High Glee and Fair-eno, his performance was only ordinary.

February 2 he was fourth to Jabot, Top Road and Black Ace. A week later he ran third to Head Play and Fleam and appeared not to take well to his training diet thereafter.

Then yesterday he ran past a field of 20 starters on the stretch to win the mile and a quarter in 2 minutes 20 seconds flat, sensational time for so large a gathering, with a gale blowing sharply into the face of the runners on the long back stretch.

LADYSMAN SURPRISES.

The place position of Ladysman, two lengths back of the winner, was only less sensational. William R. Coe's son of Pompey came here a cripple. He had suffered a bad knee and then a bowed tendon. Only three weeks ago it seemed he wouldn't be able to start.

First evidence that Ladysman might be up to form was given February 11 when he sprinted 6 furlongs to victory in 1 minute 11 seconds. He was nominated to go last Monday against Equipoise and Twenty Grand in the last prepping event before the classic. But Coe telegraphed from New York to scratch the horse and take no chances.

He trained brilliantly through the week, and put up as game a race yesterday as has been seen on this track.

What happened to Equipoise, the turf king, here seeking to become the leading money winner of all time, remained a question. Jockey Raymond (Sonny) Workman, who has ridden the C. V. Whitney thoroughbred in most of his great races said:

"He just didn't run. We had good luck at the start and were in good position at the first turn where he was on the outside of two horses. Ekky started slipping back."

"I hit him and urged him on, but he still slipped back. His first half was bad. I can't tell why, but he just didn't run. He was in fine condition, fit as ever."

On the home stretch Equipoise tried, but it was too late then, and the best he could do was to go up from twelfth to seventh.

MILLER WINS.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(UP)—Fredie Miller, Cincinnati, Ohio, featherweight ten-round decision over Benny Kaplan, London, tonight. Miller floored the British boxer once in the fifth, three times in the sixth and again in the eighth round and led throughout the fight.

Davis and Reddick Win at John White

H. O. Davis Jr., former professional at the James L. Key municipal course, and Sam Reddick defeated Fred Owens, John White municipal champion, and C. B. Walker, a former Piedmont park caddy, on the 18th green at the John White course Sunday afternoon.

Owens and Davis shared medal honors with 75%.

There were more than 100 spectators in the crowd which followed the match.

1,500 GALLERY WATCHES PLAY OVER 18 HOLES

Dorothy Kirby, Charlie Yates Improve Game on Incoming Nine.

By Roy White.

Helen Hicks, former national woman's champion, and Charlie Black Jr., former city and state amateur champion, two veteran campaigners, defeated Charlie Yates, national intercollegiate champion, and Dorothy Kirby, former Georgia woman's champion, 2-1, Sunday afternoon on the Capital City Country Club course.

It was a benefit match, sponsored by the City Circle of the Tallulah Falls school, and was witnessed by more than 1,500 spectators. It was one of the largest crowds to follow an exhibition match in Atlanta in many years, and the spectators were rewarded with some excellent golf.

BLACK SETS PACE.

Charlie Black Jr. set the pace with a 73, two strokes over par, with Yates only one stroke back. Miss Hicks carded a fine 75 which is several strokes below woman's par for Capital City, and Dorothy Kirby carded an 84.

A tough break on the eighth hole, where she drove two balls in the lake, spoiled an otherwise good round for Miss Kirby, the former Georgia champion.

Black and Yates divided driving honors for the afternoon, with Miss Hicks only a few yards back on almost every hole. Dorothy trailed, but her iron shots were straight down the middle for the most part and her putting was very good.

The Hicks-Black combination went into the lead at the short third hole and were never overtaken, though Kirby and Yates fought back game on the back nine. Both Black and Hicks carded par three's to go one up, as both Charlie and Dorothy were just off the green with their drives.

TWO UP AT FIFTH.

Miss Hicks and Black went two up at the fifth with par four's as Charlie and Yates were one up. A birdie three for Black on the eighth and a halved ninth hole, gave Black and Miss Hicks an advantage of three up at the twelfth.

Black and Miss Hicks each had a 37, one over par on the first nine, which was some good golf.

Charlie Black played one of the best shots of the afternoon at the 11th hole when his drive was only a few inches away from the cup. The birdie two gave his side a four-up advantage.

Kirby and Yates began their rally on the 12th hole when Yates carded a birdie four. It was the first hole that the young pair had won in the match and cut the margin to three down.

The next three holes were halved, but Yates fought back with a par four at the 15th, to cut the margin to two down.

"Great possibilities," was the expression of Miss Hicks concerning the play of Dorothy Kirby and Charlie Yates. "I saw Miss Kirby last year at White Marsh, and her game has improved wonderfully. She has added height and weight, which will be a great asset in the next few years. Dorothy's iron game is very good and her woods and long irons will improve with experience. She has a wonderful personality and loves golf. Continued play in exhibition matches of this importance will make her hard to beat," Miss Hicks added.

The cards:

Par.....433 543 445-36
Hicks out.....533 543 534-37
Black out.....423 544 444-37
Yates out.....423 544 444-38
Kirby out.....364 544 674-46
Parr.....423 544 444-36-71
Black in.....423 543 445-37-72
Hicks in.....423 543 445-37-73
Yates in.....423 543 445-37-74
Kirby in.....423 543 445-37-75

Southeastern Loop Is Still Status Quo

MACON, Ga., Feb. 24.—(UP)—President Roy Williams declared tonight that the Southeastern league remains "status quo."

Applauding no help has yet been found for the quarreling Columbus franchise. Joe Carr, promotional director for the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues is still seeking to locate a supporter for the club, Williams said.

Regarding the Montgomery situation, a tangle between Cramton bowl officials and Branch Riecke of the St. Louis Cardinals, the loop prey said he expected to receive a letter from Montgomery interests tomorrow that would clarify the problem.

The next league meeting, scheduled Sunday in Pensacola, is contingent on location of a backer for Columbus. Unless this is found before Friday morning, Williams will abandon the circuit, although at the present moment he still entertains hopes of ironing out difficulties that have hindered the organization from the beginning of plans two months ago.

Pro Tournament Win by Nusslein

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.—(UP)—Hans Nusslein, German ace, dropped the first set of their final match to Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovak tennis master, but came back to take the next three hands and win a professional tournament here today, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

The final match of a week of pro tennis duels saw the national champion lachrymatically warm up in the first set and then assume complete control of the match.

Dropping soft jobs, or whipping stinging placements, Nusslein kept Kozeluh constantly on the run. The Czech exhausted after trying to match Nusslein's blazing pace and was missing easy gets in the third and fourth sets.

Davis and Reddick Win at John White

H. O. Davis Jr., former professional at the James L. Key municipal course, and Sam Reddick defeated Fred Owens, John White municipal champion, and C. B. Walker, a former Piedmont park caddy, on the 18th green at the John White course Sunday afternoon.

Owens and Davis shared medal honors with 75%.

There were more than 100 spectators in the crowd which followed the match.

Charlie Yates To Shave Two Stripes Off Game, Sargent Says

ATLANTA STAR COMING ALONG; OFFERS THREAT

Major Title Is Certain Either This Year or Next.

By Ralph McGill.

"Two strokes should come off Charlie Yates' game this summer," said George Sargent, East Lake professional, as he watched Atlanta's national intercollegiate champion shooting from the tee in practice yesterday.

"Yes, I think he should shave off two strokes. I doubt if Lawson Little gets any better. If Yates can go ahead and reduce his scores by that much it will mean he has a real chance to win the national amateur this year—giving him a few breaks." Yates' exhibition match yesterday, in which he performed with Charlie Black, Helen Hicks, and Dorothy Kirby, was his real spring start. From now on he will be busy with his golf.

PLENTY OF GOLF. He will compete in the national open and amateur providing he qualifies; in the western, the national intercollegiate and in the Georgia intercollegiate.

Sargent believes Yates' game has become sound enough for him to step out and win one of the major titles this year or next. The East Lake champion is not yet 22 years of age. Bobby Jones was just 22 when he began to put together that great string of victories which left him the greatest champion golfer ever known.

Yates has qualified in two national opens, three national amateurs and in the western. In his national tournaments he was unfortunate in catching some performance which was going at top speed, usually the fellow who was to go on and win.

GOOD SHOWING. In the national open last year he was ahead of three Walker Cup stars.

In the western he was well up. In the Masters at Augusta he was the low amateur in a field which included George Dunlap, the then amateur champion.

Yates remains the same unspoiled boy he was at the start. He is a senior at Georgia Tech, a leader there, and is popular at all tournaments. He hasn't a jittery disposition and doesn't worry about matches. His temperament is an ideal one.

Of all the amateurs in the field he looks to this reporter as the best prospect for the 1935 amateur championship. He has the game, the temperament and the desire to win it.

Braves To Begin Spring Work Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 24. (AP)—The Braves will begin spring training for the 1935 baseball season tomorrow with most of the squad present to take part in the opening workout.

Catcher Frank Hogan, Shortstop Bill Evers, Pitchers Ben Cantwell, Fred Frankhouse and Elmer Rhee have been waiting with Manager Bill McKechnie several days for the rest of the players.

Ed Cunningham, club secretary; Pitcher Bobbie Brown, infielders Elbert Fletcher and Gene Sullivan, Catchers Hank Garry and Al Spahr and a half dozen rookies arrived today. Pitchers Walter Betts, Bob Smith and Leo Manum are expected to arrive by tomorrow.

"There isn't a single holdout on the club," Manager McKechnie said.

HIGGINS SIGNS.

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 24. (AP)—Frank (Pinkie) Higgins, Philadelphia Athletic third baseman, said he had come to terms with the club for the 1935 season and would depart tomorrow for the spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla.

Down the Alleys

Walter E. Lawson, high average individual bowler of the city, will start a series of singles and doubles championships that will be bowled each Saturday evening between the city's outstanding stars, when he bowled a series of 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000.

A double attraction will be featured next Saturday when A. J. Sosong, bowler Walter E. Lawson and another bowler will be eliminated from the challenge ranks. Also Don Morris and Bebe Bangert are scheduled to bowl five games in a similar meet.

The City Duckpin league, one of the fastest bowling leagues in the city, has six teams within a week of the end of the season. The standings in the race for the second half title, so tonight's schedule in this circuit should provide four well balanced and closely contested fights.

Walter A. Guest bowls Belle Isle Garage; Ansley Hotel vs. Bick's Bowling Center; Model Laundry vs. Friendly Shoes; Pinson Tire Company vs. Zachry's will be the arguments. Friendly Shoes and Ansley Hotel are tied for the lead; Belle Isle Garage and Pinson Tire are tied for second place; Model Laundry and Bick's Bowling Center are tied for third.

The Atlanta Eagles' two tenpin teams won their series with the Charleston (S. C.) Rifle Club teams at Bick's drives this past week-end. Each of the local teams won two games from the invaders.

L. (Fuzzy) Perryman was the high individual bowler of this evening, having games of 253, 181, 172 for a 606 series. Perryman's game of 253 was high for one game. Harry Cayton, high individual A. R. C. tournament champion in 1919, was second high for the evening with 509.

Presbyterian Class bowls Westminster Presbyterian Lowlanders; Fellowship vs. Agogus; Westminster Presbyterian Highlanders vs. Mr. Perian Baptist; Grace Methodist vs. Virginia Avenue Baptist; Trinity Methodist vs. Peachtree Christian Church will be the schedule for the Bible Class and Sunday School league.

The Dixie and Georgian-American Tenpin, the Passenger Club and Atlanta Journal Duckpin leagues are slated to bowl their regular league games tonight, and some splendid games will be recorded in each and every group.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Kenneth Rice

The much-discussed George Herman Babe Ruth was staring moodily through a locker window at the snow-covered ground.

"I don't see why a little snow should stop us," he said. "I'd like to play golf, snow or no snow."

"If you had your pick," I asked Babe, "what would you rather do in baseball this season?"

"If I had my pick I'd like to manage a ball club and play first base. I'd be good for 125 games at least, as that job is much easier on the legs. I wouldn't have to miss many games in a season. I played first base on our trip that took us to Japan and never had a kink or an ache all the time."

"Suppose you don't get a manager's job?" I asked him.

"I ask you," Babe said again. "I'm through with baseball. No one seems to believe I mean it, but it happens to be true."

The main fact in the case is this—the Babe can do without baseball in better fashion than baseball can do without the Babe. He has meant too much to the game for the last 20 years.

Baseball needs all the help it can get. Racing and other sports are cutting in heavily in many places. And there is still only one Babe left.

PLENTY OF GOLF. He will compete in the national open and amateur providing he qualifies; in the western, the national intercollegiate and in the Georgia intercollegiate.

Sargent believes Yates' game has become sound enough for him to step out and win one of the major titles this year or next. The East Lake champion is not yet 22 years of age. Bobby Jones was just 22 when he began to put together that great string of victories which left him the greatest champion golfer ever known.

Yates has qualified in two national opens, three national amateurs and in the western. In his national tournaments he was unfortunate in catching some performance which was going at top speed, usually the fellow who was to go on and win.

GOOD SHOWING. In the national open last year he was ahead of three Walker Cup stars.

In the western he was well up. In the Masters at Augusta he was the low amateur in a field which included George Dunlap, the then amateur champion.

Yates remains the same unspoiled boy he was at the start. He is a senior at Georgia Tech, a leader there, and is popular at all tournaments. He hasn't a jittery disposition and doesn't worry about matches. His temperament is an ideal one.

Of all the amateurs in the field he looks to this reporter as the best prospect for the 1935 amateur championship. He has the game, the temperament and the desire to win it.

THE BABE'S FIRST PICK. The much-discussed George Herman Babe Ruth was staring moodily through a locker window at the snow-covered ground.

"I don't see why a little snow should stop us," he said. "I'd like to play golf, snow or no snow."

"If you had your pick," I asked Babe, "what would you rather do in baseball this season?"

"If I had my pick I'd like to manage a ball club and play first base. I'd be good for 125 games at least, as that job is much easier on the legs. I wouldn't have to miss many games in a season. I played first base on our trip that took us to Japan and never had a kink or an ache all the time."

"Suppose you don't get a manager's job?" I asked him.

"I ask you," Babe said again. "I'm through with baseball. No one seems to believe I mean it, but it happens to be true."

The main fact in the case is this—the Babe can do without baseball in better fashion than baseball can do without the Babe. He has meant too much to the game for the last 20 years.

Baseball needs all the help it can get. Racing and other sports are cutting in heavily in many places. And there is still only one Babe left.

PLENTY OF GOLF. He will compete in the national open and amateur providing he qualifies; in the western, the national intercollegiate and in the Georgia intercollegiate.

Sargent believes Yates' game has become sound enough for him to step out and win one of the major titles this year or next. The East Lake champion is not yet 22 years of age. Bobby Jones was just 22 when he began to put together that great string of victories which left him the greatest champion golfer ever known.

Yates has qualified in two national opens, three national amateurs and in the western. In his national tournaments he was unfortunate in catching some performance which was going at top speed, usually the fellow who was to go on and win.

GOOD SHOWING. In the national open last year he was ahead of three Walker Cup stars.

In the western he was well up. In the Masters at Augusta he was the low amateur in a field which included George Dunlap, the then amateur champion.

Yates remains the same unspoiled boy he was at the start. He is a senior at Georgia Tech, a leader there, and is popular at all tournaments. He hasn't a jittery disposition and doesn't worry about matches. His temperament is an ideal one.

Of all the amateurs in the field he looks to this reporter as the best prospect for the 1935 amateur championship. He has the game, the temperament and the desire to win it.

THE BABE AND CRICKET. I asked the Babe how far he could hit a cricket ball.

"Their crack cricket player told me he could hit one 600 feet," Ruth answered, "but I don't believe it. I can't hit a baseball—much less a cricket ball."

"I can hit a baseball—which is under 600 feet."

"Cricket must be a good game from the way they take it to—it but it would never suit me or other ball players."

One funny thing about cricket is that their star player gets only $40 a week in spite of the fact that crowds of 40,000 or even 50,000 are in the stands.

It is a great arrangement for the promoter—but not so good for the player.

In the wake of all the guesses launched, we got Babe on the scales and his displacement was 232 pounds.

"Don't forget," he said, "that I weighed 253 when I hit 54 home runs, and 250 when I hit 60. I'm lighter now than I was at this time last year, my legs are in better shape, and I feel better in every way."

Moreland Winner At Houston Again

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 24. (AP)—Gus Moreland—the rangy Walker Cup star—said "slipping"—leisurely batted his fourth Houston Country club invitation golf title by crushing Zell Eaton, the western amateur champion, 5 and 3 in the 36-hole final today.

Stripped of all his titles last year, Moreland's triumph was a complete back campaign with victory in the face of gusty wind.

BREAK of the DAY!

Continued From First Sports Page.

talk to him privately about it you would find he was pretty sick about it. And I bet if you asked him to help you get your limit on almost any reedy Georgia lake you would find he would be glad to go.

All of which means that a league must be formed to emancipate the poodle. Let him quit being mama's darling with perfume coat and shaved legs. Let him go back to his job, which is retrieving ducks.

The S. F. T. E. O. T. P. D. is now open for members—The Society for the Emancipation of the Poodle Dog. Let's take him out of his Little Lord Fauntleroy suit and put him in his swimming trunks.

The very idea—treating a sporting dog in that fashion! The S. F. T. E. O. T. P. D. must triumph.

THE WINNING DOG. I apologize to the poodle. They have done him wrong. But he is a real dog just the same.

The story of the championship of Nunsoe Duc de la Terrace, the Westminster winner, is an interesting one. Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, the owner of the winning dog, and who handled him during the winning of the championship, originally did not care for poodles.

It was Sherman Hoyt, who, looking over the kennel of cockers, cairns, dachshunds and beagles, said, "They are all right but they are not poodles."

Duke is imported from England where he had won several championships before completing his triumphs with the American victory.

Another poodle is credited with saving the life of the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Hoyt. The small son had toddled off to the edge of a high bluff over a lake. The poodle placed himself in front of the child and kept him from falling in, the frightened mother hearing the dog's barks and rescuing the child.

That "sold" Mrs. Hoyt on poodles.

But it doesn't alter the fact the poodle should be allowed to go back to his duck hunting.

GRAY FEATURES SKEET PROGRAM WITH LONG RUN

Airport Manager Breaks 122 Straight; Shoot Is Great Success.

By Jack Troy.

Chief among the surprises at the West End Gun Club's "surprise shoot" yesterday afternoon was Jack Gray's brilliant run of 122 straight skeet targets.

The movie of weeks past the airport manager was right on those whirling devices of the air.

It also was surprising how fast shooters went through the "Lucky Five" club, meaning that each participant shooting a straight was entitled to a carton of cigarettes.

The movie of weeks past the "Lucky Five" club had been lucky in name only. Straights, for one reason and another, were conspicuously missing.

Yesterday, a fine day, found the boys bearing down, however, and the club, which was inaugurated for the month of February, passed out of existence.

With Addison Smith, Sam Ham, L. B. Duke, Jack Gray and Paul Keller carting off the winnings.

A WINNER. Jack Gray was, of course, the winner of the "surprise" package. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.

He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets. He broke 50 straight on registered targets.</

ATLANTA
The Buying Center of the Southeast

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

ATLANTA
The Headquarters of Diversified Industry

Courts & Company Reviews U. S. Supreme Court's Ruling on Gold Clause

DECISION REMOVES DRAG ON BUSINESS; FINANCING BEGINS

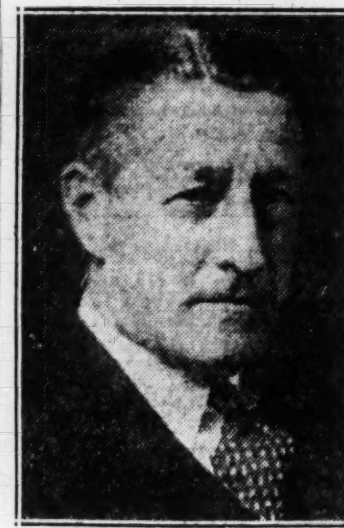

Tribunal's Action Favorably Received by Both Domestic and Foreign Industrial Leaders.

By FRANK B. SITES,
Courts & Company.

The one absorbing topic of interest to all business in recent weeks has been the decision of the United States supreme court in the several gold cases recently brought before that body. Probably no case ever before that tribunal has been so deeply and widely concerned with the economic status of the nation. It not only was considered of prime importance in this country, but held an international interest as well.

Generally speaking, the decision as handed down has been enthusiastically received, particularly by domestic corporation heads and business leaders. The foreign reaction has, for the most part, also been favorable. That the response was not immediately shown in a steady improvement in security and commodity prices has been a great disappointment to many, and to such an extent in some quarters was this disappointment felt that the favorable aspects have been entirely lost sight of. For months before the court started its deliberations, financing, although at a low ebb, started slowing up still further until it came to a virtual standstill. Reorganizations and refunding operations, so necessary to insure a more healthy condition in various industries, could not be carried on with any degree of confidence or success. New capital, including refunding, obtained by American corporations during January this year, was the third smallest monthly amount since the December monthly financing records began in 1935. Now this brake has been removed and the next several months should see a rapid increase in this important readjustment, to the benefit of all business. In addition, the removal of currency uncertainty in this country, it

Two Insurance Executives Visit Maddox Agency Here

H. M. Holderness (left), vice president in charge of agencies, and H. I. B. Rice (right), vice president and actuary, of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, visiting the N. Baxter Maddox agency Saturday, reported a continued healthy volume of sales both in life insurance and annuities.

The Baxter Maddox Agency, Atlanta representatives of The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, was visited Saturday by two high officials of the company—H. M. Holderness, vice president in charge of agencies, and H. I. B. Rice, vice president and actuary—who are making an extended tour, visiting The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, and its agencies in the South.

The Baxter Maddox Agency maintains offices in the Citizens & Southern National Bank building. Mr. Holderness, during his visit here, stated that the gains made in life insurance and annuity sales during 1934 are continuing. For the first month of 1935, he pointed out, The Connecticut Mutual experienced a gain of 34.1 per cent in life insurance paid sales over the corresponding period of last year.

It is undoubtedly true that many proposed legislative acts, both local and national, are having an adverse influence on particular industries. Labor troubles and rumors of troubles still are major influences that retard industrial activity. In spite of these, which are important, the big drag in all business has been the difficulty in securing required capital. While the decision does not necessarily mean that all required capital will be immediately forthcoming, it undoubtedly will release a great amount, which in turn will restore more confidence to those who hesitate. Allowing for seasonal influences and other superficial reverses, the trend of business should continue upward with a broadening front now that this major uncertainty is removed. The pressure of money now in bank deposits with exceedingly small returns, is bound to break out into industrial and investment fields, which time the results of dollar devaluation will become more apparent in our domestic price structure.

ORIGINAL INVITES MIDNIGHT DINERS; MENU IS VARIED

Popular Waffle Shop Caters Especially to After-Dance and Theater Parties.

After-theater, after-dance and other midnight diners are finding in the Original Waffle Shop Restaurant, at 82 Pryor street, N. E., an increasingly desirable rendezvous, according to John Chotas, under whose efficient management this institution has won a deserved popularity since its opening three years ago.

Whether the appetite demands a mere snack or a more substantial meal the Original Waffle Shop Restaurant's menu night and day provides what its patrons want, at attractive prices, with high quality always predominant.

Mr. Chotas, who has lived in Atlanta since 1918, knows the Atlanta clientele, and takes righteous pride in the popularity his restaurant has achieved due to its understanding of discriminating appetites. This standard of service has been largely responsible, he believes, for the steadily increasing number of midnight parties.

The indescribably tasty and delicious waffles for which the Original has long been famous, are especially recommended for after-theater and after-dance parties. Crispy and golden brown, creamily smooth in texture and light as a feather, they are served with maple syrup and drenched with melted butter—a delicacy conducive to pleasant dreams.

The Original Waffle Shop Restaurant, however, is open at all hours, and takes special pride in its regular lunches and dinners for professional and business men and women. It offers a wide selection of only the choicest western meats, and sea foods received daily by express from Atlantic and Gulf ports.

A staff of neatly uniformed waitresses, thoroughly trained, courteous and efficient, is under the personal supervision of a long experienced head waitress.

Cleanliness and high quality go hand in hand at the Original, and Chris Chotas, brother of the manager and in personal charge of the kitchen, invites inspection of his domain at any time. The kitchen is modernly equipped with the most up-to-date fixtures, and perfect sanitation is maintained throughout.

CRUMBLEY SHOWS MARKED ADVANCE IN AD DISTRIBUTION

Dependability, Thoroughness of Local Coverage Widely Are Recognized by Advertisers.

The pulse of business the nation over, as reflected in house-to-house distribution of advertising matter, has quickened to a noticeable degree in recent months, declares A. S. Crumbley, president of the Crumbley Distributing Service, 121 Edgewood avenue, S. E., whose dependable service is widely recognized by both local and national concerns.

The truth of this assertion is clearly demonstrated by the fact that during 1934 the Crumbley Distributing Service staff delivered direct to the doors and desks of Atlanta consumers more than 7,000,000 pieces of advertising matter, which included samples, broadsides, circulars, booklets, pamphlets and many other types of advertising literature.

Since its organization, the Crumbley Distributing Service has delivered to Atlanta homes approximately 100,000,000 individual pieces of advertising matter—a graphic illustration of its power in disseminating the advertising messages of both local and national business houses.

In recent weeks, the Crumbley organization has distributed many thousands of booklets for the Kellogg Company, to be followed at an early date with Kellogg's spring samples. Other recent distribution jobs undertaken with marked success by the local concern have included approximately 50,000 Swamp Root almanacs, 100,000 "B.L." booklets, 30,000 Juniper Tar pamphlets and 65,000 pieces of advertising for the Creamation Company, Inc.

These jobs are indicative of the widespread recognition by nationally known manufacturers, of the efficiency, dependability and thoroughness obtained for their advertising through the Crumbley Distributing Service. The Crumbley organization is an accredited associate member of the Exclusive Distributors' Association and of the Advertising Distributors of America, which membership guarantees to the advertiser a faithful performance and full completion of the work for which he contracts. It also guarantees that every piece of advertising so distributed will be carefully placed, to eliminate loss or waste.

A feature of Crumbley service is individual coverage. Each job is carried out individually, and no route man ever is sent out with advertising manager for two concerns.

Every Crumbley route man and supervisor is uniformed, a fact which serves as a safeguard against fraud and an assurance of strict adherence to the rigid standards demanded in the work.

Every man in the Crumbley organization is hand-picked and carefully trained for the job of distribution. Knowing the fallacies of youth, Mr. Crumbley does not use boys for distribution work, every member of his personnel being an adult, most of them married men, whose reputations and whose security depends largely upon the efficiency with which he carries out his duties. These men undergo a thorough training for their jobs, at the house of Mr. Crumbley, and then are sent out in teams of four. Their work is checked by supervisors, thus giving the advertiser an added assurance that his advertising properly reaches the hands of the consumer.

Every piece of advertising matter distributed by the Crumbley organization must be of high standard and must represent a firm of unquestionable character. No matter of questionable merit is distributed.

The business house contemplating house-to-house distribution of advertising matter of any kind is invited to confer with Mr. Crumbley on his problem of distribution, and estimates on any job will be given without cost. Mr. Crumbley points out, in this connection, that his highly specialized service permits the selection of any given territory for coverage, eliminating any areas where distribution of advertising would be of doubtful value.

Direct Mail's Value Cited By Lyon-Young Printing Co.

A. C. Gruver Points Way to Increased Profits Through Employment of Printed Word.

A. C. GRUVER.

To the business executive seeking a way out of the perplexing post-depression morass of economic difficulties, direct mail advertising, consistently followed, holds unlimited possibilities, declares A. C. Gruver, manager of the Lyon-Young Printing Company, 226-232 Luckie street, northwest.

Mr. Gruver, who came to Atlanta recently from Pittsburgh, is a man of many years' varied experience in all phases of printing, advertising and research, and his contacts with innumerable major business concerns of the nation have convinced him, he asserts, of the unquestionably profitable results to be achieved through direct mail advertising.

When a definite, clear-cut message, prepared through the application of brains, attractive type and eye-compelling color, is presented thus in easily-readable and interest-gripping form, it is certain to prove amazingly successful from a sales-developing standpoint, he declares. All these factors, he adds, are integral parts of the service rendered by the Lyon-Young Printing Company.

"The use of the printed word," Mr. Gruver points out, "is coming to be more generally recognized than ever before. For the past few years, manufacturers were somewhat reluctant in stating definitely what they had to offer in a tangible way. Starting new methods in the conduct of their business were most revolutionary—a sudden panacea to let things adjust themselves with no great expenditure on their part, to reach their former customers or to present a story of a new regime in their business or industry directly to interested individuals who are most susceptible to the persuasive power of direct mail advertising."

A great economist recently remarked: "It is surprising that so many great leaders of industry have been so completely engrossed in their own affairs in the past, but he adds, this same condition applies to every other form of advertising. He cites as examples an oil company which spotted a billboard at every strategic point along a new highway, suddenly to discover that it had no dealers in this section, and the case of a washing machine manufacturer who used double page, two-color spreads in a leading national publication, when it had dealers in but two states. He also tells of a paint manufacturer who launched an advertising campaign in a section without knowing the peculiar climatic conditions—and so on.

"In many radio programs," he states, "the printed word is the basic theme on which the success of the venture is gauged—and here we wish to state that the printing industry owes a debt of gratitude to radio, just as radio is indebted to the printing industry."

"So advertising must be flexible—all forms are essential in this day and age—but behind this whole scheme of things there must be a definite plan before a successful merchandising scheme can be hoped for."

Direct mail advertising he sums up as "salesmanship in the printed form, advertising on parade, increased sales, a thorough understanding of the results to be accomplished with 'truth in advertising' the predominant factor."

personnel being an adult, most of them married men, whose reputations and whose security depends largely upon the efficiency with which he carries out his duties. These men undergo a thorough training for their jobs, at the house of Mr. Crumbley, and then are sent out in teams of four. Their work is checked by supervisors, thus giving the advertiser an added assurance that his advertising properly reaches the hands of the consumer.

Every man in the Crumbley organization is hand-picked and carefully trained for the job of distribution. Knowing the fallacies of youth, Mr. Crumbley does not use boys for distribution work, every member of his personnel being an adult, most of them married men, whose reputations and whose security depends largely upon the efficiency with which he carries out his duties. These men undergo a thorough training for their jobs, at the house of Mr. Crumbley, and then are sent out in teams of four. Their work is checked by supervisors, thus giving the advertiser an added assurance that his advertising properly reaches the hands of the consumer.

Every piece of advertising matter distributed by the Crumbley organization must be of high standard and must represent a firm of unquestionable character. No matter of questionable merit is distributed.

The business house contemplating house-to-house distribution of advertising matter of any kind is invited to confer with Mr. Crumbley on his problem of distribution, and estimates on any job will be given without cost. Mr. Crumbley points out, in this connection, that his highly specialized service permits the selection of any given territory for coverage, eliminating any areas where distribution of advertising would be of doubtful value.

RADIATOR FAULTS ABLY CORRECTED BY QUICK SERVICE

S. J. Ireland Cites Fifteen Major Causes of Overheating; Speedy Repair Service Offered.

The advent of spring weather and the increased use of family automobiles after the cold winter months is certain in many instances to bring with it discovery of radiator defects which may have been long overlooked, declares S. J. Ireland, proprietor of the Quick Service Radiator Company, whose shop is at 210 Walton street. Chief among these troubles, Mr. Ireland points out, probably will be overheating, which may be resulting from any of 15 or more causes. The Quick Service Radiator Company is equipped and prepared to go quickly to the seat of the trouble and to remedy it, so that spring driving will be a pleasure rather than a constant worry over performance.

Mr. Ireland lists the 15 major causes of overheating radiators as follows:

1. Air passages reduced due to freezing or high steam pressure.
2. Inside of radiator coated with lime rust or anti-leak dope.
3. Tubes or water passages clogged with sediment.
4. Tubes or fins pinched, dented or bent.
5. Air passages stopped with mud or insects.
6. Radiator covered with heavy paint or enamel.
7. Water too low to permit circulation.
8. Shutters not opening far enough.
9. License plates covering part of radiator.
10. Hose collapsing or reducing circulation.
11. Thermostat not functioning.
12. Fan belt or belt slipping.
13. Pump impeller not turning.
14. Pump packing worn and sucking air at high speed.
15. Motor out of time or carburetor not properly adjusted.

The Quick Service Radiator Company is completely equipped to remedy any of these defects, as well as to render a highly specialized repair service on all types of radiators. Mr. Ireland, himself a man of more than two decades of experience in the correction of radiator faults, is assisted by men of thorough knowledge of this important phase of automotive performance.

The shop, Mr. Ireland points out, is prepared also to handle every kind of radiator construction or rebuilding.

In addition, the Quick Service Radiator Company is an authorized service station for McCord radiators, for the past 28 years standard equipment on all the leading makes of cars, trucks and trailers.

McCord radiators, Mr. Ireland points out, enjoy a wide reputation for efficient cooling, their manufacture having resulted many years ago from long and careful study by engineers, coupled with quality workmanship. The McCord, he states, was the original continuous fin, tubular-type radiator, produced in 1907.

Keep the Quick Service Radiator Company in mind, when overheating or other radiator faults show up give this long established shop a call.

1 DAY'S WORK
—a Month—
That's very little to give to the protection of your family, or for an old age income. Surely your future security is worth that much! Only 1 Day's Work a Month! Ask us how much life insurance you could own, by paying only 1 day's salary every month. Mail coupon or phone for free booklet.

LUTHER E. ALLEN
General Agent
The Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co.
300-04 Peachtree Arcade
Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia
Without cost or obligation, please send me your booklet, "EARNED LEISURE."

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____

COAL
Red Banner Block $7.00
Red Banner Egg 6.75
Run of Mine 6.00
Nut and Slack 5.25
Red Banner Washed Stoker Coal 5.50
(NONE BETTER)
HORNE COAL COMPANY
MA. 1700
504 Glenn St., S. W.
927 Wylie St., S. E.
Prompt, Careful Service

When You Have TIRE BATTERY Trouble
CALL BILL TODD
323 Spring St., N. W.
WA. 8350
DISTRIBUTOR FOR McClaren
A SUCCESSFUL, MADE-IN-THE-SOUTH TIRE, COVER, TUBES, WHEELS
HAVE YOUR WORN TIRES RETREADED
(Factory method)

ELLIS ROOFING
GENUINE RU-BER-OID
ROOFS
RIGHT FOR OVER 40 YEARS
APPLIED BY Ellis Roofing Company
686 Greenwood Ave., N. E.
HE. 1131

for BETTER ENVELOPES Quicker!
Call Main 3370
CATLANTA Envelope COMPANY
505-11 STEWART AVE., S. W.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

SPECIAL CLUB STEAK 55c
Includes French Fried Potatoes and Lettuce Salad Kola and Butter
TRY ONE TODAY
Our Famous Juicy Steaks Cut From Government Graded U. S. CHOICE STEER
MAJESTIC RESTAURANT
Peachtree at Tenth St.

Carefully Selected
STOCKS and BONDS
Complete Investment Services
ODD LOTS—FULL LOTS
Margin Accounts carried on a conservative basis
INVESTMENT INFORMATION SERVICE
Investment Information and Advisory Service and Financial Library available to clients without cost or obligation. Close, interested co-operation in the sound handling and development of Investment Funds.
Always get our quotations and recommendations before buying or selling securities of any kind.
GRANT AND COMPANY
61 Forsyth St., N. W., Atlanta, Ga. Telephone MAin 1181

MORE BUSINESS THROUGH
WALTER W. BROWN PUBLISHING CO.
WE PRINT ANYTHING THAT CAN BE PRINTED
WA. 7272-73-74 223 COURTLAND ST., N. E.
PRINTING

ERNEST G. BEAUDRY
Authorized Dealer
169-175 Marietta St., N. W. JA. 0445
Est. 1916
HIGHEST QUALITY FUEL OIL 24-HOUR SERVICE
FOR ALL MAKES OF OIL BURNERS
WE ARE JOBBERS FOR AMERICAN OIL COMPANY PRODUCTS NATIONAL PRODUCTS OIL CO.
1610 MARIETTA, N. W. RE. 1000

FOUR STAR PERFORMANCE
Thru the Media of Direct Mail Advertising
LYON-YOUNG PRINTING COMPANY
226-232 Luckie Street - Jackson 3428
★With Apologies to Liberty Magazine in their Review of Current Pictures★

THOS. F. RYBERT & COMPANY
RULING BINDING PRINTERS RULING BINDING
311-313 EDGEWOOD AVE. JA. 3317 ATLANTA, GEORGIA

COATS — SUITS — DRESSES
(Thousands of new Spring styles—received daily—in all the most wanted materials. Popular prices.)
SOUTHERN GARMENT CO., Inc.
110-114 MITCHELL ST., S. W. ATLANTA, GA.

EAST POINT CHEVROLET CO.
NEW CARS — USED CARS
"Every Office Aid — for Every Kind of Trade"
PRINTING LITHOGRAPHING OFFICE SUPPLIES BINDING LOOSE LEAF SYSTEMS FILING SUPPLIES
JOHN H. HARLAND COMPANY
Offices and Retail Store 8 PRYOR STREET
Manufacturing Dept. HIGHLAND AT JACKSON

Mr. Merchant
You can reach every home in Atlanta direct at small cost with CRUMBLEY delivered circulars.
Phone WA. 2480
LET US FIX 'EM
Quick Service Radiator Co.
205-10 Walton St., S. W. JA. 1800

FOOTE & DAVIES CO.
PRINTING LITHOGRAPHING ENGRAVING BRIEFS FORMS
PHONE WA. 4600
OFFICE SUPPLIES
PLANT AT CAPITOL AND MILTON AVES., S. W.
15 EDGEWOOD AVE., S. W.

ORIGINAL Waffle Shop
MONDAY NIGHT SPECIAL 30c
Roast Chicken and Choice of Two Vegetables, Hot Biscuits and Drink
62 PRYOR, N. E.
JUST BELOW CANDLEY BLDG. ATLANTA, GA.
OPEN ALL NIGHT

Ragsdale Motor Co., Inc.
(In Business 11 Years)
AUTHORIZED Ford DEALER
TRUCKS and PARTS
Ford Experts for All Repairs
Complete Line of Used Cars
BEFORE BUYING CALL FOR DEMONSTRATION
CA. 2136-37
318-20 NORTH MAIN ST. EAST POINT

Funeral Notices

WHITTER—Died Sunday, Mrs. S. M. Whitter, at the residence of son, J. M. Whitter, 3379 Co. avenue, Hapeville. Besides her she is survived by two granddaughters, Miss Annie Claude Whitter, Mrs. Elizabeth Gooden.

Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Sanders; grand John Daniel Hyden, of Birmingham; Arrangements announced by Williams' Funeral Home.

PEARSON—The friends and relatives of Miss A. T. (Aunt Dora) Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. V. Mrs. Esther Avery, Miss L. Lilly, Mr. and Mrs. Emory T.

son, Mr. Marcus Lilly, Mr. J. H. Lilly and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lilly are invited to attend the funeral of Miss A. T. (Aunt Docia) Lilly on this (Monday) afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 1015 Chattanooga avenue, East P. Rev. W. A. Duncan will officiate. Interment Indian Creek cemetery.

ERRITT—The friends and tives of Mr. Charles Wilburn ritt, Mrs. Martha Merritt, Mr.
Mrs. R. W. Ash, Cleveland,
Mrs. J. R. Earle, Walhalla, S. are invited to attend the funeral

Mr. Charles Wilburn Merritt (Monday) afternoon, February 1935, at 2 o'clock (eastern time) from the Cleveland M. E. church, Cleveland, Ga. Rev. J. M. C. will officiate. The funeral cortege will leave from Peachtree Church, 860 Peachtree street, N. E., on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial

Bond-Condon.
WHITE—Died, Mrs. Clarissa I. White, at 784 Clemont drive, N. February 24, 1935. She is survived by a son, Mr. Fred W. W. Jacksonville; stepson, Mr. G. White, Broughton, Mass.; daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. E. White, Santa; granddaughters Miss garet K. White and Miss F. White, Atlanta; grandson, Sterling E. White, Atlanta; nephews, Mr. Percy W. Keith, N. Middleborough, Mass., and Harry E. Macomber, Boston, Mass. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Brandon-Bond, 860 Peachtree St., N. E.

ESKEW—The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Eskew, and Mrs. J. W. Eskew, Mr. Mrs. L. T. Eskew, Miss Grace Eskew, Mr. J. W. Eskew Jr., Mr. Mrs. C. L. Eskew and Mrs. T. Whitehead, all of Atlanta, are invited to attend the funeral of Walter Pone Eskew this (Mon-morning, February 25, 1935, at 10 o'clock from the chapel of A. J. & Lowndes. Dr. W. H. Knight, Rev. D. J. Fant will officiate. Following pallbearers are requested to assemble at the residence, Beecher street, 10:30: Messrs L. Sanders, B. W. Duncan, J. Howard, A. B. Drumb, Tom L.

ARLIXON—The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Arlixon, Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Arlixon and family, Baton Rouge, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carlylon, Washington, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. G.

Carlson and Mrs. Frances Pasch, Jacksonville, are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. Edward S. Carlson this (Monday) morning, February 25, 1935, at 11 o'clock from Peachtree Chapel, 860 Peachtree St., N. E. Rev. F. C. Madge will officiate. Interment West View cemetery. The foling gentlemen will serve as bearers and please meet at chapel at 10:45 a. m.: Mr. I. Cassels, Mr. W. A. Fleming, T. P. Cornell, Mr. Barry T. Mr. H. F. Upshaw and Mr. Hunt. Brandon-Bond-Condon.

ARROLL—The friends of Mr. Mrs. W. S. Carroll Mr. and

George Mathieson, of Atlanta; and Mrs. Hubert K. Cowan, K
ville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. R
C. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Pau
Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. roll, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs.
D. Carroll, Farmington, Mi
Mrs. Alice Smith, Mr. and Mr
H. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. J.

Wellborn, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. Pounds, of Ocoee, Fla.; Mr. Mrs. Robert T. Carroll, Miss May Jones, the grandchildren, members of Sardis Lodge, F. & M., are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. William Spencer Carroll this (Monday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, February 25, 1935, at the church of Antioch.

the chapel in Awtry & Lower
Rev. B. F. Fraser and Rev. H.
Jones will officiate. Follow nephews will serve as pallbear
Messrs. John T., Dudley, Paul
Cland, Robert and George Car
Interment Greenwood cemetery.

Engraved Promptly—Samples Sent
J. F. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO
Walnut 6870 103 Peachtree

PRIVATE LOANS
On Diamonds, Watches and Jewelry
W. M. LEWIS & CO.
4TH FLOOR PETERS BLDG.

PAY CASH AND SAVE
DAFFODIL FLOWER SHOP
COR. NORTH AVE. & JUNIPER ST.
Floral Offerings Artistically Arranged

TEL. JACKSON 8538

(COLORED)

COLE—Mrs. Lillie B. Cole passed away in Pikeville, Ky. Funeral pronounced later. Cox Bros. Co.

JOSEPH—The funeral of Mr. W. Joseph will be announced later.
C. Tompkins.

WARREN—Mr. Jesse Warren passed away at his residence February 1. Funeral announced later.
Bros. Co.

OPER—The friends and relatives

Mrs. Henry Cooper are invited to attend the funeral services of Luther H. Cooper today (Monday) at 2 o'clock from Big Bethel A. E. church. Rev. O. M. Sims, Rev. G. H. Williams officiate. Interment Chestnut Hill. David Howard & Co.

MARTIN—Friends and relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Martin are invited to attend the funeral of Miss Rosa Martin, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Martin Jr. and family, Mr. and Mrs. Florence Frazier, Miss C. E. Frazier and Mr. George W. W. and family are invited to attend the funeral of Mrs. E. M. Martin.

(COLORED)
In Memoriam.

memory of our dear father who alone one year ago today, February
4. Gone but not forgotten.
MISS PALACE SPIVEY,
MRS. JOHNNIE MAE OWEN
MRS. EVELYN STROZIER, Daughter